Mission Work .- We are glad to see that a number of the sisters of the St. John, N. B. Baptist Churches have been doing a similar work to that of our sisters in Halifax and other places in this province-preparing a box of clothing for one of our missionary sisters. The Visitor speaks in the following commendatory terms of the effort.

OUR MISSION BOX .- The sisterhood of the Baptist churches of this City, Carleton and Portland, have been forging a link, the past four or five weeks-a link that was needed to make the chain of united effort complete. 'The commingling and coworking in this Mission work, has been productive of the best of feeling, and the Master of assemblies has, undoubtedly, blessed the union—thus our Mission Box has accomplished a Home, as well as a Foreign Work. It would sometimes seem, that the strict independency of our Baptist organizations acts against our united efforts; but we have certainly proved, we may found a Sisterhood, whose object shall be fraternization; and, as an outgrowth, our hearts shall be ters, and we may come from our various tribes with onr handiwork, it may be a mental offering-it may be, we shall find a need supplied, or a need we can supply."

The box of clothing for Miss Norris was sent off yesterday by the Nestorian for Liverpool to be shipped thence for Bassein via Rangoon. The case is lined with tin and securely soldered, and we whelmed with the event. He was sitting hope it many reach its destination without delay or injury. The five styles in which the book is got up will meet all the necessities of the different ages and classes who may require the book for the uses of public worship. The Hymn and Tune Book contains a choice selection of music, old and new, printed in fine bold type. Every description of metre in the book is supplied with its appropriate tune, in all 320, an ample variety for all occasions. By this means a congregation that adopts this book, if they adhere invariably to the tune appropriated to the hymn, may all join inteligibly with the choir in singing the parts suited to their voice, and so the full advantage be received by all.
