

matter had been passed upon by the Convention, that further agitation would be fruitless, would only result in another reduction of their allowance.

The missionaries must have felt assured that the churches were in entire ignorance of this act of injustice,—that even the Convention was not aware that their rights had been thus invaded by the Board, for with the missionaries it was quite as much a matter of principle as it was a question of money.

In this condition the matter was left to worry and embarrass our brethren out in the field until the Hillsboro' Convention last summer. At that memorable all night meeting the matter was brought up by Bro. Armstrong.

The committee of Convention are commended for making right that long standing grievance; would that they could as easily have restored the confidence then shaken, that they could as effectually have healed the breach thus made between our Board and our Missionaries.

Thus it was that with a stroke of the pen, without as much as saying "by your leave," our Board saved (?) nearly seventeen per cent. of the salaries due our missionaries!

RELIGIOUS INTELLIGENCE.

YARMOUTH COUNTY.—Dear Brother,—The Ohio Church has been holding a series of religious meetings since the Week of Prayer. The interest gradually increased, and it was evident that many of the members of the church became intensely earnest for the advancement of the spiritual condition of the church and community.

Bro. A. Cogswell came timely to our assistance. His earnest, stirring appeals introduced in his sermons, kindled the living fire of divine truth in the hearts of the people, which rapidly accelerated the spiritual triumph of the meetings.

I feel it my duty to express my strong conviction that this worthy brother ought to be employed in Home Mission work. Without depreciating any of God's ministers, I think that Bro. Vickery is too much overlooked.

Bro. Cogswell baptized in Ohio, 20th of February, four willing converts. The following Sabbath the writer baptized eleven. To God be all the glory.

Hebron, March 5th, 1881.

HILLSBURG, ANNAPOLIS CO.—A worthy brother here writes: "We have glorious meetings and many conversions." We shall be looking for further good words and more of them very soon.

GASPEREAUX, HORTON.—Rev. J. Williams baptized three at Gaspereaux on the 20th. A deep interest in religious affairs is manifested in this church.

CHESTER.—Rev. J. W. Weeks writes March 14, 1881:—Dear Editor,—The good work with us is still progressing. I baptized on March 6th five converts. Yesterday fifteen more followed their Lord in this ordinance, making in all since the work began thirty-three. Others are expected to follow soon.

CUNARD, CORNWALLIS.—Dear Brother,—It was my privilege to baptize two young men yesterday morning. After the sermon, the Rev. S. B. Kempton the pastor being present made an appropriate address to the candidates and gave them the hand of welcome.

Mr Kempton's health continues to improve, and his people, by whom he is universally beloved, have strong hopes of his complete recovery.

THE TABERNACLE Church Record for the month is cheering. The congregations have increased; special interest is manifested in the weekly meetings. The ladies' prayer meetings are a source of strength and hope to the church.

I am starting the printing and circulation of tracts. Grants will be made as means will allow. Contributions to the Tract Fund thankfully received.

Tract Fund.—We have been making alterations at the house during the past month, so as to devote a room to this enterprise. The exact cost of the same we do not yet know.

Some say, How can you make it pay? Apart from the Master's special assistance we do not see any way. But our hope and expectancy is in God, for him to provide funds for the work:

An application has also been made for the construction of a Graving Dock at St. John, N. B., on similar concessions being granted them as were given for the Halifax dock. This application has received the favourable consideration of the department, but the latter dock will be of less dimensions than the former, St. John not requiring so large accommodation.

Sir Stafford Northcote seconded the motion. The address was unanimously adopted; as was also a resolution of condolence with the Duchesse of Edinburgh.

In Nihilist circles it is accepted as a fact that the assassination is the work of their organization, and it is not due to private revenge. In the course of the next few days the Russian Nihilist committee will, it is said, issue a statement of the whole affair, avowing the act as perpetrated at their instigation, and attempting to justify it. The Nihilists think that the names given by two men arrested are assumed, as they are unknown to Revolutionists here. The headquarters of the party have been recently removed from London to Paris. Hartmann, who, was concerned in the Moscow attempt, left London last week.

A manifesto has been issued addressed to the Revolutionists of both worlds to assemble at an international Socialist revolutionary congress, to be held in London on Jan. 14, 1882.

On Thursday evening at Aldershot a large number of soldiers belonging to the 18th Royal Irish, together with Irishmen belonging to other corps, commenced a disturbance "hurling for old Ireland" and other cries, and flourished knobsticks. The few day provosts tried to secure some of the leading rioters, but were driven off. The roads being newly graveled, the rioters had plenty of ammunition. The mounted police notified the camp and the authorities ordered the first and second brigades into town with fixed bayonets. They attacked the rioters and heads were broken and windows smashed. The Provost marshal and field officers were on the spot. Every public house and dancing saloon was cleared, and the rioters taken prisoners in great numbers. The Provosts were badly treated, and some of the prisoners were rescued. All the shops were closed. The riot lasted nearly three hours. It is attributed to drunkenness on St. Patrick's Day.

The letter also states that no one by the name of Rousskoff figures on the list of their members.

M. Rochefort has been summoned before a magistrate for having openly advocated regicide.

Several bombs on board the Coralie exploded during the voyage and killed three of the crew.

RUSSIA.—When the police of St. Petersburg tried the door of the house where Rousskoff lodged they heard an explosion within. Forcing the door they came upon a man lying in the passage with his brains blown out. In a room a woman cried, "Take care, gentlemen, there is dynamite here." The police arrested the woman. A number of explosive shells were found; also one copy of a revolutionary proclamation relating to the crime, and saying that two persons would perform the terrible deed.
