The slaughter of the conflict being ended, another more dreadful, presented itself in the area below. Whilst contemplating it, an old man, leading a boy was seen advancing from a distant recess. He was received with much respect and conducted to Mr Laro, to whom he presented the child with these words: "This is the son of Kangaras, whom I have preserved against his father's will." The tutor and the child were immediately conducted to Mons. Bussy, who commanded patents to be at once made out, appointing the son lord of the territory, which he has offered to his father in exchange for Bobbili. The ensuing night and two succeeding days passed in the usual attention to the wounded, who were many; but in the middle of the third night, the camp was alarmed by a tumult in the quarter of Vizeramraj.
