WHISKEY AND GAMBLING.

These things occurred in Toronto and are reported in a Toronto paper:

I stood at the corner of Yonge and King streets the other day with a friend just after lunch. As we stood a man passed who was once one of the most honored and respected merchants in this city, but now with unshaven face, threadbare clothes, and bleared eyes, he picks up a job here and there for whatever he can get. Recently he was handling trunks for a former traveller of his at fifty cents a day and his board. All his position and prospects thrown to the winds for whiskey! A few minutes another passed who was once well connected in the shoe trade, now earning a precarious living in various ways, brought to it through "wine and women." Hardly had he passed out of sight when another followed who once drove his carriage and pair down to his office and back to his luxurious home, but at this particular time was making a short cut for a ten-cent counter. All through gambling. People do not need churches and ministers to point out the results of folly and wrong-doing. There are men reading this article who are on the path that leads to the human scrap-pile. Young man, old man, take the plugs out of your ears and hearken to wisdom lest it happen to you as with them at the last! She says: "Because I have called and ye have refused; I have stretched out my hand and no man regarded, but ye have set at naught all my counsels, and would none of my reproof; I also will laugh at your calamity; I will mock when your fear cometh."

SPURGEON ON COMMUNION.—Concerning the Lord's Supper, Spurgeon said: "There is not a Christian within the scope of God's heaven from whom I am separated. At the Lord's table I always invite all Christians to come and sit down and commune with us. If any man were to tell me I am separate from the Episcopalian, the Presbyterian, or the Methodist, I would tell him he did not know me, for I love them fervently, and I am not separate from them."
