The rear guard continued in action for some time. The British casualties were slight. A despatch from Lorenzo Marquez, of the same date, says, "On Thursday the entire Boer force around Mafeking, including the guns, was captured by the British." This is not official. Lord Roberts is still at Kroonstad, resting his men, and making ready for another forward movement. His forces have not been idle, though getting in shape for another advance. Thursday Hutton's mounted infantry surprised and captured about thirty miles northwest of Kroonstad Commandant Botha Field Cornet Gassen, five Johannesburg policemen and seventeen Boers. The Boers captured is not the Commander-in-chief. It is believed that Lord Roberts will be moving early this week, and may be at the Vaal before many days. General Buller has had a successful week in Natal. He has driven the enemy before him, occupying in succession Dundee, Glencoe, Dunhauser and Newcastle. Buller's latest despatch from Newcastle (Saturday) says: "General Clery moved to Ingogo today and General Dundonald to Laing's Nek. We almost caught up with the tail of the enemy's column and have captured a few prisoners and wagons. The men have marched very well indeed. I left Ladysmith May 10 and, by the road used, am now one hundred and thirty miles from there." Methuen entered Hoopstad Thursday unopposed. Generals Duprey and Daniels and forty men have surrendered. Broadwood occupied Lindley Thursday after slight opposition. Only two of the men were wounded. Steyn was not there and his government officials had left some days before. General Rundle and General Brabant are taking possession of the wide regions around Ladysbrand. They find the country plentifully supplied with cattle, horse feed and flour. General Rundle is feeding his men and animals largely off the country. A special despatch from Kroonstad says that Commandant Dawet has sent word that he is prepared to surrender conditionally with his entire command. He stipulated that his men should be allowed to return to their farms. Lord Roberts replied that the surrender must be unconditional. General Hunter was the first to hoist the flag in the Transvaal. When he reached Wedgraal after twelve miles march from Fourteen Streams, with a strong force, up the course of the Vaal he found that the Boers were rearing on Christians, which is situated on the river about 20 miles northeast of Fourteen Streams and he accordingly determined to push on. Outside Christians it was seen that the fed-rals were on the run, and Hunter then resolved to make a state entry into the town and hoist the British flag. A detachment of fusiliers under Barton was selected for the duty and it was carried out amid great cheering. This is the first time since the outbreak of the war that a British force of any dimensions has invaded the Transvaal. Gen. Brabant is reported to have captured 1,500 Boers at Coloclan. The rapid march of Lord Roberts with his large army exciting comment among the military experts of other nations. His strategy has this admirable feature—the enemy is driven back and there are but few lives lost. A Dane who was captured by the South African Horse, says that there are five hundred Frenchmen with the Boers who are opposing General Buller, together with many Germans and other foreigners. A Canadian battery of 15-pounders arrived at Beira, Portuguese East Africa, May 10. It is not stated which of the Canadian Batteries this is. The Free Staters have had enough of war, and are surrendering on all sides. One of President Steyn's brothers, who is a prisoner of General Brabant, says that the Free Staters will accept annexation. Those who took up arms the second time, he explains, had to do so under threats of instant death if they refused. Five hundred rifles have been surrendered at Kroonstad in excess of the number of Boers who have taken the oath of allegiance. Lord Roberts has directed the British commanders to receive all comers in a good spirit and to issue to them passes to go to their farms. It is reported from Capetown that a proclamation annexing the Free State will be issued on the Queen's birthday. Heilbron, not Lindley, is now the temporary Free State capital. It is not safe to say where it is now. The cartoonist who pictured Steyn hauling his capital around on wheels, and making him sigh for a balloon so that he might get his capital out of the reach of the British, describes well the situation. Enthusiastic and unanimous gatherings in South African cities call on the British Government to listen to no compromise with regard to the Transvaal and the Orange Free State. Both must be brought under British sway and then all parties will get equal rights all the time. The Dutch in both Natal and Cape Colony naturally plead for easy terms and conciliation, the loyal British section insist on British supremacy. President Steyn is reported as saying: "Sooner than leave this country to fall into the hands of the British, I would destroy all our houses and leave it a desert." His obstinacy is more marked than his sense. The people of the Free State, whom he led into war with the British who had cared for and even petted them, and against whom they had no grievance whatever, are not likely to think him so wise as he thinks himself. White flag treachery by the Boers continues. Lord Roberts intends making an example of the guilty ones in a recent case in which a British patrol was fired on from a house flying the white flag near Klipfontein. The Boers destroyed the machinery about the Durdee coal mines except in one instance. All private property was looted. The nights are cold now in South Africa, but the days are hot. There has been a good deal of fever in the British camps. Col. Baden Powell, the hero of Mafeking, is the son of a minister. Predictions about the speedy closing of the war are freely made. The less knowledge the "prophets" have the more confidently do they fix the date of the end. Lord Roberts being asked about it, after he had reached Kroonstad, replied: "I regret that I cannot give any reply to your question, as it is impossible at present to predict when the campaign may end."

