FOREIGN MISSION

LETTER FROM MISS NORRIS. BASSEIN, Feb. 18, 1872.

REV. J. M. CRAMP.

Dear Sir,-The first weeks since my last writing were filled with School work, made more arduous by the absence of Mr. and Mrs. 'Carpenter. They left us on the third of January. on their way to America, via Siam and China. Near the close of the month, the measles making their appearance among us, we thought it advisable to close the School for two or three weeks, to come together again after the Association. This gave me some days for jungle work, in the most pleasant season for visiting the people.

On the third inst., I left w th our head female teacher, one of the school girls, two Karen and two Burmah boatmen. We visited nine villages. The first village I reached I called as usual all the women and girls to meet me in the chapel at noon, their most leisure time. After our prayer meeting many lingered behind, some from curiosity, some to talk of their heartlife. "What is the reason," said one, "I have doubts in my heart so often ? Sometimes my religion makes me happy, and I love to pray; but other times when I pray my heart goes here and there, and I have to try hard not to forget that I am praying. Do you think I can be a Christian, when my heart wavers so ?"-"When our friends backslide and bring disgrace on religion, what ought we to do ?" said another, "My brother went to Rangoon, and graduated, and we thought he would be a pastor, and bring glory to Christ; but he has come back and gone away among the heathen, and follows their practices, and my heart is sad, so sad I cannot tell you. If we say anything to him, he has studied the Bible and understands it better than we do, but he does not love God's ways, and he wants to do only what will please his own heart. I pray for him all the time; will God hear me ? In another village a young woman just married lingered behind, and drawing near to my feet, said, " I never had a chance to study books; my mother was sickly and I never could leave her, and now I shall never be able to go to school; is there any thing I can do for Christ, when I have no knowledge ?" I spoke to her of the female prayer meeting, which you find in all Karen Christian villages, " Ob," she said, I am so ashamed when I think of praying out loud; I tremble so, and I have not a word to say." She concluded, however, to bear this cross for Christ. At one village, on Sabbath, I saw a native pastor baptize twenty-two disciples, all lately reclaimed from heathenism, and earnest-hearted, as far as decided that there is no longer any one could judge - one gray-haired occasion for personal sacrifice for the woman, many heads of families, some good of the people? However this young girls. The baptism was at noon, in a quiet river, in the midst of a large rice plain. In the afternoon the Lord's Supper was administered by the pastor | a people, those who remain will never of the Church. Away out here in the accomplish any thing deserving of heart of the jungle, the Master visits virtuous commendation.

But they did this at a terrible personal sacrifice to many gentlemen who were mainly instrumental in keeping them up. . . . The cost of Col. legiate education was reduced, through competition, to the lowest possible ratewe should say to an impossibly low rate if the Colleges were expected to be self-sustaining. Extensive private contributions had to be made for their support. This benefit to ourselves." ## CALUMNY CONTRADICTED. FREEPORT, DIGBY Co., April 20th, 1871

-On the morning of the 21st March, I went with others to the Bay Shore, it being very cold and almost a gale of wind. There was a quantity of boards on the shore and in the water. We went to countrymen who may be in distress or picking them up, although the most were broken by the violence of the sea. As it cleared a little we saw the hull of a craft which proved to be the schooner Alice T. We then stopped our work to make preparations to save the crew, if any, expecting her on shore in a short time. Presently she stopped there being a part of one chain out at the end, caught in the rocks. Saw three or four men on deck, we got a small boat which was all we had ; got oars, and what ropes we had all ready to save all we could when she came in. The sea was so
