WE were appointed by the Baptist Convention last year, in connection with a number of other brethren, in response to a request from the Secretary, to meet with the Bible Conference at Saratoga, then proposed to be held in September. The Conference was, however, deferred till the present month. We were unable last week to attend, but, in common with the Baptist press and community, have felt a warm interest in the subject. Although we in these Provinces are not organically connected with either of the bodies concerned in the matters to be con-idered at the Conference, yet a considerable amount of funds have for many years gone from the Baptist churches of Nova Scotia to the American and Foreign Bible Society, through the agency of the Rev. Mr. Boothby. This gives the Conference some additional interest for our readers.

We are glad to have received so ful a report of the Conference, and at so early a date, and although we have had to defer some other matters to allow space for our correspondent's letter, we are assured that its insertion will be very acceptable to our readers.

THE Higher Education provided in a Collegiate Institution does not depend on the higher salaries paid to the professors, nor is its value necessarily regulated by the higher number of professors composing the faculty. There may be any number of specialists among them, but that is far from determining that the education received by the students under them is of a higher standard. When the teachers are good men able in their department, and who choose their work because of the love they have for it, and because they are desirous of cultivating mind, and seeking to develope power in their students, they will have far a higher stimulus than any pecuninary reward can supply, But such men must live, and as we have them at Acadia we must give them what is their due so as to relieve them from all anxiety whilst occupied in their important work.

Mr. George A. Sanford, of the Nova Scotia Steam Marble and Granite Works, Argyle Street, Halifax, has just finished a handsome marble Tablet for the Associated Alumni of Acadia College, to be placed in the Assembly Hall of the College. The tablet is of statuary marble on a slab of polished black marble, 2 feet 6 inches square.

The inscription is as follows IN MEMORIAM.

JOHN MOCKET CRAMP, D. D. PRESIDENT OF ACADIA COLLEGE FOR MANY YEARS. DIED AT WOLFVILLE, DEG. 6, 1881, AGED 84 YEARS.

"THE SECOND FOUNDER OF ACADIA." FIRST ELECTED PRESIDENT IN 1851. HE CONTINUED HIS CONNECTION WITH THIS COLLEGE UPWARDS OF 30 YEARS.

> BRECTED BY THE ALUMNI OF THE COLLEGE.

It is expected that the Tablet will be in position and ready to be unveiled at the coming anniversary.

WE are requested to state that the announcement in the Mail on Saturday evening, that Rev. Mr. Annear would preach in Granville Street Church on Sunday morning, was without authority, and arose from a mistake that occurred in the printing office of that

The churches will please not to regard Mr. A. having preached there previously as endorsing him in any respect, or as indicating any fraternal commendation, letters of commendation brought by him to Halifax having been withdrawn.

THE efforts at legislation in England respecting the observance of the Lord's Day have been in the way of attempts to open the public museums and picture galleries on that day. The House of Lords was engaged on a resolution approving of such exhibitions. A division took place on Tuesday, the 11th, when the resolution was passed in the negative by 91 to 67 votes. An amendment was made by Earl Shaftesbury providing for the opening of such institutions till 10 o'clock on three evenings in the week was carried.

THE Church Guardian, in No. 2 of series of articles on the financial position of Kings College, says that Halifax Churchmen ought to hand the Treasurer of the College Ten Thousand Dollars within three months. The writer expresses the opinion that "Halifax will do its duty."

Our Presbyterian friends are rejoicing over the good words spoken by the Rev. H. A. Robertson, who last week returned from the New Hebrides, where he and his wife have labored for the past twelve years. Mr. R. first went out as a scaman in the Dayspring. He was then for a time manager of a cotton factory. He has been greatly blessed in his labors, and has gathered much fruit into the churches there.

The following review, taken from the Tennessee Baptist, is forwarded to us with a request for publication: THE TRILEMMA OR DEATH BY ONE OF THREE HORNS; by J. R. Graves, LL D.

This is a little book that has proved the death of multitudes of Pedobaptists. It slays them by the actions of their own General Assemblies and Conferences. The question they cannot answer is, " Are the baptisms of the Roman Catholic church valid?" they say "Yes," they thereby admit the Roman Catholic church to be a true church of Christ, and that they are heretics and schismatics; and having separated from, and been excommunicated by it, have no right to baptize or to preach. If they say "No," then they nullify their own baptisms, since all their ordinances came from Rome, and if the Catholic Church is the occasion of the greatest magnificence. THE MOULD OF DOCTRINE, by J. B. Thomas. D. D. Price 90 cents. Baptist Publication Society, Philadelphia:

The title of this book will not at first be understood by those who have not seen its contents. It is an able exposition of Christian Baptism, and of the importance of keeping the ordinance as the Lord gave it and the apostles handed it down to us. The author maintains, with great force and clearness, that the question of baptism is not a question as to "a few drops of water, more or less," but one of deeper significance and more vital importance. "Baptism is the Mould of Doctrine;" it was designed to set forth in symbol the resurrection of the Lord, the new birth, and subjection of the whole life as the central idea of Christianity; and is admirably adapted to bear perpetual testimony to all of those primary and essential truths of Christianity.

Any departure from the true form is breaking the mould of Doctrine and defeating the specific purpose of its appointment. It is well worthy of the attention of Christians of all denominations, and will abundantly pay them for a careful perusal.

In the cathedral the Emperor and empress were conducted to the ancient throne of ivory and silver. The emperor occupied the historical throne of the Czar Valdimir Monomogue, while the empress was seated in an arm chair gilded and encrusted with jewels. In front of the thrones were two tables covered with gold cloth, upon which were placed the crowns, the orb and the sceptre. None but foreign princes were accomodated with seats.

The Metropolitan of Novogorod asked the Emperor in a loud, distinct voice, "Are you a true believer?" The Emperor, falling on his knees, read in reply, in a clear voice, the Lord's prayer and the Apostles' Creed of the Greek Church, the Metropolitan responding, "May the Grace of the Holy Ghost remain with thee!' After reading selections from the gospel the Metropolitans of Novogorod and Kieff again ascended the dais and invested the Emperor with the Imperial mantle of ermine, the Metropolitan of Moscow saying at the same time, "Cover and protect thy recople as this robe covers and protects thee." The Bishop of Moscow said aloud, in behalf of the nation, a fervent prayer for the happiness of their majesties. Shouts of "Long live the Emperor" then rent the cathedral and were taken up by the thousands outside and carried from mouth to mouth, until the multitude outside the Kremlin caught the sound and waved in it a huge volume of humble gratitude to the remotest parts of the city. The Cathedral choir then sang the Te

There the Metropolitan of Novogorod anointed the Emperor on the forehead, eyelids, nostrils, lips, ears, breast and hands, at the same time exclaiming "Behold the seal of the Holy Ghost! May it keep thee ever holy! The Empress was annointed only on the forehead. Both partook of the sacrament, and then left the cathedral, wearing their crowns and mantles, the Emperor also bearing the sceptre and orb.
