A lecture audience in Steinway Hall New York, made such disturbance on Tuesday night, that the police were called in to quiet it. They assembled to hear John B. Gough After waiting an hour past the time, one of the Mancantile Libr ry committee came on the platform and announced that Mr Gough was ill and stated that a reader was hired to give an entertainment, but this the majority would not listen to, and making a raid upon the treasurer's office, demanded their money back. The treasurer, however, had flown, and the police, who appeared on the scene, sent the crowd away with the advice to go to the library next day and make application there for their money.
