One day would be spent in snipe and cock-sheeting in the bottom of the valley; the next, a visit would be paid to the hills for partridges—then a day's fly-fishing, followed perhaps by an excursion to some of the many lakes in the neighborhood, for duck-shooting. My young friend generally contrived to accom-My young friend generally contrived to accompany me, and from his perseverance soon acquired from the country lads the title of "the sporting apprentice." I had provided him with a light rod, and a fit out of fly-tackle, with which he soon learned to take trout neatly. In the bright waters of this river good fishing was absolutely necessary; for although there was abundance of fish, yet they were seldom taken by the farmers except in times of flood, and when the water was discoloured.

Twelve Russian ships were expected at Cronstadt in the Mediterranean.

By Command. great attractions are offered to the poor but in-dustrious man, who for long years perhaps struggles on in Britain, burthened with a help-less family, seldom far removed from penury and distress, and frequently reduced to absolute want from political or other causes. Here it is widely different—where his own labour, and that of his family, instead of being yielded for a few pence or shillings per day, bestowed on his own land, enables him to attain an independent station for himself, and to provide for those that are near and dear to him. ## THE SENTINEL.

The second September mail, unexpected-Legal 17s. 6d.

John Johnston, allowed, on satisfying the ly made its appearance on Saturday afternoon, having been sent to Windsor and thence to St. John; and immediately forwarded by the New Brunswick, river boat. The mail was brought out by the Caledonia, steamer which arrived at Halifax on Thursday morning, after a passage of eleven and a quarter days, and reached Fredericton in fourteen after its departure from England. The information by this conveyance is of little moment. Had there been anything of importance to communicate, we should have Thomas Brown, do.

issued an extra on Monday morning. A course we shall pursue, upon the arrival of any English mail, containing intelligence of any English mail, containing intelligence of

The first October mail which has now been at sea a week, having been despatched on Saturday last; will probably bring some news of proceedings with reference to China, and something definite as to the Eastern question, which it is not at all impossible may yet terminate in war; although a desire for peace, evidently actuates the governments of France and England.

Probably much of the excitement in France, may have been caused by a desire to divert the minds of the people from domestic conspirits of the revolution are still to be found, anxious for a return of those stirring times, which rendered their country an object of fear and hostility throughout Europe. And thus while preparations are making for a foreign war, the city of Paris is to be fortified, to guard against domestic treason.

Lord FALKLAND was sworn in at Halifax on Wednesday last, as Lieut. Governor of the Province of Nova Scotia, and immediately assumed the reigns of government; when it will be seen that four of the Executive Council, gentlemen highly respectable as members of society and in private life, but who felt pledged to support the former measures of that body, were requested to retire; and another who had recently been called to take his seat, was required to appeal to the constituency of the country for one in the House of Assembly, it being the intention of Her Majesty's ministers "to conduct the government of the country in accordance with the understood wishes of the people.

We observe also that the Attorney General will not be permitted again to act as Speaker of the Assembly. It is not improbable therefore that Mr. Howe will be elevated to that station, who it is stated will have a seat in the Executive Council.

We understand that the Rev. Mr. CAMP-BELL, who recently arrived from England, will have the vacant Church at Douglas; having during the short time he has been in the Province, rendered himself highly acceptable to the members of the established church in that quarter.

It is also rumoused that the Rev. BAPTIST NOEL, will probably be elevated to the Bishop-ric of New Brunswick; and we think we cannot afford better evidence of our desire to see the Church of England attain that rank and character, which it should maintain in these Provinces, than by expressing the pleasure we feel at sceing clergymen of the establishment ap-pointed to administer to the spiritual wants of its members, who are divested of those ultra notions, to which the people of these colonies are so generally opposed; and which are every where inimical to the advancement of true reli-

It never rains but it pours, is an adage of which the good people of St. John are at present realizing the truth. Not content with having the military-head quarters transferred to New Brunswick, they are now running wild with the idea, that the two Provinces are to be united; and that St. John will be the future capital, It will be quite time enough to contend athe seat of government shall be placed, when such an absurd amalgamation as that referred to takes place. Meantime however, it may be as well to state, that in Carman settles his arrears previous to the 24th all the propositions that have been made to reunite these colonies. Amherst at the head of the Bay of Funday, and in Nova Scotia, has been deemed the most proper place for the seat of Government. The reasons why that

We cannot believe however that any such an early opportunity of devoting a portion of The Petitions of the undermentioned persons this Journal to the consideration of the subject; and explain why we think such a measure would be impolitic and improper.

> It appears that the Commissioners, who were appointed by the Lieut. Governor to report upon the practicability of running a daily mail be-tween Halifax and St. John; have received information which satisfies them that it can be run from St. John and Annapolis during nine months in the year; and from that city to Indian Point,
> —the place on the opposite side of Digby Gut, > to which we recently referred,—during the remaining three months.

This information is highly satisfactory, and the ine will doubtless be adopted; but it is of importance, so far as the carrying of the mail is concerned, that the route by Windsor should not be neglected. Late in the autumn and early in the spring, it is almost impossible to travel the roads in these Provinces; and hence well taken where well taken places upless a stemphone. much delay will take place, unless a steamboat-during those seasons, shall receive and deliver at a short distance from Halifax, the Canada and Land will be offered at Public Auction at this Office on Monday, the 7th day of December siderable magnitude. siderable magnitude.
