To say it acts quickly fails al, went ashore at Seal's Cove, 12 to express the result. Sold everywhere in large 25c. bottles.

> How To REACH HIM .-- A letter to the Pope must be in Latin. The style need not be classical, but the language is obligatory. Some sort of Latin must be employed. The letter must be addressed to "His Holiness Pope Leo XIII, the happily reigning (Pontiff)." It must begin with Beatis sime Pater, "Most blessed father," and must end with some expression of obsequious regard. When it reaches the Vatican it has little chance of arriving at its destination unless some special precautions have been taken, for the daily budget numbers 20,000 documents. An excellent way of getting a letter into the Pope's hands is to make use of two envelopes, the outer one directed as above prescribed, and the inner one addressed to "His Holiness the Pope, the Head of the Universal Holy Roman Inquisition.' A minor official who opened an envelope thus addressed would incur the penalty of excommunication. Such communications are handed to the Pope, who opens them and passes them on unread to Cardinal Rampolla.

THE WALDENSIAN CHURCH. - A brave little church is the Waldensian church, of martyr memories, in the Piedmontese valleys. The church is not only self-sustaining, but is making a noble effort to send the gospel through the whole of Italy. Their ministers are well trained, speaking French and Italian, and many of them take a year or two at one of the colsay such fine crops and readily accepts leges in Scotland. There are many districts in Italy where there are hopeful signs of a religious awakening; and there is no religious body so well fitted to do the necessary work of evangelization as this native church, which is in touch with national feeling and national needs. The Waldensian churches have lately been celebrating the fifty-third anniversary of their cure. Give it a trial. A corn treated emancipation, when they were deliverwith other remedies wouldn't do so ed from long-continued persecution and placed on a footing of religious equality with other citizens of Italy. —The Westminster.

> -An article in the Missionary Review gives statistics of 36 societies doing mission work in South America, exclusive of our own. Only nine of these had been doing work on that Continent before I870, and fourteen have been operating there but ten years or less. The oldest mission is that of the Moravians in New Guiana, which began work there in 1738

Something over 30,000, members are in the mission churches. Of these 8,301 west. The loss will approximate are in connection with the Moravian mission, and 4,579 belong to that of the Methodist Episcopal Church. The Southern Baptists are doing work in Brazil, and have gathered 1,922 converts. As seen from the above, the Protestant world is only just awakening to the needs of South America as a great field for missionary work. But one of these 36 missionary societies is doing work in Bolivia and it has been operating there but two years. Our own was the first organized mission in that country.

AN ACED CONVERT. - While experence has shown that the hope of every heathen country lies in the conversion of the young, God is constantly giving evidences that His grace is sufficient even to save those who have grown old in sin. A missionary in South Africa tells of one old man who was most demonstrative. "A very old man, one of the oldest Zulus I have met, who loving husband and daughter in-law, Mrs. remember's Chaka's impis, and was a Henry Jones. The funeral, which was very lad when this Zulu king was de- largely attended, was conducted by the vastating fair Natal. Mss Harrls writer, assisted by the Rev. Mr. Archer and Miss Thompson were particularly interesting in him. He has been soundly converted, and was baptized a few week ago.
