SIAM .- The changes that are taking place in Siam are full of encouragement. The people are not only more interested, but those in authority are showing their appreciation of the services that have been rendered to the country by the missionaries. How different is the state of things to-day from what they were in the early history of our work in that land Then the king was opposed to missionaries. He did not wish Per Rev. W. P. Everett:them in his dominions. No land could be had on which to build houses, and no places where they could live could be rented. Their teachers were arrestted and thrown into prison, their servants left them through fear, and the people were unwilling to trade or to have any connection with them. Today the king is friendly, and as has been published, has given one thousand dollars for the erection of the school o'clock, A. M. building at Petchaburi. The nobles have also contributed to the same object in the aggregate a larger sum.

We copy the above from the Missionary Magazine. Notwithstanding the friendliness of the king and government the work of the mission in Siam appears to be rather among the Chinese residents than among the Siamese.

Mr. Dean writes:- "During the first quarter of 1878, we baptized twelve disciples, six from Lengkiachu and six from Pet-reu; and now begins the second quarter at Bangkok. We are now carefully distributing copies of " Matthew with Notes," and the "Daily Manna," and here and entertained. there a copy of the New Testament. Some inquiry has been awakened, and some opposition aroused, but a few are interested."

Mrs. Dean returned much improved by her trip to the hills of India; but is now suffering from the transition from fires in her room there two months ago, to the mercury in her room here now at 93° or 94°. This is our most trying month in the year.

JAPAN.—A Correspondent in Yokohama writes:—The day is dawning in this dark land. On the 18th of December last, the "Akebono Shinbur," a secular newspaper whose title signifies the blushing morn, the time just before sunrise, contained an article on religious liberty which both suprised and gladdened our hearts. The writer openly and earnestly advocates the removal of all restrictions from Christians as to preaching, burials, &c. It is the first time freely and fully to give expression to such views. We hear that the Council of the State has this subject now under consideration.

The U. S. Presbyterian Board of Missions was again embarrassed by a debt of $47,929 at the close of its financial year, on the 1st of May. The number of contributing churches for the last year was ,2810, and 2,344 churches did nothing for foreign missions.

Our juvenile readers will be pleased with a Missionary letter from Rev. John Craig at Cocanada, under our Youth's Department.

The Story of the Bible Lesson.

FOR THE PRIMARY CLASS. Draught of Fishes.

The people of Nazareth had treated Jesus so badly that he went to live in Capernaum, a town on the Sea of Gallilee. Jesus often preached on the beach close to the water. One day the people crowded around him so that it was hard for him to speak. There were two fishing boats close by. The fishermen were washing their nets on the shore. Jesus got into one of the boats, and called to Simon Peter to push it out a little from the shore. When he had done talking, he said to Simon, "Push your ship out into deep water, and let your net down." Simon said, "We have worked hard all night and have taken nothing, but I will let down the net." So he and Andrew did so; but when they tried to draw it up again it was so heavy that both together could not pull it in. They made signs to John and James to come in the other boat and help them. The fishes made both boats so heavy that they began to sink. The fishermen were much surprised, and Peter felt so unworthy of such kindness that he fell at Jesus' feet, and said "Depart from me for I am a sinful man, O Lord." But Jesus, instead of going away, said, "Follow me and I will make you catch men instead of fish." And they left all they had and followed Jesus.
