At this special time there is an objection on the part of Nova Scotia to the Union. Both the Island and New Brunswick are involved in semi-religious edaca ional intestine warfare, more or less angry. With them it is far from desireable to interfere, because we might burn our own fingers. This Province has a sound Educational Law, well observed, and well administered, and to put it in jeopardy would be to injore the rising seneration. Now, too we are protected by our isolation from Provincial antagonisms, whi'e under the Union, every session of the Legisl ture would involve

This is a most instructive statement, promulgated by an organ of the Nova Scotia Government, and adopted and eulogized by the organ of "Glebe House" It seems that the Union of the Maritime Provinces is to be opposed in the interests of sectarian education! The Union might make the Maritime Legislature a great power; the Union might be fraught with local economical, political and commercial advantages, but then if it should interfere with the aggrandizement of sects, or rather of a single denomination, we must not have it! We greatly mistake the people of Nova Scotia if they will be much influenced by such an argument as this. It is fitted rather to stir their blood and induce them to resolve that the Union shall not be retarded on such grounds. But let us turn to the reasons why our contemporaries, above referred to, are opposed to the Union. "This province," say they, " has a sound education law, well observed and well administered, and to put it in jeopardy would be to injure the rising generation." Phis is decidedly rich in its way. The Nova Scotia School Act is substantially similar to that of New Brunswick. It does not provide for separate schools or confer any special denominational favors. How could nion with New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island imperil such a law? Hereby hangs a tale. It is not the law but the Chronicle and Express fear in a Maritime Union. We are informed that in Halifax, at least, the law is so administered as to give to one denomination advantages enloyed by no others, namely, what are virtually separate schools, richly endowed by the Stare. Lest these should be endangered we must have no Maritime Union! This ground of antagonism to Union will not hold water. The question involved by it is not whether we should adopt a system of Separate and of Common Schools, but whether having adopted the latter, we should administer the former in the interest of any one denomination. Most people would say that this is hardly right, but the canker has eaten so deeply into the body politic in Nova Scotia that a question so ittle fitted to excite religious prejudices as a Maritime Union, cannot be discussed on its own merits, but must be viewed through the spectacles of sectarian prejudice. The subject of Maritime Union is not perhaps a burning question, though the measure contemplated would confer great advantages on the Provinces interested, which ought to be realized as soon as possible. When, however, it comes to be discussed we hope that even the enemies of Union will be ashamed to oppose it lest the Urion, it consummated, should lead to the administration of the School Act in such a way that all religious denominations should be treated precisely alike.

DOMINION EVANGELICAL ALLIANCE.

The Montreal Daily Witness publishes an "Evangelical Alliance Extra," with full reports of the proceedings of the Conference, and with portraits of some of the leading men. Elaborate papers were read each day and discussed to a greater or lesser extent. The one by Rev. G. M. Grant, on "The church of Canada, -can such a thing be"? was discussed, with some doubt if the views expressed were not to deliver it in Halifax and we shall therefore, probably, hear more on the

On the same day Monday the 5th the Rev. George Patterson, of Pictou, read a paper on " The teaching of our Lord regarding the Sabbath and its bearing on Christian work."

In the afternoon session Rev. Dr. Cramp read a paper on "Reasons why the distinctive principles of Protestantism should be inculcated." He defined those principles as: 1. The sufficiency of Holy Scripture for the knowledge of religious truth and duty 2. The sole authority of the same in all religious controversy. 3. The right of all Christians to read and examine scripture and thereby to prove all things and hold fast that which is good. 4. The justification of sinners by the grace of God through faith in the atonement made by our Lord Jesus Christ. 5. The worship of God only, to the exclusion of all creatures, angelic or human. At the same session Rev. C. Chapman read a paper on "Ultramontanism," and Mr. James Court one on "French-Canadian Missions." On Tuesday Rev. Mr. Laffeur read another paper on the same Essay on "An Investigation of the town Monitor.

MESSRS. C. GATES & Co.,-Gentlemen-I write you this testimonial, hoping other anxious parents may be benefitted

In the winter of 1870, our little daughter (two years of age) had the spine affected badly. Three joints of her backbone were swollen and very much inflamed. Her cries at night pre vented us getting much rest; but in the time of our trouble, fearing she would become a cripple for life, symptoms of St. Vitus' Dance apperring a kind Providence brought you to our house, when procuring your medicines, and giving them a faithful trial, we were rewarded by first getting our rest at night, the child becoming quiet. Next, the mother informed me there was a regularity of the bowels, not before known for a year, the child requiring no purgative during the time; and now I am happy to say, by God's blessing, and continued use of your invaluable medicine, she is a well and hearty child, walking three fourths of a mile to school every day, I won'd also add that I have found the Syrup an excellent remedy in sudden attack of cold and summer complaints, wherein it gave me nearly imediate relief Your Liniment is the best we have ever used in our family, for sore | Octobe 22nd 1874. throats (common) or diptheria. Last winter our eldest son had a sore throat that commenced about five o'clock, and at s x blisters were plainly seen, and he could hardly swallow. I commenced doctoring according to your directions. At seven, the blisters were gone. He said his throat was not sore; still I left the when his throat looked and felt as well as ever-He had no more sore throat all winter. I would not be without it in the house under any consideration, if I could possible help it; and, sirs, I believe your medicines are the best ever sold in the Province.

THE ALDINE.

Issued Monthly.

"A Magnifice t Conception, wounderfully carried out."

The necessity of a popular medium for the representation of the productions of our great artists, has always been recognized, and many attempts have been made to meet the want. The successive fai ures which so invariably followed each attempt in this country to establish an ari journal, did not prove the indifference of the people of America to the claims of high art. So soon as a proper appreciation of the want and an abil ty to meet it were shown, the public at once rallied with enthusiasm to its support, and the result was a great artistic and commercial triumph-

THE ALDINE, while i sued with all the regularity, has none of the temporary or timely interest characteristic of ordinary periodicals. It is an elegant miscellany of pure, light, and graceful literature; and a collection of pictures, the rarest sp cimens of artistic skill, in black and while. Although each succeeding number affords a fresh pleas sore to its triends, the real value and beauty of THE ALDINE will be most appreciated after it is bound up at the close of the year. and eighty four pounds and says he feels as While other publications may claim superior cheapness, as compared with rivals of a similar class, THE ALDINE is a unique and original conception-alone and unapp oached-absolutely without competition in price or character. > The national feature of THE ALDINE must be taken in no narrow sense. True art and appreciative art taste, one that will discriminate only on grounds of intrinsic merit. Thus, while placing before the patrons of THE ALDINE, as a leading characteristic, the productions of the most noted American artists, attention will always be given to specimens from foreign masters, giving subscribers all the pleasure and instruction obtainable > from home or foreign sources. The artistic illustration of American scenery. original with THE ALDINE, is an important feature, and its magnificent plates are of a size more appropriate to the satisfactory treatment of details than cen be afforded by any interior page. The judicious interspersion of landscape, marine, figure, and animal subjects, sustain an unabated interest, impossible artistic features, with only such technical disquisitions as do not interfere with the popular interest of the work.
