

1858, when he retired from public life. He was a legislator for over fifty years and in office twenty-five years of that period.

The present Marquis, although a comparatively young man, has won a high reputation as a scholar and statesman.

On Wednesday last in the House of Commons, Sir John A. McDonald introduced a resolution:

That a humble address be presented to His Excellency the Governor General expressing the desire of this House, on behalf of the whole Dominion, to represent as well as to show an expression of the general feeling of regret with which the country has heard that His Excellency's official connection with Canada is about to cease, and that the presence of his illustrious consort in Canada, seems to have drawn us closer to our beloved sovereign, and that in saying farewell to His Excellency and to Her Royal Highness whose kindly and gracious sympathies, manifested upon so many occasions, have endeared her to all hearts.

Mr. Blake seconded the motion and said that although members on the other side of the House, from their connection with His Excellency, as being his responsible advisers, knew better as to how the Governor General had discharged a portion of his duties, yet he would testify to his being an excellent constitutional Governor. The duties of our Governor-General were important, and he was glad to bear testimony to their being performed in an able manner by Lord Lorne, a descendant of Argyll, and belonging to that family, a member of which was the first advocate of Responsible Government.

The motion was unanimously carried. The Liquor Bill was read a third time and passed in the Commons on Tuesday.

The Penitentiary Bill, Factory Bill and Franchise Bill were withdrawn.

The Royal Society held its second annual meeting at Ottawa, on Tuesday and Wednesday. Papers on various subjects were read. The Governor-General addressed the Society in the Senate at noon. Dr. Dawson also gave an address of great length.

The Dominion Parliament was prorogued on Friday with the usual formalities. On the Throne sat His Excellency and beside him the Princess. His Excellency gave assent to the bills passed, and closed the first session of the fifth Parliament by reading the following speech.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate: Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I desire to thank you for the diligence and earnestness with which you have performed your duties during the protracted session. The large sums which the buoyant state of the revenue has enabled you to appropriate in aid of the construction of railways and the great works of internal improvement will be carefully applied and economically expended, and must contribute in a large measure to the prosperity and progress of the country.

The Dominion Lands bill, which embodies the results of the experience acquired during the last two years, will, it is believed, greatly assist and encourage the settlers now flowing in such unprecedented numbers into Manitoba and North-west territories.

The amendments to the laws respecting the militia will tend to improve the discipline, training and military education of that invaluable force.

The consolidation and amendment of the statutes relating to the management of the customs, while protecting the honest trader against fraudulent and dishonest competitors, will free the commerce of the country from some of the restraints imposed on it by the previously existing laws.

The readjustment of the tariff and the reduction of duties on the raw materials used in our manufactures, together with the bounty granted on the production of pig iron, must aid in the further development of Canadian industries.

It is gratifying also to know that the financial position of the public treasury has enabled you to lower the pressure of taxation by more than a million of dollars.

The bill for the regulation of shop, saloon and tavern licenses must have the effect of preventing the unrestrained sale of intoxicating liquors in every province of the Dominion, and affords an efficient system for its successful operation, freed from the suspicion of political bias or control, while at the same time it will not unduly interfere with the rights of those who had engaged in the trade under the authority of legislative enactments.

Gentlemen of the House of Commons: I return you my thanks for the supplies you have granted for the various public services.

Hon. Gentlemen of the Senate: Gentlemen of the House of Commons:

I desire to thank you for the great honor conferred on me by the presentation of a joint address. The Princess and I have both been profoundly touched by your words and the message of which you make us the bearers, come, as we personally know, from a people determined to maintain the Empire. The severance of my official connection with Canada does not loosen the ties of affection which will ever make me desire to serve this country. I pray that the prosperity I have seen you enjoy may continue, that the blessing of God may at all times be yours, to strengthen you in unity and peace.

Parliament is hereafter to be called together in January instead of February, as heretofore.

THIS IS RELIABLE.—R. N. Wheeler, merchant, of Everton, was cured of a severe attack of inflammation of the lungs by Hagar's Pectoral Balsam. This great throat and lung healer cures weak lungs, coughs, hoarseness, bronchitis, and all Pectoral complaints.

Denominational Literature.

