It appeared in evidence that the unfortun-ate man left his employer, Mr. Everitt, on lame. And when questioned as to the cause of it, his answer was that he had been badly hurt while at Tibbits' yesterday.

Mr. Everitt examined his wounds and considered him dangerously injured; and told him unless he was very careful, it might be the cause of his death. He was taken to his bed shortly afterwards, and languished about three weeks and then died.

Although great pains was taken, no evi-dence was adduced at the time of the examination to prove who the person was that injured the deceased; but it is to be hoped, that this melancholy affair may prove a warning, and that tavern-keepers will be more careful for the tuture, and not allow persons who frequent their houses, to get into such a state of drunkenness as to cause such melan- deserve the dollars. choly circumstances.

TER .- It will be seen from Capt. Hosken's report of the homeward voyage of the Great Wes-tern, that he was diverted from his course in a most unjustifiable manner, by a signal of distress hoisted by the master of the brigantine Champion of Newfoundland, when, instead of requiring any assistance, he merely used it as a decoy, to duce him to take a passenger on board. Such conduct should be severely reprehended by the ship owners, as it will have a direct tendency to make the captains of steam vessels, who do not not the task to time like a mail coach, pass by cases of real distress, when they find themselves so trifled Mr. John McLauchlan, of this place. NEW YORK, Augt. 22. The capitals of England and France have been thrown into the greatest consternation in consequence of the unexpected disclosure, that 40, and one half of Lot No. 10. consequence of the unexpected disclosure, that a treaty had been concluded between England, Russia, Prussia, and Austria, for settling the af-fair of the East, compelling Mehemet Ali to abandon Syria and to surrender the Turkish fleet of which he so unjustly possessed himself. The case became more complicated and alarming as soon as it was known that France was not a party thereto. In Paris the excitement was intense, and the public journals breathed anger and defiance to all the offending powers. At the last dates their tone had somewhat moderated, and the fears entertained of an immediate war had, in some degree, subsided.

Row BROTHERS ROW .- 'The St. John Boating Club, who stood some bantering in a former season, have come boldly out, challenging the Halifax oarsmen to a trial of strength and skill. They offer to run any boat manned by Novasco-tians, for $600, a distance of six miles, in Halifax harbour. The challenge was received by the Hon. J. L. Starr, J. B. Uniacke, and E. Wallace, Esqrs.—and, as a matter of course, was accepted, for $1000. This is brave of the New Brunswickers ; we do not think they can beat the Novascotians, but they may, and if they do, they will deserve the dollars. her occupation of Algiers, gives her too great a preponderence in the Mediterranean. Mehemet Ali is aiming at the entire overthrow of the Sultan, and would, in the event of such a triumph, established himself as the Grand Seignior at Constantinople. France backs him in this great enterprise, and her services might possibly be requitted by the cession of, or virtual occupancy of Egypt, which is now the grand route of communication between Great vernment in procuring this treaty. Another, was the hazard of Russia obtaining a permanent foothold at Constantinople; for had Ibrahim Pacha made any further advances upon Stamboul, the Sultan would have called upon the Czar for succour, which he has long since pledged himself by treaty to give, when needed. The oc-cupation of Constantinople by Russia would be as fatal to British interests as the occupation of Egypt by the French. Great Britain has, then, pay 2.1-2d. per lb. in order to avert either, if not both these calamities, undertaken with the three great powers of the north to settle the dispute between the Sultan and his vassal Mehemet without further at all times. delay; and the basis of this settlement is, that Mehemet shall be limited to his own Pachalic of Egypt Proper, by which means it is hoped to preserve the tottering power of the Sublime Porte another generation. Under all the circumstances and difficulties, we are inclined to applaud the consummation of this treaty; it averts calamities on all sides, and at the single risk of endangering the peace with France. France however we can-not persuade ourselves will take up arms in such a cause, opposed as she would be by four such powerful nations. France is not sufficiently renovated for this, nor is the power of Louis Philippe enough consolidated—nor the republican party sufficiently humbled to enable the King of the Barricades to dispense with the aid of the Wood or Bottle, comprising qu highest to lowest cost including legitimates of the north. She will then in all probability allow her angry ebullitions to sub-side, and content herself for the present with endeavouring to consolidate her power in Algiers.
