ROSS.—Our friends on earth fall at our side, and from our sight depart, but hope decay. By prophecy 'The voice said Cry.' 'And he said what shall I cry? All flesh is grass.' The grass withereth the flower fadeth; but the Word of our God shall stand forever. Before the Word, a God; by the word, salvation; in salvation, heaven secured; and in heaven, an habitation for the united family of God. So many times the tale of sorrow, by tongue and pen, is partly told, for when in the hour we think not, mortality makes its claim upon our nearest and dearest companions, and in a little time the bereaved are left alone, and are sad. Such is the character of the event that has called for this writing. Concerning the lamented death of the late Captain David L. Ross, of Centerville Cape Sable Island, N. S., which occurred by his being washed over-board from the Barque 'Reform' during a very heavy gale on Feb. 11th 1891, it is worthy of record that the voyage from Brunswick, N. S., to Buenos Ayres S. A. eight days from port, Lat. 34; 4 N. Long. 51; 24 W. Capt. Ross was on deck taking care of the ship, when a huge billow passed over and bore him away to his burial, with no other funeral rites than the character of christian sea, but where God made guardian angels to be. Another Captain died at his post. Mrs. Ross was on board with her husband, and with almost superhuman fortitude stood the storm in its fury and the inexpressible loss and dread by that fatal accident, giving timely and helpful aid in controlling the condition of that night which resulted in a sinking ship and perishing crew. Capt. D. L. Ross was well known as a successful commander by the firms for which he sailed, viz Messrs Dennis & Doane; Bark G. H. Jenkins, Westbury, belonging to Capt. Thomas Wilson. And for the previous 25 years he was employed by the late Wm. D. Lout and Son, commanding the Barque Madeleine and Reform. He was converted and united with the Free Baptist church at Centerville more than twenty years ago. His calling deprived him much of the privilege and benefits of christian influence, but he always held religious duties and demands in high regard. The community to which he belonged will long miss his welcome return from the sea, which at last became his sepulchre. A service sacred to his memory was observed at Centerville Sept. 8th, when a large number of his friends and acquaintances gathered to give their tribute of respect for him whose face they shall see no more until that bright shore. Rev. J. W. Smith preached from text, Rev. 15: 2. Rev. J. B. Merrill and A. M. McNinch were present and took part in the exercises. Much sympathy and prayerful responses were tendered to the bereaved friends, and especially to his widow, whose God has promised to be hers in life and in death. J. W. SMITH.

TRADE.—In an article in the September Forum on 'The Commercial Position of the British Empire,' Benjamin Taylor reminds those who discuss that the trade of the colonies is as essentially British as that of the United Kingdom.
