STARTING PLANTS IN THE HOUSE.

Before long many of our readers will be thinking about sowing seeds of tomatoes, egg-plants, and the like, so that they may get them forward early, and have the comfort of them in advance of the general public. Perhaps a few suggestions that may help them to a more full realization of their wishes will be acceptable to most of our readers.

And first a word of caution. In the great eagerness to get the plants forward very early, it is a common mistake to begin too soon. In our climate it is not generally safe to plant out tomato plants in the open ground before the tenth of June, lest they be caught ty some late nipping frost, and the care and labor of weeks be cut down in a single night. It will be found, then, to be quite early enough to sow the seed about the twentieth of March, which is some eighty days before they can be planted out, and quite enough to make fine, large, strong plants.

The seed should be sown in light friable soil, and placed in some sunny window. If there be any such window in the kitchen it will be the very best room in the house for the box of seeds, for the reason that the air is more full of moisture than that of any other. In a few days the seeds will begin to grow, and the plants in all probability stand quite too thick together. They should be carefully thinned out, so as to give each plant plenty of room without crowding its neighbour.

The plants may be allowed to remain in the box until the weather will admit of their being removed to a cold frame, where they can be planted out in the soil, or potted off into separate pots, and protected from chilly storms and night frosts by a few boards, and freely exposed to the sun and air in pleasant weather.

A box may be very rapidly divided into compartments with strips of common pasteboard, and one plant be set in each separate division. This will be found very convenient in transplanting, as each plant can be taken out with its own ball of earth about the roots, without in the least disturbing its growth.

Water when the soil needs water, but not oftener, and use tepid water. Give plenty of light, and when the weather is mild enough, set the box out for a few hours in the open air on the sunny side of the house, until the plants can be safely placed in the cold frame.

The cold frame is merely a wall of boards, such as is placed on a hotbed to protect the plants, which may be placed in some warm, sunny spot, and be covered with boards when needed to protect the plants from storm or

In our climate the weather is usually mild enough to allow of the plants being placed in such a frame about the first of May, and if they have been freely exposed to light and air, they will be stocky and healthy. Here they will continue to grow, not rapidly, but gradually increasing in size and strength until the weather will admit of their being placed in the open ground. Treated in this way, any one of them will be worth a hundred long drawn, puny, sickly things that have been grown in heat and crowd .- Can. Far.

MUSIC FOR THE FARM.

To some the heading of this article may seem superfluous. Music, in their opinion, not wanted on the To such I would say, why not on the farm, as well as in the mechanic's home? We all know that the middle or mechanic classes of England, France and Germany, especially the latter, are the very best performers, as a rule, and always attend most regularly at musical gatherings.

If a choir is wanted, it is of little use to expect that the more affluent class will do much towards forming its vocal or instrumental members. They may, it is true, buy, or assist in buying the instruments, but as to relying on them to form a choir for church or other purposes, it would never succeed. They will not attend regularly, or give the required attention to it, and often have not the talent if they would.

Why, then, should the farmer and his family be debarred a musical instrument, and the cultivation of musical talent, more than others of the same class, who so much delight in it? I am very much of opinion that all deprivation of such innocent household enjoyments as productive of anything but a love of home. The musical faculty, especially, is a talent-often lavished on the poor and denied to the rich. How often do we hear a little uneducated boy in the streets whistling some new tune which he probably has heard only once or twice, or singing at the top of his voice some new popular song, heard only once at some circus or other place of amusement. I say that such musical talent is God's gift, and falls at least as often to the lot of the poor as the rich; and one reason for this is the rugged health such people usually possess-which is of itself a great assistant; and for this gift, combined with a healthy constitution, we ought to be most thankful. And where it exists, I say, shame on the man who says music is not wanted on the farm .- Cor. of Canada Farmer.

FECUNDITY OF DUCKS AND HENS.

Some interesting experiments have recently been made upon the comparative fecundity of ducks and hens, so as to determine from which of the two the larger number of eggs can be obtained in the same time. For this purpose three hens and three ducks were selected, all hatched in February, and nourished with suitable food. In the following autumn the ducks laid 225, while the hens laid none. In the next February, the laying season began again with the ducks, and continued uninteruptedly till August. They showed no inclination to set, but became very thin, although they afterward fattened up somewhat. The total number of eggs laid by the hens 56 minutes later. At Westport, 2 hours 54 amounted to 257, or 86 eggs each, and minutes later. At Yarmouth, 2 hours 20 min- as a reliable and valuable medicine. 392, or 131 each for the ducks. Although the eggs of the ducks were rather smaller than those of the hens, yet they proved to be decidedly superior in nutritive material, so that the superiority in productiveness appears to be decidedly with the ducks.

BOILING FISH .- Ten minutes to every pound of fish is a fair average; if large and thick, a few minutes longer; cover close; simmer rather than boil; take out immediately when done. A fresh cod, of four or five pounds, takes about twenty minutes to boil. Never put the fish in till the water is boiling hot. Salt fiish should never boil for a moment, as it makes it hard; it should lie in scalding water two or three hours, and then be allowed to simmer, and the less water you use, and the longer it simmers, the better it will be. The fish is done when the meat is easily detached from the bones.

FRYING FISH .- Never put your fish in the pan till the fat is boiling hot. Always cut your pork small, and don't try it out, or otherwise cook it too fast, as it will loose much of its sweetness. Score the fish and roll them in flour before laying them in the sparkling fat. In using lard, a tablespoonful of salt to a pound is a fair average.

BROILING FISH .- Wipe your fish, and use as little water in cleaning it as possible. Put the inside of the fish to the fire first. Mix thoroughly in a dish a teaspoonful of salt and pepper with about four ounces of butter, and melt it. When your fish is done, turn each piece over and over in the butter; cover the dish, and keep it hot till ready to serve.

CORN-MEAL FRITTERS .- Beat three eggs very light; then mix them with a pint of milk, a teaspoon of salt, and enough yellow meal to make a thin batter with a large spoon, and fry each side brown; when done, put them in some dish where the fat on them can drip off.

LIVER AND KIDNEY BROCHET .--Split the kidney(if of beef)lengthways in four equal parts; then cut them crossways into pieces about half an inch thick. If they are of smaller animals, cut them crossways only, and in all cases remove the fat and the stringy parts; then cut your liver and salt pork as near as may be of a size and thickness of the pieces of kidney; put a piece of kidney on a skewer or stiff piece of wire, then a piece of pork, then a piece of kidney, and so on till the skewer of wire is full; press them well together; bake them in an oven with the ends of the skewers resting on the edge of tin dish. Either kidney or liver alone with pork is just as good.

Counting acres, taking mortgages, going over stock, and calculating interest, will not answer the question, " How rich is a man?" He is rich or poor according to what he is, not according to what he has.
