were delivered upon the occasion, and the meeting was concluded with singing and prayer.

There is no part of the province where the been ficial effects of the temperance cause have been more conspicuous than in the neighbourhood of St. Stephens, particularly at Milltown, where it has been promoted chiefly through the instrumentality of the Wesleyan clergymen, who have from time to time been stationed there, and the influence of several of the most respectable the influence of several of the most respectable.

We have given place to the communication from our correspondent at Westmorland, although it exceeds the limits to which in future we trust he will confine his remarks.

The letter in allusion to the proposed exchange of one part of this town for another, will doubtless excite surprise and attention; as we occurre the opinion was generally entertained, that the project had been abandoned.

We have never had but one opinion as to the injurious results that would ensue, were a large injurious results that would ensue, were a large.

tural pursuits. About four miles above Milltown, on the American side, the upper part of Calais is terminated by a neat village called Baring, which is also connected by a bridge with the opposite shore.

A circumstance occurred here in 1827, which be shown how extensive are the ramifications of commercial difficulties. It was Sunday morning, a temperance meeting was held which we were invited to address. It is the custom there as elsewhere, to open the meetings with prayer, and the party assembled, were detained some plation, should be seriously considered in all its plation, should be seriously considered in all its sets and to pay for them:

The proposite shore.

A circumstance occurred here in 1827, which led to the set demantion of the policy, which led to the set ection of Fredericton for the seat of Government. And when we perceive how easy it is to establish a rival settlement, as has been evine that the drivers on the line, have not represented him justly to the travellers; he hopes however that in a short time, the whole line from St. John to Woodstock will be so conducted, that his establishment will at least get a fair trial.

Separate rooms will be kept in the Frederic plation, should be seriously considered in all its sell any goods that he may have on hand at Cost with a commodated with a comfortable residence—the whole, on the most time that an occurrence had just taken place, which affected his mind in a manner that unfitted him for publicly leading the worship of the sanctuary. Another took his place; and on ou return to the lower village, we learnt that a failure had occurred in London, which had materially affected a large mercantile establishment at Boston, had extended as will be perceived, to a remote and distant settlement, nd for a time, disordered a benevolent and usually well regulated mind.

Kinnear and William Hutchinson, which timber laden ships are to be loaded; and west side of Germain-street, between Queen and which is seriously detrimental to the mercantile St. James' streets; there being several barns in interests of that county, its intercourse with the West Indies being most extensive; and a hope was generally entertained, that, as the officers of Her Majesty's Castoms in Nova Scotia, construct the law as applying only to the former description of vessels, the Executive Covernment of this Province would pass some order, by which relief might be afforded. This however has not been done, the Executive conceiving that they have no right to interfere with reference to the application of an Imperial statute.

that part or the country, yet sufficient to satisfy to support its population in competent of the Lieutenant Governor here, has not yet been entrely allayed. The memorandum alluded to has recently been published, we hope it will be copied into the newspapers of Calais, and that a question which the two general governments alone are competent to decide, should no longer be permitted to estrange kind and friendly hearts, or to destroy the more congenial emotions of a generous nature.

On the evening of our arrival at Calais, there was a Temperance Festival at St. Stephens, as was the case on the first night of the hast year. This we were unable to attend, owing to the late hour when we reached the former place, which prevents our describing minutely this movel but highly interesting description of entertainment. We understand however, that a large party was assembled, composed of probably 130 persons; the room which had been prepared for the occasion, was tastefully fitted up, with evergreens and the national flags: an asmople repast was prepared of articles "that cheer but do not inebriate"—a number of addresses were delivered upon theocasion, and the meeting was concluded with singing and prayer.

The was concluded with singing and prayer.

This we were unable to attend, owing to the late hour when we reached the former place, which prevents our describing minutely this may be a constant of the proprietors, having the day before lost a fine horse in attempting to cross Grand Bay on the ice: breakfasted about fifteen miles from St. John: reluctantly passed the Widow Mather's near cottage, with its tempting variandah, and independence.
