"UNLUCKY" DAYS, ETC.

Says the N. Y. Advocate:—The extract below is from so reputable a paper that we do not mention its name. It appears too serious in style to admit of supposing that it is a recondite joke:

Two has always been an unlucky number, say the superstitious, in the dynasties of England. There was a 2 in Queen Victoria's birthday—May 24. There was a 2 in her death-day—Jan. 22. There was a 2 in her accession day—June 20—she had worn her crown 62 years, and she was in her 82d year. To complete the coincidence the queen was buried on Feb. 2. Those who declare that the number is unlucky base their contention on the fate of monarchs who have had the number 2 in their title. While Ethelred II (the Unready) was forced to abdicate, Harold II was slain at Hastings, William II was shot in the New Forest, Henry II had to fight for his crown, Edward II was murdered, Richard II was deposed, Charles II was driven into exile, James II was compelled to abdicate, and the reign of George II was troubled by civil war.

It should not be forgotten that as far of history records every king and queen of England has had 2 hands, 2 ears, 2 eyes, 2 feet, and 2 lungs. The figure 2 in the history of George Washington was quite marked. He was born Feb. 22, 1732. His father died when he was 12 years old. He was just 22 when he commanded a regiment against the French. In 1792 he desired to retire, and it was on Dec. 12 that he was exposed in the saddle and caught the attack of acute laryngitis of which he died. He was just 6 feet 2 inches height. All fatal numbers and letters are the silliest of superstitions. The coincidences occur only in a limited circle. They disappear in a long calculation. No more deaths have followed dining at table with 13 than with any other number, except as 13 is more than 12. No more bad luck has followed Friday than Thursday, and the whole of this page could be filled with things that have been begun and ended on Friday that have been of the highest good fortune to men and nations.

—The cost of the July Conventions of the Young People's Societies has been computed as follows:—Christ an Endeavor, $350,000; Baptist Young People's Union, 250,000; Epworth League, $1,500,000; Brotherhood of St. Andrews, $10,000 or $2,110,000. The Canadian Baptist asks: Had all the young people given what it cost them to attend these Conventions to Missions, and done earnest Christian work at home, would the spiritual uplift to them and the profit to the work of Christ have been less or greater?

SIGN OF WEAKNESS.

One of the surest signs of a consciousness of weakness in arguments is the beginning of a personal attack upon an opponent. When a writer calls another by hard names, of course the other, in a spirit of self-respect, will make no answer and then the author of the vituperation will seem to have won his case. —As a result of the Japanese Buddhist mission to this country," says The Literary Digest, "instituted a year or so ago, a church called the Dharma-Sangha (of Buddha) has been established in San Francisco, with three branches in other Californian towns. In the San Francisco temple there is a membership of three hundred in the Young Men's Buddhist Association, mostly of Japanese. At an English service on Sunday, twenty or more Americans are present, of whom eleven have already been converted to Buddhism, and have openly professed that they 'take their refuge in Buddha, in his gospel and in his order.

—It is estimated that London, England, has a population of eight hundred thousand young men, of whom three-fourths are in no way associated in religious work or with church life. What a problem here presents itself to the consecrated worker for the good of men and the glory of God in the mighty metropolis. The evangelization of the youth of the city the greatest problem of all. And yet, what brave, true men have set themselves to the solving of that problem! And what splendid work they have done under conditions the most trying and disheartening! It takes the infinite hopefulness of Christ himself to keep a man at the work that commands the missionary of the cross in our large cities.
