

SATURDAY NIGHT MUSINGS

SUMMER is here and those who indulge in outdoor sports will have a few months in which to take part in their favorite pastimes. But in the Maritimes the chief of sports still seems to be baseball, although softball is building up a great following and eventually may drive baseball into second place. But soccer football is coming into increased popularity and it is gaining support in all parts of the Maritimes.

Lacrosse at one time was fairly popular in some Maritime centres. Back in what are really the old days now, Saint John boasted of its lacrosse fans and its players, but those days are gone and what we get of lacrosse we must gather from the Upper Canadian papers. Judging from the space given it, the game is on the ebb there, too. It is said the game was invented by the North American Indians, who wanted a lawful manner in which to do in the enemies of their own tribes, or to do away with unfriendly neighbors. Be that as it is or may be, up around Toronto way lacrosse was popular, and every time a game was staged there was always a large crowd on hand to see the slaughter.

Down here in the Maritimes we do not take our sports so seriously. A few pop bottles for a baseball umpire, thrown in a sportive fashion, is about as far as we ever go. We generally have more sport in an election campaign when we heckle speakers and often we don't seem to care whether we are on their side or not. We can hardly expect our people to be like the English who play cricket and make that an example for their acts in their usual walks of life.

But cricket is not played very much in New Brunswick. Once in a while a match will be staged in Saint John or Fredericton but it is not highly popular with the crowds, who do not appear to understand what it is about. The writer does remember on one occasion attending a cricket match in England along with some other Canadians. When, however, the Canucks persisted in cheering and making remarks to and at the players, the referee, or maybe it was the umpire, stopped the match and stepped over to us with the information that our conduct was not in keeping with the traditions of cricket, so we left the cricket match and went to a movie, if I remember correctly.

That recalls a bit of war history, which I trust I will be pardoned for mentioning, but this has to do with sport and also with Hardy Ganong. Perhaps some of you never heard of Hardy Ganong, but he has his home in St. Stephen. He works in the candy factory down there or owns it or something. Anyway he eats great quantities of the candy they make in that factory. This is not an "ad" but it shows that they must make pretty good candy, when a man can work there 20 years or more and still eat it. However, over in France Hardy Ganong was one of the greatest sport promoters on record. He managed a tug of war team. He managed and played on a softball team. He played on a hardball team. He managed the track team of the battalion, and promoted boxing exhibitions. If there was any kind of a sporting event, he would be on hand for it. If he could not play he was one of the most rabid of fans. But what I wanted to tell you was that one time in Brighton, England, he took peanuts (over there they call them monkey nuts) to a cricket match and scandalized the whole population by eating them when he should have been taking tea on the clubhouse veranda. I do not know whether this historic event was ever recorded before but here it is now and if St. Stephen ever erects a monument it should be to the man who introduced peanuts to a cricket match in England. I do not know if the English have adopted peanuts but they should.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!

By ALEX. J. MORRISON

Recently I broadcast the play of the Metropolitan Open on the Lakeville course at Great Neck, Long Island. This job afforded me a fine chance to compare the swings of Runyan, Macfarlane, Ghezzi, Hines, Kinder, Picard and other players in the National Open.

Young Picard shines as the best swinger since Bobby Jones' retirement. His tall, slender build, with exceptionally long arms and good-sized hands, makes it rather easy for him to whip the club around with terrific speed. He doesn't appear to be hitting the ball very hard, but the speed of the clubhead just about equals that of Jones.

This means that he doesn't have to pound the ball the way most of the younger pros do. If he ever happens to be playing in your neighborhood, watch him. You'll profit by it.

Eddie Connolly Met Defeat in Outstanding Battle of Ring

The fifteenth was also Connolly's round, but in the sixteenth Kearns came up fresh and strong and started to force matters. He drove his right to Eddie's left eye and it started to swell. At this time his right eye was closed. Advantage to one and then the other alternated until the twenty-second round when the finish came. At this time Connolly was noticeable tired, but seemed to be fighting strong when suddenly he absorbed a terrific left on the jaw. He went down in a heap and took eight seconds. When he got up Kearns was at him with a rush. Again Connolly was beaten down and took the limit. When he got up Tim's left again found the mark and Eddie went down for the third time. Again he was up on time, but the referee put a stop to hostilities and awarded his decision to Kearns.

C. N. R. LEAGUE

The C. N. R. Softball League is scheduled to open on July 2. Two games will be played each week by each team. Henry McEachern, of Quispamsis, is president of the league. The games will be played on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. To be eligible to play, a person must be a permanent or summer resident of his community. The league will permit its players to engage in games in only one loop, but they are free to play baseball.

Startling Secrets About Yourself That Even You Do Not Know!

10 Unsolved Mysteries

ABOUT YOU AND WHAT YOU EAT

HAVE YOU ever wondered why some of us get sick on foods that others enjoy? The truth is that no one knows the answer. Even physicians cannot explain it! In fact, after studies for at least 3,000 years, there are still more things unknown about the digestive system of the human being than are known and agreed to by all scientists.

Some Foods Cure Disease, But No One Knows Why!

One of the world's foremost physiological chemists recently revealed ten outstanding mysteries about digestion. These baffling biological facts are discussed in an unusual article.
