aboard the Clallan perished. Among the lost were several Canadians. One of them was N. P. Shaw, son of Mr. E. M. Shaw, Victoria, C. Co., who for several years has resided in British Columbia.

It is reported that 10,000 workmen are in open rebellion at Kamenskoje, near Ekaterinoslay, Russia. They have stormed the machinery works, burned factories, and plundered the houses of wealthy residents. Troops have been sent to restore order.

In Birmingham, Ala., Thursday, fire burned the county jail. Five prisoners were burned to death, and twenty others escaped.

In New York deaths from pneumonia numbered 364.

At Scottsdale, Pa., Thursday, fifteen persons were injured in a street car accident.

A crowd of employes pressing against the elevator gate on the sixth floor of a shoe company building in St. Louis, Wednesday, the gate gave way and ten persons plunged down the shaft. Six were taken out dead, two others died in a few hours, and several were injured.

In Chicago fifteen churches have been closed for violations of the building ordinances, and the Building Commissioner placed them all under a guard of police until alterations are made. Policemen were, also, sent to guard a number of lodging houses and a prominent commercial college.

A G. T. R. train struck an electric street car in Detroit Friday, and 34 people were injured.

It is reported that a serious battle has taken place between government troops and the insurgents in Uruguay, the latter losing heavily.

MORMONS.—Mormon missionaries are pushing their work in Austria and Hungary. They are getting a good many followers. Leading citizens are quite alarmed, and it is intended to ask Parliament to enact a law prohibiting Mormon missionaries carrying on work in the Empire.

What Others Say.

THE PRAYER MEETING.

Revivals usually begin in the prayer meeting, therefore lay stress on the prayer meeting. Work it up, talk it up, pray it up, prepare for it. It is worth your time and faith.—The Wesleyan.

A POOR EXCUSE.

For many of our undesirable actions we can offer no better excuse than to say that others do the same. We take low standards of life because we see others live on that kind of a plane. It is the poorest kind of an excuse. A thing is either right or wrong for us, not a question of what others do.—Mich. Presbyterian.

A POOR SERMON.

That sermon of which it is said, "It is just splendid, and could not possibly offend anybody, no matter what his belief might be," needs no further commendation. Surely, none of Christ's sermons were of that kind; nor were any of Peter's, or Stephen's, or of Paul's. The sermon that does not offend Satan and some of his servants is worthless. And the same may be truthfully said of a religious paper.—Rel. Telescope.

THE CANDIDATING PREACHER.

His success depends not so much upon his real capacity as upon a certain fluency, together with a certain tone which seems to give a pledge of piety, and a certain presence which seems to be palatable to the congregation. They can be carried away by a windbag with two sermons full of apocryphal anecdotes and conventional arguments. The judgment of the spiritually-minded man counts for very little against the votes of the multitude, who are not well educated and not competent to deal with the matter.—Ian Maclaren.

A BARBARITY.

One of the barbarities of our civilization is the immense cost of funerals. Custom has become a tyrant, and many dollars are literally squandered for appearance's sake that should be spared for the necessities of life. It would be a poor consolation to a man in the grave to think that his widow would have to struggle for two or three years to pay off the funeral debts that an oppressive public opinion created. Many a poor family has gone deeply into debt to bury its members because of fear of what the neighbors might say. The fashion of simplicity, set by the English great, might well be adopted by rich and poor alike.—Youth's Companion.

PREFERRED THE SWINE.

When Jesus, in healing the demoniac of Gadara, suffered the demons to enter into the herd of swine, with disastrous results to the herd, the people of the neighborhood besought him to depart out of their borders. That is the desire of wrongful commercialism in all ages. Men who are not doing business on Christian principles do not want Christ's presence. He is a constant rebuke to their unrighteousness. But wishing him away does not send him away. If he is not present as a Friend, he is present as a Judge. Jesus Christ is a factor in human society of which the world cannot rid itself.—The Examiner.

—In Germany there is a hopeful movement in favor of the federation of all the Protestant churches.
