There is another important fact that goes to establish the point that there win be a drecrimination made in the resurrection, and that when the righteous rise, it will be from among the dead. Take Paul's statement, for instance, in Phil. iii. 11. "If by any means I may attain unto the resurrection of the dead." On the theory that all the human race will rise from the dead, and all rise at one and the same time, what sense can be attached to these words? But if there is to be separation made when the righteous rise, and they are brought out from among the dead, all is natural and easy to be understood. And this is really what he says The Greek is exanastasis nekron, and the passage is correctly translated-the resurrection from among the dead. This makes plain sense, whereas as it reads in the common version, it has just no significancy at all. The Bible Union renders it well, " from the dead."

In 1 Cor. xv. Christ is said to have risen ek nekron-"out of, from, the dead," nekron, the Greek word for dead, being a plural noun, i.e., an adjective with the noun understood-and meaning " the dead people." See also in Greek, Acts xvii. 31 xxvi. 23. In Acts xxiv. 15 the phraseology is different. There where both resurrections are spoken of, it is simply, anastasis nekron-"the resurrection of the dead."

See also Luke xx. 35. All the force of our blessed Lord's statement is lost unless the passage is correctly rendered and understood. "But they that shall be accounted worthy to obtain that world and the resurrection FROM THE DEAD neither marry nor are given in marriage, neither can they die any more, for they are equal unto the angels, and are the children of God, being the children of the resurrection." Both saints and sinners will "attrin to the resurrection " from a dead state, but only the children of God will be counted worthy t) attain to the resurrection from among the dead, and thus be separated from those who will be left for a season still in their graves. " Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection."-Rev. xx. 6

Let the candid reader examine care fully 1 Cor. xv. and see if there is any thing there that looks like a resurrection of the wicked, and their awful doom. Compare that deeply impressive chapter, with all its glory and blessedness, with 1 Cor. iv. 5. "Therefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, who both will bring to light the hidden things of dark ness, and will make manifest the counsels of the hearts, and then shall EVERY MAN HAVE PRAISE OF GOD." Say, can this be the great white throne where the wicked are to be condemned? "Every man here is praised, and there is " no condemnation.' Because there are evidently none present but those "who are in Christ Jesus." Rom. viii. 1.

But what about Matt. xxv. 31-40? The answer is easy. That scene grand, impressive and awful, as it is a is not in my opinion, the scene described in Rev. xx. It is not the final judgement of the great white throne, but a scene that is to take place on this earth near Jerusalem, after the Lord shall first have come into the air and called away his "church," and then shall have allowed the scenes to be transacted on this earth after that event and before the Millenium, to transpire, and when he will come with all his saints with him and will summon the living nations before him, as I find it foretold in the plainest manner by the prophet Joel, chap. iii. " For behold in those days and in that time when I shall bring again the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem, I WILL GATHER ALL NATIONS, and will bring them down into the valley of Jehoshaphat, and will plead with them there for my people, and for my heritage Israel, whom they have scattered among the nations and parted my land."

The reader may be somewhat startled at the statement that Mat. xxv. is to be the fulfilment of Joel iii. and he may have forgotten how often he has heard the state. ment that Christ is to judge the quick, that is the living as well as the dead. Before the " great white throne, no " living nations" are summoned. I saw the DEAD small and great, stand before God," the DEAD were judged. And that throne is not set up in this earth, for "the earth and heaven have fled away. And mark in Mat. xxv. there is no resurrection, that is, none is spoken of, and none in Joel iii " Add thou not to his words."

thing. If the first resurrection is spiritual then so is the second, which I suppose none will be hardy enough to maintain; but if the second is literal, so is the first, which, in common with the whole primitive church, and many of the best modern expositors, I do maintain, and receive as an article of faith and hope." (Vol. iv. pt. ii.) (as quoted by Kelly on the Revelation, page 558.)

Dear reader, study carefully your Bible. Contillation any part of itamy. The took of the prophets are your own leritageand so is the Book of Revelation." ALL Scripture." &c. See 2 Timothy iii. 16, 17 Emulate the " more noble Bereans," " who searched the Scriptures daily to see if these things were so." And let me add, " Be ye also ready, for at such an hour as ye think not the Son of Man cometh."

IN MEMORIAM.

MRS. ELIZABETH RAYMOND,

relict of the late Dea. Jonathan Raymond and daughter of the late Joseph Robbins, sen, of Chebegue, Yarmouth, died at Beaver River, Dec. 2nd, 1873, in the 89th year of her age. This aged disciple was bern in Providence, R. I. When she was 3 or 4 years old, her parents came over and settled in this county. This was in 1788 or 89 six or seven years after Henry Alline's last visit to Yarmouth and one or two years before Father Harris Harding's sincerity, "I want to be a christian." first visit. She was thus familiar with the rise and progress of the " New Lights" in this County, an eyewitness and partici- such as shall be saved. pant in the stirring scenes of the early days of the first Baptist Church, as from year to year it arose out of the confusion of the first religious awakenings, and conformed to the Apostolic model until it attained its present grand proportions.

