A BOTTOMLESS LAKE

An apparently bottomless lake with. in the limits of New York Civ, is described by the Christian Advocate. It lies close to the border line of the Bronx Park, and covers an area of six hundred feet. For three years attempts have been made to fill it up, as it is exactly on the line of a new avenue In its center is a smal sheet of water, resembling a pool that might be pumped dry in a day. Yet eighty thousand yards of fill.ng-earth, rock and trees-have been dumped into the pool up to a month ago, and on is no knowledge of where the tons upon tons of mate ia! have gone, whether carried by a subterranean current into the Atlantic Ocean, or by a rushing stream to the bed of the Hudson River, or whether it has sunk into a bottomless pit. Three times the place has been filled in to a depth of fifty-three feet but each time during the night, the filling went down out of sight. On May 30 1899, when the workmen believed they had finally got it filled up, the filling gave way swallowing up a truck and a team of horses. For three days afterward no trace could be found but at a depth of fif y-three feet grappling irons caught the truck and recovered it. The spot has been known since 1676. For a long time fish were caught in it. But the owners were | Heaven. constantly in trouble. Cows waded into the gond and disappeared, and no carcaes was ever recovered. FLOYD.—At 97 Exmouth St., St. John, on the 7th August, Sophia, aged 79 years, widow of the late P. T. Floyd, leaving five children and a number of grand-children and great grand-children to mourn their loss. Sister Floyd was baptized by Rev. Jacob Gunter, at Norton, and united with the Free Baptist church of that place. After moving to St. John she transferred her membership to Waterloo St. church. Her last illness was prolonged and painful, but she was made patient by her faith in her Saviour who had redeemed her. It her Saviour who had redeemed her. It was not given to our sister to work where her work would be applauded by the world. God gave her His work in the home, in ministering to her family. An invalid husband for years received her patient, loving care, and the Master has said of her, "She hath done what she could." Much sympathy is felt for the children, especially for the two sisters at home, for they ministered very tenderly to the mother so deeply loved. Now by her death the home is broken up. May the heavenly Father is broken up. May the heavenly Father sustain them will be the prayer of many