THE PEOPLE'S AMEN. BY REV. THEODORE L. CUYLER, D. D. In the first book of the Chronicles we are told that, when the ark of the Lord was brought back to Jerusalem, a grand thanksgiving service was appointed by King David. Asaph led the choir with his cymbals, and Benaiah conducted the band of trumpeters. When the jubilant psalm of praise had been rehearsed by the Levites and the choir, then all the people said Amen. If my readers will turn to the fourth chapter of the book of Nehemiah, they will observe that the ruined walls of desolate Jerusalem were rapidly rebuilt after the captivity. Why? Simply because every man did his best. Each one brought his contribution of wood or stone to the right spot; the apothecaries helped the merchants, and the merchants helped the goldsmiths. "So built we the wall," says the sacred historian, "for the people had a mind to work." In these two passages from the good old Book lies the secret of spiritual success for every church; and no other success is worth striving for. The secret is that the people must worship, and the people must work. In fact, there can be no genuine worship in God's house if all the praying is restricted to the pulpit, and all the praising is restricted to choir and organist. The heart of the church must be thoroughly alive; its hands must be busy; its voices must unceasingly say Amen! No revival blessings are likely to come this year where a pastor prays and preaches in one direction, and his people are preaching and practicing in an opposite direction. I do not for a moment underrate the prodigious responsibility of the pastor. He commonly shapes the course, and "sets the pace" for his congregation. If his idea is to make his church something very like a social club, with little regard to its high spiritual mission, then it is more likely to be a winner of pew-rents than a winner of souls. His people will be ready to throng any sort of entertainment from an oyster supper or tableau party to a sacred concert or a bazaar. They will crowd a church social, and leave their prayer meeting to be an ice-house. To attract the "young people" by various devices will be regarded as of more consequence than to build up his hearers, old and young, in personal godliness, and to lead sinners to Christ Jesus. If the pastor strikes such a keynote, then it is not improbable that his people will say "Amen," especially if he be a stirring, sociable, and popular man. But if you look at the report of that church in the Minutes of the General Assembly, or in the year book of any other denomination, you will see a pitifully small list of additions on "confession of faith." The fact that the social is put so far above the spiritual in too many churches is one cause for the lamentable diminution of conversions. But suppose that the pastor is what every ambassador of the Lord Jesus Christ ought to be, a firm believer in the infallibility of the everlasting Word, a zealous lover of his Master, and an unselfish, untiring laborer for

May God bless our brother in his new field of labor, and may the influence for good he has exerted during his pastorate of three and one-half years be long remembered. "A Miss Is As Good as a Mile." WAR NOTES Everything has gone well the last week. The news of the relief of Ladysmith, which occurred on Wednesday, was received on Friday with the greatest satisfaction throughout the Empire. In London the scenes marked the relief of Ladysmith were repeated. In Canada and elsewhere there were demonstrations of interest. For many days prior to the relief the interest was centered chiefly in Ladysmith, because it was known that the heroic garrison must be reduced to the last extremity of need. But the siege never lost heart. Every message that came from them breathed the spirit of invincible courage. And up to the very last they planned and fought the true heroes they are. Just before the siege was raised they captured a lot of Boers, one of the officers being a grandson of Kruger. The Queen telegraphed her congratulations to Lord Baden-Powell and his gallant staff, and sent messages of sympathy and inquiries about the women and children. So particulars of the relief have been sent to hand at this writing. A Cape despatch of the 20th says that the relief column as it approached Ladysmith from the south was attacked by a strong force of Boers who were repulsed. The column then pushed on and the Boers retreated hurriedly.

THE PEOPLE'S AMEN. FROM REV. J. NOBLE.—Again I have allowed a considerable time to pass without writing to the INTELLIGENCER. Some have asked why I haven't written. The only reason I can give is that I have had nothing especially interesting to write, and, also, my fingers are getting stiff, so that it bothers me to hold my pen. But, to-day, I take up my pen to again send you a few lines. One thing I can say, the Lord has been very good to me the past winter. I never had any better health in my life than I have had the past year. I remember only two Sundays that I have not preached somewhere, sometimes twice, and two Sundays three times each, but I found that too much for me. Last Autumn, when I saw the disposition of brothers Fenwick and Daggett to supply the First District with labour I told them I would help them out what I could, so I spent a week or more up there; about Christmas I spent another week, and I supplied for brother Fenwick two or three times, once for brother Daggett and went another time, though owing to the severe storm we did not have meeting. I kept up a regular appointment at South Wakefield until brother Clark got his work along so he could take it up. Along in March I concluded I would go to Queensbury and Prince William and make a little visit among old friends. I went and had a fine visit, fine weather and fine roads, and the old friends were glad to see me as I was to see them. Since then I have been at Hainesville (what we used to call Caverhill). There brother S. J. Perry has had a good revival, which has helped the people generally; every one I talked with said the people were very much helped. On my way back I had a meeting at Campbell Settlement in the morning, and at Southampton in the afternoon I spent last Sunday morning in Campbell Settlement. I expect to spend the four Sundays that now remain before the District meetings begin up in the First District. J. NOBLE. Woodstock, C. Co. May 17th. FIFTH DISTRICT.—The churches of the Fifth District will need to notice the change in the time of holding the annual meeting, as announced in another column. THIRD TIER.—At Third Tier, C. Co., on the 13th inst., seven persons united with the church—two by baptism, one on experience, and four by letter. The two baptized were children of Rev. H. Hart, who administered the ordinance. It was a beautiful baptism. It was touching to witness a father burying his children in Christian baptism. Rev. M. Atkinson, (Baptist) and I exchange pulpits next Sabbath, 20th inst. J. J. BARNES. MINISTER'S.—Rev. H. A. Bonnell writes that he is enjoying the work in his new field (the Narrows) pastora to very much. Rev. J. J. Barner, we regret to hear is not in very good health, though he keeps about his work. The doctor tells him it would be better for him if he had less riding to do. Rev. G. Swin is not going to Temperance Vale as was intended. He went to Nova Scotia last week, intending to spend a Sunday or two at Canning. Rev. A. H. McLeod, who last week graduated from the Divinity School, has assumed the pastoral care of the Grand Manan churches, lived at and served the East Raymond, Me., church during his absence at the Divinity School. A correspondent of the Morning Star, writing of his departure, says: "He and his family, during his pastorate here, have endeared themselves to a large circle of friends."
