

was the necessity of intermitting the customary session of the normal school in town, for the rains. At the Association held in February, the dastors and delegates appropriated Rs. 300 of their own contributions, towards the support of a high school, to be established at an important place in the jungles. I understand that the proposed school is now in vigorous operation, the pastor of the church in that place, Ka-noogyee, receiving most of the pupils who come from abroad, into his own house, and exercising general supervision of everything connected with the school, while the Mau Shway, a recent graduate of the Seminary, has become the principal teacher, a position for which he is eminently qualified.

Thus it would seem, the disciples in Henthada are by no means losing heart. Still they feel desolate. One ordained pastor wrote a day or two ago, in the following strain—"When I used to see you in Henthada, during my occasional visits there, I had great joy. Then you were removed to Rangoon, and I have just been to Henthada. I saw the place occupied by teacher Thomas left vacant; teacher Smith, too, was no longer there, and my heart was filled with sadness, and I sent up my desires to God. Then I bowed my knees and lifted up my eyes, and prayed that God would put it into the hearts of the ministers and the people of God in America to send a teacher to be here in Henthada also, and in my heart I felt the desire that teacher Smith might continue to be associated with us."

Theological Seminary in Rangoon.—Though I have thus far written only of Henthada, you must not suppose that the whole of my heart is still with the dear disciples there. Though not in a position of such diversified usefulness as before, and though not without lets even within this restricted sphere, yet the two large classes with one of which I spend two hours daily, and with the other one hour, afford promising material upon which to spend my time, my efforts and my prayers, and I can truly say my whole heart is with this work and in it. Pray that the Holy Spirit may guide and bless the efforts of the teachers in this school, to train a ministry for the churches of Christ.—Missionary Mag. Nov. 1869.

STEAM FOR STREET-CARS.—The City Passenger Railway Company of Montreal are about to try a new method of propelling their carriages by steam-engines which consume their own smoke and are noiseless. It is proposed to propel the car by an engine under its floor, the boilers being an upright pillar on each platform. This does away with the dummy-engine to which objections have been made.

Nov. 8—Late advices from South America say that the Volcano Panchoco, in the State of Canca, about twenty miles from the capital, burst forth with terrific violence, at midnight on the 4th ult., vomiting immense quantity of smoke flame, sulphur and ashes. A short time after the eruption the River Canca was observed to rise very high, bringing down the dead officers, men, and animals in great numbers.

The sehr. W. H. Cleara, from Nassau, arrived at Key West on Thursday morning with 120 men, who were taken from the Cuban steamer Lilhan. She was captured by the English authorities at Nassau, while at anchor in the harbor. The vessel was said to be badly damaged and condemned as unfit for service.

The little ship Constitution left New York last week for Londonderry, with five men and two Newfoundland dogs on board. The Constitution is 23 feet in length and 8 tons burthen.

The evidence taken in the Hornet case seems to leave no doubt, in a legal view, that she was a Cuban privateer, and furnished with arms and men from the United States. The vessel will, probably, be permanently detained and the officers held to bail for violating the neutrality laws. It is published in Washington that the Cuban Junta accuse Captain Higgins of treachery, and disavow the story that the Junta selected him.

The Queen opened the new bridge and viaduct on Saturday last, with state ceremonies. Crowds of people thronged the streets, and the houses in the neighborhood were gaily decorated.

DR. LIVINGSTONE.—A special news letter, dated at Zanzibar on the 9th of September, states that the writer had pleasure in conveying the information that on the day previous letters had been received by the British Consul at that place from Dr. Livingstone, the explorer. The communications were dated to the 8th day of August 1868. Dr. Livingstone was in good health. He spent the year previous exploring the section of the country lying south of Tanganyika lake, which he found to contain many small springs or inner lake fountains, which he claims to be the true sources of the river Nile.

Dr. Livingstone states that he had heard that two different instalments of supplies had reached Ujiji from Zanzibar for his use, but they had been received at a time previous to his arrival there, so as to have them early, and thus render them beneficial. In these letters he requests that further supplies of necessaries be despatched to him, including nautical instruments and copies of English almanacs for the year 1869 and 1870. This fact indicates, it is supposed, that the Doctor purposes remaining in the country for a lengthy period of time, more particularly as he has given no idea of his intention for the future, and has not mentioned at what place or point of the territory he purposes to come out on his journey homeward. The letters are written on small scraps of paper which Dr. Livingstone begged from the Arabs, who conveyed the written documents to the coast for transmission to England.

BRONCHITIS.

MR. JAMES I. FELLOWS

Sir,—In the winter of 1846 I was afflicted with a severe attack of Bronchitis, and altho' our Doctors were very attentive, and used all the means in their power, they failed to afford me much relief. Hearing of your Hypophosphites and Cod Liver Oil, I procured a bottle, and found no benefit from that. I then obtained a bottle of your Compound Syrup, and took it until it made a permanent cure.

Respectfully yours,
MENDAL CROCKER.

DIGBY.—The terminal examination of the pupils of the Digby Academy, came off on Wednesday last, 27th Oct., in the presence of several visitors. The results we learn were gratifying to all concerned. And show that the Academy during the past term has been in a prosperous condition. The pupils of the different departments, (four in number) showed unmistakable evidence of progress in their several studies, reflecting credit on themselves and exhibiting the good fruits of that diligence and emulation which a good system of instruction invariably creates. The subjects of examination in the High School Department were Reading, English, Analysis, General Geography, British History, Roman History, Botany, Algebra, Geometry, French and Latin, in all of which subjects, the answers elicited were admirably correct and suggestive.

The subjects in the other Departments comprised Reading, Arithmetic, English Grammar, Elements of English History, Spelling, &c., on all of which the pupils displayed intelligence and proficiency. The County Academies of the Province are doing and are destined to do a great work for the rising generation—a work which must always be regarded as a necessary link in the chain of general enlightenment and civilization. The next term of the Academy commences on Monday, the 8th inst.

A friend who was travelling in Germany, reports the following incident, for which he vouches: During the summer, Dr. J. C. Ayer spent some weeks at Dresden, in conference with the chemists of Central Europe, where he was heralded as the inventor of the world renowned medicines that bear his name, and considered one day, his open carriage fell in with the cortege of the King of Saxony, on a drive from the review. The Doctor soon became the chief attraction and received the marked attention of the people, who were even more demonstrative in their courtesies to him than to the King himself whom they see so constantly. King John, observing this, wrapped his military cloak around him and reclined upon his seat, while our great American medicine man did the honors for the royal retinue, graciously bowing, hat in hand, on every side, until wearied by his excessive condescension to this old monarch's people.
