Why Jesus Refused to Decide This Case. (1) Because it would be an interference with the govern ment, and entirely out of place It would have given occasion for the government to interfere with his great work. (2) It would have given the people a wrong idea of the Messiah and his kingdom, co: firming their idea that the Messiah was to be a temporal prince, and his kingdom of this world. (3 He would lead the man to higher good, to a heavenly inheritance, and the principles of the kingdom of God. It was of infinitely more importance to this man that he should have the right spirit than that he should possess any amount of property.

Modern App'ications. 1. Christ's church should be separate from the State.

2. It is the business of Christ's church to inculcate those great principles which will lead to all true refo.m.

3. The greatest power in reform is the conversion of men from the love of sin to the love of righteousness. This makes all good reforms possible, this inspires and carries them out

Have your eyes open to the Idisease or derangement of the heart danger which besets you all. Beware of covetousness. Guard yourselves from covetousness, all forms of covetousness. in his mouth. This tongue is in reality a band saw, with the teeth on the surface instead of on the edge. The teeth are so small that as many as 30,-000 of them have been found on one snail's tongue. They are exceedingly sharp and only a few of them are used at a time-not exactly only a few of them, but a few of them comparatively, for the snail will probably have 4,000 or 5,000 of them in use at once.

'He does this by means of his coiled tongue. He can uncoil as much of this as he chooses, and the uncoiled part he brings into service. The roof of his mouth is as hard as bone. He grasps the leaf between his tongue and that hard substance and, rasping away with his tongue, saws through the toughest leaf with ease, always leaving the edge smooth and straight. 'By use the teeth wear off or become dulled. When the snail finds that this tool is becoming blunted he uncoils another section and works that out until he has come to the end of the coil. Then he coils the tongue up again and is ready to start in new, for while he has been using the latter portions of the ribbon the teeth have grown in again in the idle portionsthe saw has been filed and reset so to speak-while he is using them the teeth in the back part of the coil are renewed. So I think I am right in saying that if any large beast of prey was fitted up with such a devouring apparatus as the snail has it would go hard with the rest of the animal kingdom.'-Chicago Tribune.

How One Fox Helped Another.

Joseph Maybaugh, a farmer who lives near Dundee, O., trapped a large red fox, and, carrying it home, placed it in his corn crib until he could notify his neighbors and have a chase. The next morning the fox was gone. In- them. Wholesale only by vestigation proved that its mate had assisted the prisoner in making its escape.
