RAILWAY ACCIDENT .- On Wednesday night an accident, that caused the destructon of a passenger car of one train, and hdly damaged the locomotive of another, cccurred at Stanford's crossing, near the Three Mile House. It appears that a train fom Kentville was approaching the depot, and some distance ahead of it was a coal train from Picton. The conductor of the Kenville train heard of the coal train at the Junction, and also at Bedford, and supposed it was far enough ahead to be out of danger. Just hefore reaching the crossing, conductor Keys, of the Kentville train, discovered the coal train ahead, and ordered the breaks to be put down. The order was obeyed, but it was too late to prevent a collision. At the rear of the coal train was a passenger car with two passengers. Into this the Kentville train iousness, Liver Comptaint, and diseases of plunged, the locomotive " telesc ping " the passenger car. The two passengers managed to jump from the car an instant before the collision, and escaped uninjured The car and loomotive remained locked together; they caught fire and the our burned up, while the locomotive was badly damaged .- Col.
