

from 1 Chron. xxix. 5, "Who then is willing to consecrate his service this day unto the Lord?"

Both services were well attended; the house being crowded in the afternoon, and deep impressions were made on the minds of the hearers, which we trust will be permanent, and issue in the salvation of some souls.

The Conference on a previous Saturday was very cheering, the brethren and sisters realizing in a good degree the presence of the Master with them.

This little church has been erected without a bazaar or tea-meeting, and is now finished and out of debt. In its erection but little has been gathered outside of themselves; for what assistance has been rendered the friends at Pleasantville desire to tender to the donors their sincere thanks.

It stands as a memorial of what a few earnest persons can do by perseverance, and in dependence on Divine aid. The house is plain but neat and commodious, and will seat about 250 persons. The choir is arranged on raised seats at the right of the pulpit, which is a modern desk erected on a platform about 2 feet above the level of the floor—the left side being arranged in like manner for the hearers. Its dimensions are 32 x 42 feet. It has neither spire nor lobby. It is an ornament to the neighborhood, and reflects credit on the builder, Mr. Eisenhaur, of North West. We trust that this house will prove to be the birth place of many souls, and that hereafter it may be said of not a few, "This and that man were born there."

REV. W. C. RIDEOUT writes:—"I wish through the Messenger to inform my friends of Tusket, Yarmouth County, that it will not be in my power to visit them this winter. I have had much affliction in my family for the last two years, and last March I lost my dwelling house by fire with the greatest part of the contents, there being no insurance placed me in circumstances which prevents me from complying with their request at present. I remain, as ever, Your friend, W. C. RIDEOUT.

SACKVILLE.—Rev. H. Morrow wrote, December 16th, "I had the privilege of baptizing two here yesterday. We are a small band with a good deal of discouragement, but yet we have from time to time tokens of the Divine favor."

having a key to the safe. The trial of Nelson was concluded a few days ago. The jury failed to agree as to the nature of the crime. It was a case without a precedent and they were unable to decide whether he was guilty of burglary or grand larceny in thus stealing business secrets.
