POOD DIGESTION

Renders The Life of the Dyspeptic Miserable.

FOOD BECOMES DISTASTEFUL AND A FEELING OF WEARINESS, PAIN AND DEPRESSION ENSUES.

From LeSorelois, Sorel, Que.

Of the diseases afflicting mankind dyspepsia is one of the worst to endure. Its victims find life almost a burden. Food becomes distasteful; they suffer from severe pains in the stomach; sometimes excessive heart palpitation, and a general feeling of weakness and depression.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a purely tonic medicine and unlike all purgatives do not weaken the system, but give life and energy with every dose. They are a certain cure for anaemia, dizziness, heart troubles, rheumatism, sciatica, indigestion, partial paralysis, St. Vitus dance and the functional ailments that make the lives of so many women an almost constant source of misery.

LITERARY NOTES

THE OPEN-AIR POST.—The Open-Air Number of The Saturday Evening Post, of Philadelphia, which will be out April 24, will be one of the most notable special numbers of the year.

THE CORRESPONDING SECRETARY OF THE GENERAL CONFERENCE has received information from the Executive of the last will and testament of James W. Boyer, of Victoria, B. C., of bequests in which the Conference is interested. They are as follows:

That the sum of one thousand dollars be deposited by my Executors in the Dominion or Government Savings Bank or some similar institution and the interest thereon be paid yearly and every year to the Deacons Trustees of the Free Baptist Church at Victoria Corner, to be used in the first place to pay the premium part of "On the North Shore of Canada," with map and cuts, describes the romance and heroism of sub-Arctic and Arctic exploration. "Christmas Evans" recites the religious romance of Wild Wales. Three strong stories by Canadian writers are given. In the review department "The Problem of Social Salvation" is discussed; Poulney B. Gelow vindicates Britain in the Boer war, the Editor discusses current events. Toronto: William Briggs. $2.00 a year; $1.00 for six months.

The Missionary Review of the World for May is marked by variety, interest, and strength. There is a Scriptural Exposition by Dr. Pierson on "The Divine Link between Prophecy and Missions." A practical article is contributed by Robert E. Speer in that on the "Resources of the Christian Church for the Evangelization of the World." Three articles on China, two on John R. Mott's Visitation of Asia, and his impressions of the Situation there, and three contributions on African Life and Missions help to make up this attractive number of the Review. The Intelligence Department is a Missionary newspaper in itself. Published monthly by Funk & Wagnalls Company, 30 Lafayette Place, New York. $2.50 a year.

A double frontispiece in color, showing desert and reclaimed land in Arizona side by side, accentuated the beginning in the May Century of the promised series on "The Great Southwest"; The first paper deals with the natural feature, climate, population, irrigation, character of the people, etc. There are two illustrated papers of popular science, both of information now first published—"Is the Moon a Dead Planet?" and "How the Voice Looks,"—the latter with diagrams of the voices of Joseph J. Fessenden, Senator Depew, and others. There is a suggestive study of "Lonevity in Our Time" a story for parents called Jones' Little Girl.

From its charming cover to its last page the May issue of the Ladies' Home Journal excels.—An important new feature is the beginning of Ernest Thompson Seton's department for boys, which is written and illustrated by the naturalist-author-artist. There is a paper on "The Oud or President," and Helen K. Ller continues the marvelous story of her life. The fiction features "Those Days in Old Virginia," and the first part of a delightful story by Grace S. Richmond called Mr. Aok's editorial is a fine bit of sarcasm aimed at the wise New Yorkers. There is no lack of good and helpful advice and interesting facts in the various departments, and the illustrations are attractive. By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. Ten cents a copy; one dollar a year.

DEATHS.

HARVEY.—Roy Harold Harvey, only son of William and Anne Harvey, died quite suddenly at Seal Cove, Grand Manan, on the 9th ult., of pneumonia, aged 16 years. On the Saturday before he died he was gunning, on Monday he went to the shore feeling well enough to do so, but was tired when he came in, from that he began to sink, dying Wednesday morning. He was a good boy having no bad characteristics. If any one outside of either church in Seal Cove was prepared for death he was, although he made no pretensions to religion as men who publicly profess it do. A Bible reader and a thinker, as he was can be found much more readily among men many years his senior. He was much interested in temperance; few men dared to follow him in his convictions. It was a heavy blow to the community and family when they said Roy was dead; but in the presence of this and all other unexplainable experiences we must be content to be mute before God, and say "Thy will be done." The funeral exercises were largely attended and were held in the Free Baptist church at Seal Cove.

CHASE.—Mrs. Ethel, beloved wife of Clarence Chase, after many months of suffering, died at her father's home, at Seal Cove, on the 24th ult. She was born in 1880; 13 years afterwards she was baptized by Rev. S. A. Baker, and united with the Reform Baptist church at Seal Cove. While in the berry field during the summer of '93 she became lost from the rest of the party. Wandering in the woods she at last became tired, and making a bed of moss and gathering bits of bark for covering, she lay down for the night. There was careful searching during the afternoon of the same day and night, but she was not found until four o'clock the next day. She said that even during the night, amid the peals of thunder and the sharp flashes of lightning, followed by heavy rains, she was neither alone nor afraid. The Lord, she affirmed, she saw and therefore had no reason for fear. Exposure on that occasion may have shortened her days, for from that time she was the cause of much anxiety to her parents, who gradually were brought to believe that she must early go to the better land. In an unpretentious manner she was good, and bore in a quiet and patient firmness her suffering to the end. Her remains were taken to the old burying ground at Seal Cove, the obsequies being conducted by the writer. May our heavenly Father support parents, husband and sister in their hours of sadness.

A. H. McLeod.

WEYMAN.—Sister Jane Weyman, whose death occurred at her brother's home, Millstream, K. Co., on the 23rd ult., was a woman whose passing away deserves more than a passing notice. She was a woman of more than ordinary force of character. Converted when a child, she began her Christian education at an early age. The Bible was carefully studied, and the instruction that a Christian home can alone give, had given her a spiritual knowledge not possessed by those who did not have her advantages. She had been well instructed in the school of affliction, as well as in the church and home. For several years she could not minister, but had to be ministered to. But there came a time when she repayed the ministrations of father and mother by cheering them and helping them in their old age. When Dr. Phillips first visited the Province, and became our missionary, she became deeply interested in missions, and until her death gave freely of her prayers, sympathy and money for the support of missionaries. She was the loyal friend of church and pastor, and she always stood faithfully by them both. She has entered into the christian's heavenly joy and rest, and been reunited to the many she loved. Her funeral was largely attended, brethren Phillips and Francis assisting the pastor, bro. Ferguson, in the services.
