Oil is reported to have been struck in paying quantities at St. Joseph's, Dorchester parish, where borings have been in progress since last year. The present output from the boring is between two and three barrels per day, and Mr. Feeley, the expert in charge estimates that when torpedoed the wells will yield about ten barrels per day each, while the yield of three barrels a day would be considered a paying quantity. The oil is dark green in color, resembling what is known as No. 1 cylinder stock oil. It is placed in the same standard as the black sands of Pennsylvania. There was a profit upon the year's business, but not sufficient to warrant the directors in declaring a dividend, as there was a loss upon the previous year's business to overcome. The factory is running and has a large number of orders on hand. The old board of orders was re-elected.

HOW CATARRH POISON THE SYSTEM.

Few people realize the vast amount of ill health that arises from the absorption of catarrh poisons into the system. June 13.—The trouble between the Canadian Pacific Railway Company and its trackmen has reached a critical stage, and unless the demands of the trackmen's representatives are granted there will likely be a strike. It was hoped the conference with President Shaughnessy would result in a settlement, but the company has declined to make any further concessions. It is feared that nearly all the spruce mills on the Penobscot will be obliged to shut down for nearly a month, within a few days, because of the failure of expected logs to arrive from the upper river region. These logs, constituting the first and second East Branch drives, aggregating 33,000,000 feet, which should now be in the boom, are scattered and stranded all along the East Branch from Grindstone Falls to the Main Penobscot and down to Lincoln, a distance of more than 30 miles. There is another East Branch drive containing over seven million feet, and when these logs are started, the water held in Grand Lake will be let out to carry them along, and the same water will bring out the big drives now stranded. They will not reach the Penobscot, however, until about July 15, one month late.

TRYING TO KEEP ITS SOLDIERS SOBER.

A commission appointed by the Russian government to inquire into the effects of alcoholic liquors has lately reported. In one part of its statistics are given which show that out of four hundred and seventy workmen fifty-five who drank commenced to drink when soldiers. The recommendations of the commission are:

1. The complete suppression of the regulation brandy ration throughout the Russian army not only in time of peace, but also in periods of war.
2. The prohibition of the distribution of intoxicating liquors among soldiers by the officers, when such distribution is at the expense of others.
3. Absolutely forbidding the carrying of brandy into the barracks.
4. The prohibition of selling liquor in canteens.
5. A daily ration of tea for the soldiers, on the same plan as obtains among the troops in the garrison at St. Petersburg.
6. Introducing into the plan of instruction required for young soldiers statements relative to the danger in the use of alcoholic liquors. It is very desirable that conferences on this theme be conducted by generals, officers, surgeons, and chaplains.
7. Excluding from the plan of instruction in hygiene in lower military schools the paragraph "concerning the utility of the moderate use of brandy."
8. Establishing at their barracks or near the troops economic kitchens, tea houses, lecture rooms; arranging rational amusements for the soldiers in the way of theatricals, conferences, lectures, and games.

POLYGAMY IN SOUTH AFRICA.—The Christian Express, of Lovedale quotes these words of a magistrate: "The missionaries are working reforms, and I am curious to know what the result would be. All natives who can afford it are polygamists. A native has his three or six wives; the missionary comes along and converts him, and he has now to be married to one of his wives according to Christian rites before he can become a member of the church. Usually he chooses the youngest wife. In any case, whichever he marries, the remainder are put away or sent away, and if they have grown up children they resent the stigma cast upon their mother, and there is trouble over the property, followed frequently by litigation, which often ruins the family. Then again, one of a man's numerous wives embraces Christianity, and refuses to make beer for him. For this she gets thrashed; the husband is brought up and punished for chastising his wife who has neglected her duties. Or the woman declines to live with her husband, and lawsuits follows for restoration of dowry paid for her involving both her husband and her own family in ruin. This is a serious question, and effects the most vital interests of the people, whose social life and family relations are the foundation of their government, and one which will sooner or later have to be dealt with by legislation.

WEALTH GETTING

[The Oh's Register.] The wealth that is bad comes by levying taxes upon the community without any adequate return for services rendered. Such wealth was formerly gained by force. Robber barons on land and free-booters at sea preyed upon the savings of others. Such sources of gain are now forbidden to private citizens. They are temporarily monopolized by strong governments. But the man who in former ages would have been a robber baron, carving out his fortunes with his sword, uses now the more delicate weapons of the intellect. Where physical powers once swept, he fields now intellectual powers wins the game. All wealth gained by monopoly is bad because it increases the poverty of those who contribute to it. A certain part of the winning of those who play the game of finance is, in a strict sense, the gain of gambling or of robbery. Wealth so gained is evil and corrupting; but, in the judgement of the most experienced leaders of men, the bulk of the increasing wealth of the world is not won without an increasing return in service to the world. Let us by little those who rule the markets and exchange of the civilized world be learning to detect and condemn the practices of the gambler and the thief. More and more the laws of nature are recognized as the legitimate laws of business.

"I HAD NOT THE HEART."

This was the excuse, says the Christian Guardian, offered by a junior employee for not exposing to the manager the wrong conduct of a senior in the office. This is an actual case explained to us a few days ago by the trustee manager of great financial interests. The confidential clerk and senior employee was making personal use of the company's money, and covering up the matter by delaying entries, and by other deception. This became known to the manager after several cases of misappropriation had occurred, and the confidential clerk was clearly convicted of theft and deception. One of the younger clerks knew of these wrong transactions, and when asked by the manager why he had not informed, he replied, "I had not the heart; I thought that he would do me the money." The first of these phrases was repeated several times, with the evident intention of showing strong human sympathy toward the transgressor, until the manager became convinced that the young man was turning a weakness into a virtue. Then he turned the phrase so as to drive home a moral lesson thus: "You had not the heart to expose your friend's wrong-doing; you had not the heart to rebuke wrong; you had not the heart to insist on righteousness; you had not the heart to do your own conscience; you had not the heart to serve the interests of your company. Such a weak heart is not a serious crime; it is not commendable sympathy, but commendable cowardice." Here is a lesson for young men and young women.
