SOMETHING LEFT. - The Christian Advocate, the leading Methodist paper in the United States tells this story. An old lady, fearful of the deterioration of her beloved denomination, questioned a leading man as to whether there was anything left distinctive of Methodism. Preachers can stay as long as the people wished. The class meetings are almost a dead letter. Episcopal ritual is being adopted, and no one dares say "amen" above a whisper. The layman was completely nonplussed. At last he rallied and exclaimed, "We still have plenty of collections."

> THE CHINESE. - We are apt, says the Presbyterian Witness, to speak harshly of the Chinese as a race—as if there were no good in them. This of course is wrong and unchristian. A few weeks ago some Chinese in a Presbyterian Church in San Francisco heard about the famine in India. They at once undertook to do something to relieve distress, and by hard work they raised $10 which was at once forward-