For many years past there has been no lack of discussions and resolutions on this subject. No Association or Convention has got through the session without calling attention to denominational literature. There has been a marked union of hand and heart. Public sentiment is strong and constant. If writing, debating and carrying resolutions were all that is needed, enough, and more than enough has already been done; but, unfortunately, writing resolutions is not writing Baptist tracts and Baptist books; passing resolutions goes but a little way in circulating the principles of the denomination. If the importance of this part of the work of our body is not felt and understood now, it certainly cannot be done by spirited action at our annual gatherings. The lack of books among our people, teaching our special views of God's word, is a standing cause of grief. We hear it in our yearly deliberations; we see it in our newspapers. The cause for this sorrow exists. Our Baptist communities are not as liberally supplied as they ought to be with books and tracts which inculcate Baptist theology—the theology learned by Baptists from the Bible, but this is not the alpha and omega of the evil deplored. There is more yet to be learned. We venture to affirm, that there are thousands of Baptist families in which no denominational newspaper is found. Neutral papers of a semi religious character are in the place of good, wholesome Baptist weeklies. Pedo-baptists are behind these cheap papers. They prudently keep back their views in their offensive forms; but they well know that the absence of Baptist teaching is in their favor. By sticking together the odds and ends of a daily newspaper, these publishing establishments are able to offer weeklies at a nominal price. Their agents cover the country like locusts. They work on the cupidity of the people, and fill our Baptist houses with papers which are creating a sickly, indifferent condition among our people. In some cases political weeklies, in which religious subjects are almost entirely ignored take the place of denominational papers. No circulation of books, however important they may be, can ever accomplish the work, defensive and aggressive, that would be overlooked by a Baptist weekly. The facts are even more grievous than the mere occupying of Baptist ground by these papers, already referred to, which are very good in their place; in some instances Baptist papers have been given up, and those cheap neutrals taken in their places. This is sad retrogression. The pastors of the congregations where these things exist, cannot but feel depressed in view of such backward movements. Their pulpit ministrations will not be felt as deeply by persons who have no denominational papers in their houses, as they will by people who read the stirring weekly utterances of the press that watches with jealous eyes and anxious spirit the progress of the Baptist campaign. It is time the voice of the pulpit, the people who see the danger, and the press, was lifted up against this evil that is drawing away the vitality of our denominational life. Cheap, indeed! Dear, ruinously dear! We care not how many healthy newspapers a Baptist family may take. Each family must be its own judge in this matter. But of this much we are certain, there should be a good denominational weekly in every Baptist household. After that, other papers and periodicals can come in according to taste and ability. If a man chooses to be a freeman on board an Atlantic passenger steamer, he will get better food than a sailor before the mast in a merchant-ship. But this food will be the leavings from the passengers' tables. A hotel-waiter will get better food than a farmer's hired servant; but it will be the odds and ends left on the tables by travelers. The hotel keepers and steamboat proprietors can afford to give their hired servants this food, for it has been paid for in the first place by those to whom it is first served. So it is with these cheap weeklies that go about asking for the places now occupied by our denominational papers. They are made up of the fragments culled from the tables after those who read the dailies have been served. We prefer to have our own table, cook our own food, and not go about eating odds and ends of Pedo-baptist and political manglers.

Exchange:

The choice of a wife, if she is not frugal, if she is not what is called a good manager, if she does not lay out her money to the best advantage, let her be ever so sweet tempered, gracefully made, or elegantly accomplished, she is no wife for a man in trade. All those otherwise amiable talents will but just open so many roads to ruin.

The London Religious Tract Society, held its eighty-fourth annual meeting in Exeter Hall. There have been issued during the year 809 new publications, of which 262 were tracts. The circulation from the home depot, including book, tracts, periodicals counted in numbers, cards and miscellaneous issues, has reached 79,379,350, of which 33,249,800 were tracts, being an increase upon the previous year of 6,217,730. The amount received from sales, missionary receipts, and all other sources, including last year's balance is £215,063 0s 3d. The expenditure in both trade and grant departments has been £213,535 15s. 4d., leaving a balance in favour of the society of £1,527 4s. 11d. Dr. MacEwan spoke of the great capacity of the editorial staff of the society, and of the sanctified genius with which they produced their publications. They had a book adapted to every need; and above all, they secured a healthy, religious training of the young by a provision of pure and interesting literature in their Boy's Own Paper, and in its younger sister, the Girl's Own. Dr. Landsell, Rev. James Smith, of Delhi, Dr. Alton, and Cannon Fleming also spoke. The meeting was concluded by the pronouncing of the benediction.

so as to end the seventh year with an enlarged list.

"Buds and Blossoms and Family Greetings" as a magazine for church and home must win its way both on account of quality and price.

See what others say!

BUDS AND BLOSSOMS is the title of a neat and attractive illustrated religious monthly magazine, published in Halifax, N. S., and edited by Rev. J. F. Avery, pastor of the Third Baptist Church of that city. It is now in its seventh volume, and credit to both publisher and editor. It is such a periodical as will prove a blessing in any family where it is taken and read.—N. Y. "Watch Tower."

J. F. AVERY, of Halifax, editor of BUDS & BLOSSOMS, sent us a copy of his magazine. We are very much pleased with it. It is a nearer approach to the English magazines of the same class than anything published here. Its illustrations are good and its reading matter such as must do good. We wish it success.—"Canadian Baptist."
