Society was read by Miss Selden, and that of the North Church Society by Mrs. Farquharson, the Secretaries.

Stirring and effective speeches were made by Revds. J. W. Manning and E. M. Saunders; and Brethren Beckwith, King, and Robinson. (Engagements previously made prevented the presence of Revds. A. S. Hunt and J. F. Avery.) It was a very pleasant occasion for the ladies and friends of the two congregations to meet together and co-operate in this good work.

A VERY HARD CASE -One of our morning papers gives the following, without note or comment:

"On Saturday morning five sailors of the barque Pactolus were arrested and brought before the Stipendiary Magisduty on board the ship. They stated here, but they were as yet few and Moved by Mr. Longworth, seconded plaints, Afflictions of the Kidney and that they were not allowed any stove in the forecastle and that several of them had contracted severe colds in consequence. They absolutely refused to proceed to sea unless they were given a stove, so they were sentenced to four weeks' imprisonment.

We could but ask if sailors were supposed to be human beings, and unless there is something else the matter, whether this is not a case for the new Society for Preventing Cruelty to Animals. What other men are put into a place to live without a fire when the cold is down to zero?

HARD ON THE THEATRE!-One day last week four boys succeeded in stealing and carrying off a drawer with money in it from a store in the city, whilst the woman went into another room. The Police being informed of the circumstance, considering where they would be likely to find the thieves, decided that the theatre was their most probable resort, and went there on the look out. Seeing four boys there together, and suspecting them, they took them into custody. The boys afterwards confessed the theft. Comment is needless.

THE Y. M. C. ASSOCIATION held its Annual Meeting on Saturday evening in their Hall. The report shewed that its present roll of membership contains 583 names. 57 had joined during the past year, whilst 118 had withdrawn, left, or died. The reports of the several commitees shewed that a large amount of Christian work is being done, and that the institution is in a progressive flourishing condition. The officers were elected as follows:

President-John S. Maclean. Vice Presidents-M. M. Lindsay, J. B. Morrow, W. Roche, Jr., Edward Lloyd, C. H. Longard, W. B. McNutt. Treasurer—S. H. Black.

QUESTION DEPARTMENT.

A heap of questions lies on our table, and some of our friends, we fear, are almost tired of waiting. They may be assured, however, that due expedition will be used, and that a general clearance will soon take place. The members of our Question Committee have their own affairs to attend to, and it is not always easy to secure the leisure necessary for inquiries. But we will do the best we can.

"A Licentiate" asks "Unus" "where and how do we get that power and authority which he claims is peculiar to ordained men?"

Answer. I do not answer Licentiates question, because I see that it would lead to a controversy, which, however pleasant to "a Licentiate," and perhaps to some others, would be, in my opinion, "unprofitable and vain" besides which, it would anticipate the work of the Convention Committee. Is there any evidence as to what was the order of primitive Christian worhip.

No evidence at all. It is not likely that there was any uniformity at first. There was a holy variety. A hundred years after, Justin Martyr gave an account in his Apology of the manner 3 00 in which worship was carried on in his 2 00 day. (He was beheaded, A. D., 165.) "On the day called Sunday, all who live in cities or in the country gather together to one place, and the memoirs of the apostles or the writings of the prophets are read, as long as the time permits; then, when the reader has and exhorts to the imitation of these good things. Then, we all rise to-The Report of the Granville Street gether and pray, and, as we before said, when our prayer is ended, bread and wine and water are brought, and the president in like manner offers prayers and thanksgivings, according to his ability, and the people assent, saying Amen; and there is a distribution to each, and a participation of that over which thanks have been given, and to those who are absent a portion is sent by the deacons. And those who are well to do, and willing, give what each thinks fit; and what is collected is deposited with the president, who succors the orphans and widows, and those who through sickness or any other cause, are in want, and those who are in bonds, and the strangers sojourning among us, and in a word takes care of all who are in need."

In pastoral visitation, when none of the family are sick, is it usual to have the family called together for worship and instruction?

The practices of pastors greatly differ, so that it is not easy to say what is "usual." It would be well if some ministers would study the art of edify. ing conversation. Gifts vary: many who are successful in the pulpit, fail in the parlor-and vice versa. A minister should cultivate the talent in which he is especially deficient. Finus.

Does the prohibition in 2 Cor. vi. 14. relate to marriage?

It is a general prohibition, forbidding all unnecessary intercourse with unconverted persons.

Are "unbelievers" and "infidels," as spoken of in the following verse the same persons?

Yes: the learned tell us that the same Greek word is used in both places. What is the "one baptism" referred to in Ephes. iv. 5?

Believers' baptism. EVANGELIST.
