The steamer West Cumberland arrived on Tuesday night from Workington, E. with a cargo of steel rails consigned to the Minister of Railways and Canals.

On Thursday last the members of the Quebec Press Association and their lady friends visiting the city, accompanied by the members of the Local Government, the Board of Charities, and a number of representatives of the Halifax press, enjoyed a very agreeable excursion upon the harbor and the North West Arm. The party proceeded to the Mount Hope Hospital for the Insane, where the Commissioners of Public Charities had arranged for a luncheon. The weather was delightful and the visitors expressed the warmest admiration for the beauty of the scenery, and were greatly pleased with the events of the day.

THE LATE HANGMAN .- Marwood's ap pearance was quite at variance with his profession. He was in stature about five feet eight inches, always dressed well, and looked to be a well-to-do tradesman. He had dark, restless eyes, and a beetling brow, a high and expansive forehead. At one time he was a Methodist preacher, then he started a shoe shop, and being a great reader and of a genial disposition, he was very popular, among those with whom he associated. With these persons Marwood was always ready to talk and laugh about his different hangings. One of his grim jokes was to suggest "one of the drops" as a "sure cure" for a friend who wanted to get rid of a bad cold. In the north of England the dread of him was so great that he was often refused admission to hotels by superstitious landlords. During the twelve years of his career as a hangman, he hanged nearly 400 persons. It is said that he was once asked if he would like his son to succeed him in the office of hangman. After a little hesitation he replied that if he were a good honest boy he would be content; but if he were a scapegrace he should not like him to

GATES INVIGORATING SYRUP

This preparation is well known through. out the country as the best family medi cine before the public, and should be kept in every household. For coughs and colds, a little night and morning will soon break them up.

For dyspepsia it gives immediate relief. For irregularities of the bowels nothing can be found to excel, as it causes no griping nor pain.

For asthma and palpitation of the heart one swallow gives instant relief. Sick headache, stomach and pin worms yield at once. It is in fact an invigorator of the whole system, whereby a regular and healthy circulation is maintained. It has been well tested already and will do all that we say it will do.

Price] only 50 cents.
