THEY PAY THE FREIGHT.

Two pals met on the street. "I saw you in the liquor men's parade Tuesday," one of them said. "O yer."

"Now, you tell me about it. Who were those fellows in front on horses?"

"Those? Why those were the wholesalers."

"Well, who were those fellows in carriages?"

"Those fellows in plug hats, smoking the big, black cigars?"

"Yes."

"They were the distillers and brewers."

"Who are those fellows walking there with the white plug hats, white coats and gold-headed canes?"

"They were the retailers."

"Who were those fellows that brought up the rear?"

"Fellows with cauliflower noses and fringe on their pants—the crowd I was with?"

"Yes."

"O, they were the consumers." They pay the bills.

THE KAISER'S VIEW.—The Berlin correspondent of the New York Times says that some ladies were talking to the kaiser on the position of women in Germany, and the emperor declared that he accepted his wife's opinion in such matters. "Shall I tell you what she sometimes says?" said he? "She tells me that woman's vocation is nothing but four K's." The ladies were Americans, and did not understand, and the emperor explained that the four K's stood for kinder, kirche, kueche, and kleider, or in English, children, church, cookery and clothes. On another occasion the emperor remarked that "a woman who can make jam puffs is worth more than a woman who can discuss a constitution." The German empress can do both; but the kaiser is prouder of her in domestic than in political affairs.

Woman's most queenly place on earth is at the head of a well-ordered home that is graced with a number of her own bright, happy children. But to be the queen of such a home she should be intelligently posted on matters of church and state, and, in justice to her family, and in the best interests of the country, should be crowned with the right to vote.
