our major farm products whether they be for export, interprovincial movement or intra province trade.

"To cite a concrete example of where the graded article captured a market one need only mention the loss to the New Brunswick turnip growers of the New England market. Ontario and Prince Edward Island farmers captured this market to a large extent by careful grading and not by any price cutting methods.

"Then, on the other hand, Ontario and Quebec dealers will readily admit that New Brunswick graded potatoes will outsell their own home grown potatoes because of their uniformity of grade and quality.

"The producers in the vicinity of our cities and towns, who have been able to market their products direct to the consumer, may not realize the value of definite grade standards, but if they will but study the question they will appreciate the fact that they have been giving the consumer what amounted to a graded article, that is, to a certain extent at least. No doubt they have also experienced the bad effects of the ungraded article being in competition at cut rate prices. Conditions such as these are certainly not in the best interests of the producer or the consumer.

"As previously stated by the Hon. Lewis Smith, the Department of Agriculture is maintained for the primary purpose of assisting the farmers of the province in every way possible to produce and market his products in the best manner possible."