Her conversion she dated at her twelfth year. The means used by the Holy Spirit was the late venerable T. H. Chipman: As she heard his voice lifted in thanksgiving at her Father's table she for the first time telt her need of a Saviour. Her emotions were so strong that she was obliged to leave the meal untouched, to retire to a secret place to seek the heavenly manna. This she found to her great joy. In this she rejoiced to the end of her pilgrimage. "When her heart and her flesh failed." and quite recent events in her history were forgotten, this bright spot in her life was fresh in her memory, and her love for her Deliverer as fresh. In the great Reformation of 1806, she with her late husband | Year I baptized one. Sabbath last, Feb. 1, was baptized by Father Harding. In 1816 they moved to the settlement at Beaver River, then comparatively a wilderness. To this place they brought their religion, and it comforted and guided them. By its aid they with others of their neighbors who w re like minded laid, on good principles, the foundation for the success of their posterity. In the gracious revival of 1827 in which the late Thomas Ainsley appears to have been the chief instrument, she was permitted to bear an important part. The Lord heard her prayer and brought her children to a knowledge of the truth. One of the resuls of this remarkable work of grace, in this place, was the organization of a "Total Abstinence Society," said to be the first on this continent. This took place on h 25th of April, 1828. The following is the pledge :-

"We the undersigned, firmly believing and most assuredly gathering that the use of intoxicating liquors as a beverage is ruinous to both body and soul, and to remedy this great and spreading evil, we, whose names are hereunto annexed, do forever renounce the use of such, except when prescribed by a physician as a medicine in case of sickness, and we pray Almighty God to strengthen us in this resolution."

Nearly a half century's discussion of this question has failed to produce a more perfect pledge, or to give an additional reason for its existence. This was subscribed to at this time by five of the o'dest inhabitants of this settlement. The name of the husband of our aged sister is at the head of the list, as he was the senior of the company. A few days later the women were admitted to membership. Sister R. was among the first with others of her neighbors to unite. In faith and prayer this good work was begun and perpetuated. As a rich legacy it has been bequeathed to their heirs. It is a remarkable fact that since that time the sale of intoxicating liquors has not been allowed, and even the practice of moderate drinking has been Let us then as "workers together with limited and unpopular in this community. And this the more remarkable as the principal business of the place has been upon the sea, where the young men are most exos I to the tempter. Her posterity are to be found in every sea and clime, and yet but few if any have fallen by this common enemy. Surely the seed of the righteous is blessed. She had 13 children, 87 grandchildren, 140 great grand children, and 2 great great grand child, part of whom were waiting for her in the " better land."

ST. MARGARETS' BAY .- God is blessing Rev our feeble efforts here and I begin to feel that my coming here was of Him. Some four weeks ago it became evident that God was about reviving His work, especially in connection with the 2nd Margaret's Bay Church. Wanderers came bome to their Father's house, and soon sinners were heard asking, "What shall we do to be saved ?"

Yesterday we had the pleasure of visiting the baptismal waters and nine were "turied with Christ in baptism unto death" and were afterwards, with seven others welcomed in the fellowship of this 2nd church. It was a day of such rejoicing as this little church never before experienced in its history, its membership nearly doubled in one day.

We have reason to hope that what w have seen is only the beginning of good days. All around these shores we find anxious operating the way of life, and in every locality I have been told by persens whose countenances betoken their The fi ld is large and the work laborious but I find the toil a pleasure. Pray for us that God may add to the churches daily Yours in haste.

WOLFVILLE ADD GASPERAUX.—Rev. S W. DeBlois, pastor of the Church at Wolfville baptized two believers in the Lord Jesus, in the beautiful Gaspereaux river, on Sunday the 1st inst.

At the same time and place the Rev. E. O. Read, pastor of the church at Gaspereaux baptized ten persons on a profession of faith in Christ.

LIVERPOOL, Feb. 3. 1874.—Dear Bro. Selden - You will be pleased in learning that God's work is being revived in our midst. Since the week of prayer we have continued meetings in the evening and with good results. Wanderers have returned, church members are being awakened and encouraged. Sinners have been converted to God. The first Sabbath in the New in the presence of a large audience, nine. Others have found peace. God has been better to us than all our fears. We are still continuing our meetings. Pray for us my brother, pray that the good work may extend far and near.

> As ever yours, GEO. O. GATES.

A telegram on Monday informed us that Bro, Gates again administered the ordinance of baptism on Sunday last to six persons, and still the work is in progress.

GASPEREAUX - Dear Bro. Selden, - Last Sabbath was a deeply interesting day for the 1st and 2nd Horton Churches. The co dness of the morning did not prevent the people from gathering in large numbers on the banks of the beautiful Gaspereaux to witness the ordinance of baptism administered by the Pastors of these churches, who met together with their respective congregations at the water side.

Brother De Blois baptized two happy converts. One a student of the College, the other a son of Bro. J. W. Barss.

The writer had the privilege of baptizing ten rejoicing believers, Five young men and five young women. In this good work the two churches are able to rejoice together.

The prospects in Wolfville are encouraging, especially in connection with our institutions of learning. In this Valley we are enjoying a gracious revival. The rich displays of God's saving power are witnessed in our midst, and many souls are pressing into Christ's Kingdom.

The accessions of the young men to the Church is one of the pleasing features of this work, and greatly encourages the hearts of the more aged brethren who have been praying and waiting for the "salvation of our God."

Since the opening of the present year, the Messenger comes to our families freighted with precious tidings, from many of our Churches, concerning the triumphs of Christ's Kingdom. This promises to be a " year of the right hand of his power." Christ," "Thank God, and take courage." Yours very truly.

SHELBURNE, - At our last Conference seven more of the Lord's stray children were received by letter and by experience. Our little house is far too small to hold the audience that gather on Sabbath to the preaching of the word. Tokens of rich blessing are now upon all of the stations of our labor. O for mighty grace to prevail all over this my dear native land. Yours, &c,

E. N. ARCHIBALD.
