May the example of the noble sisterhood of the past, whom we have so imperfectly reviewed, animate us, and their spirit of love bind us all together with strong and lasting bonds.

THE SCOTCH STATE CHURCH.

It is supposed by many that the English State Church is almost alone in the manifestation of pomp and grandeur by its dignitaries, but it appears from a correspondent of the National Baptist that the plain Presbyterians make some shew in their great Assemblies in Scotland. He, Mr. David Young, writes from Glasgow on the 30th of May:

THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY. On the 18th of May the Lord High Commissioner's coach was in good repair, as well as the whole machinery of the annual procession from Holyrood to St. Giles's; from which it is evident that the "Kirk" admits the Queen to be a judge in religion, and to have a right to append the teal of her authority to one form of Christianity in preference to others, and to employ the power with which she invested to effectuate her own decree. As " it is a shame for a woman to speak in the Church," the Queen sends in her stead the Lord High Commissioner. To render service-to Christianity, there was a display, on the 18th of May, of uniforms, cocked ing plethoric and red faced gentlemen. To enhance the glory of the "Kirk," the presence of a detachment of Scots Greys formed a part of the great pageant of the day, and gave an unusual brilliancy to the occasion. The State carriage of the Lord High Commissioner was drawn by six splendid horses, and several officers attended his Grace. On arriving from Holyrood at St. Giles's church, the Lord High Commissioner proceeded to the royal pew, in the front gallery, and services were conducted by the Rev. Dr. Ritchie, the retiring Moderator, who preached from 1st Timothy iii. 16: "Great is the mystery of godliness." The Assembly afterwards repaired to the Assembly Hall. As a rumor had been circulated, far and wide, to the effect that the nomination of Mr. Stevenson, as the Moderator, was to be opposed by Mr. Story, of Roseneath, long before the arrival of the retiring Moderator, Dr. Ritchie, the benches on both sides of the chair, where sit the fathers, and the cross benches and other benches, where the brethren repose, were well filled; and the galleries, us well for "season-ticket-holders," as for ladies and the public. were crowded.

When Dr. Ritchie was offering prayer, the guns of Edinburgh Castle, as if vocal with the praise of the connection between the Church and the State, were shaking the windows of the Assembly Hall. Here was a fine blending of the province of the civil magistrate with the province of the Church! He who could have called in the aid of more than twelve legions of angels, and to whom all power was given in heaven and in the earth, sent forth his disciples not to subjugate or coerce, but to make Christians of all nations. In renouncing temporal dominion, our Lord declared that his kingdom is not of this world. His plea, when on his trial for treason, amounted to a renunciation of all secular coercion,—all forcible measures in behalf of his religion. As we, as Christians, ought to submit to the powers ordained of God, and also are commanded by our Master to hold fast our faith in disobedience to the commands of civic rulers, it is manifest that the province of the civil magistrate is limited to secular Commissioner, therefore, to be present at the General Assembly, and in virtue of his authority, as the Queen's Commissioner, "to provide that whatsoever is transacted" in the Assembly "be according to the mind of God," the Queen is not acting on Christian principles, but is rather ceasing to act on them. In coalescing with civil government, the Church of Scotland is contracting defilement. Can the pay and the patronage of a State, whose operative character is unsanctified promote the interests of a spiritual community, whose character is holiness?

THE FREE CHURCH UNION DEBATE

attracted a crowd of Free Church friends. The hall was filled almost to suffocation. The successors of the ladies of the covenant have not abjured the pomps and vanities of gay clothing. A thousand fair eyes showered down glances on the combatants below. Odors of aromatic vinegar floated across the arena, and fans waved in the floating air. A lady might be seen with jewelled fingers doing crochet work. Opera glasses were kindly passed from hand to hand. The cathedral tinted windows bathed the assembly in a mellow light. The moderator, who occupied the chair in court dress, was supported on either side by the antique figures of venerable fathers. The uncombed representatives of Highland Presbyteries, summoned by fiery cross to follow their spiritual chieftains to the death, were

We are reliably informed that Prof. R. V. Jones of Acadia College has declined the invitation extended to him by the New Brunswick Baptist Education Society to take charge of the Frederiction Seminary. While we believe the friends of the College heartily sympathise with the New Brunswick Baptist Education Society in their efforts to secure a thoroughly efficient Principal for their institution, and acknowledge the wisdom of their selection, they will be gratified to be informed that Acadia College is not to lose the services of Professor Jones. Had his well known zeal and sympathy for Academic education induced him to accept the invitation extended, the College would undoubtedly receive year by year a good number of well-qualified students from the Frederiction Seminary, -students, by the way, which ought now to be regularly entering the College. On the other hand, the Governors of the College would have been under the necessity of offering the important chair of Classics to some gentleman who, whatever his advantages of collegiate training, would have needed several years of special study to acquire that calm and unobtrusive command of knowledge hats, wigs, and hackney-coaches, contain- peculiar to the experienced educator. Saunders, E. M. Louble the period now required for the mastery of the whole College course would be necessary to place a successor, even though possessed of Prof. Jones' acknowledged abilities for classical acquisition, on a level with his predecessor in special attainments. We trust that the time is not far distant when the | 1871 Governors of the College will be in a position adequately to remunerate the self-denying labors of our College Pro-

> The Rev. Wm. Sommerville, a highly esteemed minister of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, some time since sent us a very well written and favorable review of Dr. Carson's book on the heresies of the Plymouth Brethren. Our beloved brother Rev. S. T. Rand, the devoted Missionary to the Indians, offered some criticisms on said review and made objections to the book. From this a somewhat extended correspondence has followed, and some pretty sharp things have been said between them which might perhaps have been better unsaid. As both writers are ministers of many years stand ing, and extensively and favorably known throughout the province, we have not undertaken to interpose our judgment, and refuse insertion to their communications, believing that our readers would be able to exercise their own opinions respecting the statements made. We thought the matter was brought to a close by the communications in a previous issue of the Messenger, but we have received one more since from Mr. S. which will be found in another column. We could have wished this somewhat modified in some of its terms.

We think the matter has now been sufficiently ventilated, and shall so regard it, unless some strong reason to concerns. In sending down the Lord High | the contrary shall appear why any further expression should be given.
