

Youthful Speakers Should Stick To Facts Every Time

Youthful Politicians Must Inform Themselves on History To Some Degree.

In their search for something on which to base condemnation of the Government, the Opposition representatives are going to extremes. They are trying to make the people believe that everything that was ever wrong with New Brunswick is the fault of the Tilley Government. Some of the younger men and new candidates of the Opposition have been led astray and false statements are being put in their mouths. No candidate, however immature or young, should allow his party leaders to conduct him into error. By making false statements the young politicians will wreck any careers they may be planning. The young speakers should search out the facts for themselves.

At a Liberal gathering in Kings County, recently, W. W. V. Foster, a young candidate for provincial honors, is reported to have said that "the flooding of the New Brunswick market by pork shipments from Prince Edward Island was made possible by Mr. Tilley's blunder in permitting the Dominion Government to merge this province and Prince Edward Island in one district. This condition a Liberal Government would change."

It is regrettable that a young man of worth should make such a blunder. Had he delved into history slightly he would have found that pork has been coming into New Brunswick from Prince Edward Island for many years. Saint John men formerly in the commission business here say that back in years around 1888 great shipments of pork came here from Prince Edward Island and the flow has been almost continuous since then. But back around 1888 Mr. Tilley and his Government were not in power. As a matter of record it is here stated that from 1883 to 1896 a Liberal Government under the leadership of Hon. A. G. Blair was in power in New Brunswick. In centre—ESTHER RABKIN, who qualified as an expert engineer so that she could be of use in her native Russia; right—HELEN REID, who quivered not an eyelash as she came through the medical course.

ONE A DOCTOR, ONE A LAWYER,, ONE AN ENGINEER

These three graduates of the University of Alberta are not only charming, they are breaking into fields not usually broken into by co-eds. Left is MARY DUNCAN, who took her L.L.B. and is now a qualified lawyer;

Hon. Mr. Blair's time pork and other products were brought into New Brunswick, and the reason for this was that there was not enough produced in New Brunswick to supply the demand.

Similar conditions prevail today, but Mr. Tilley and his Government are doing everything possible to increase production, and during the coming years Mr. Tilley and his Government will continue to help agriculture.

DISGUISE OF POLICEMAN IS DISCLOSED BY HIS BOOTS

London, Eng.—A police constable explained at Marylebone police court how an otherwise excellent disguise had been penetrated owing to the fact that he wore size 11 in boots.

The officer, P.C. Green, was giving evidence against George Hicks, 50, of Wyfold Rd., Fulham, S.W., who was accused of obstruction by warning a street bookmaker.

P.C. Green said he was disguised as a mechanic with a long white smock over his uniform, and he was about to arrest the bookmaker when Hicks pointed to his boots and shouted, "Look out, Jack! Here's a copper." The bookmaker ran away.

Hicks denied that he was the man and was discharged.

New U.S. Envoy to Canada Has Had Brilliant Career

Norman Armour Served His Country in Many Corners of Globe—Made Diplomatic Post Life's Work—Wed Russian Princess.

By KINGSBURY SMITH, Central Press Canadian Correspondent

Washington.—A victory for the career men of America's diplomatic service is seen here in the linking of Norman Armour with the post of American minister to Canada.

The career men are those who devote their lives to the diplomatic service and work their way up through the ranks by years of duty in remote corners of the world.

Armour, present American minister to the little West Indian republic of Haiti, is a career man. He was the choice of Undersecretary of State William Phillips for the Ottawa post. Phillips, who was America's first minister to Canada, and a career man himself is the champion of the career service in the State Department.

In addition to being a close personal friend of Phillips, Armour is considered one of the aces of the American diplomatic corps.

Quarter Century Service

He is ranked along with Ambassador Joseph C. Grew at Tokio and Ambassador Hugh Gibson at Rio de Janeiro, the two leading career diplomats of the State Department.

With nearly 25 years service as a diplomat behind him, Armour has knowledge gained as an American diplomatic representative in virtually all the four corners of the globe. He was even born abroad—in Brighton, England, of American parents who were travelling in Europe at the time, October 14, 1887.

He received his bachelor of arts at Princeton in 1909 and a bachelor of law from Harvard in 1913. Two years later he obtained a master of arts degree from Princeton.

After serving as an attache at the American Embassy in Vienna for three months in 1912, when the Austrian capital was at the height of its gaiety, he returned to his studies in this country and was admitted to the New Jersey bar in 1914.

He left for Europe again in 1915 to become an attache at the American Embassy in Paris.

Married Russian Princess

This Paris post marked the beginning of his active career as a diplomat. He remained there until May 17, 1916, when, after passing a foreign service examination, he was assigned as secretary of the American Embassy at Petrograd.

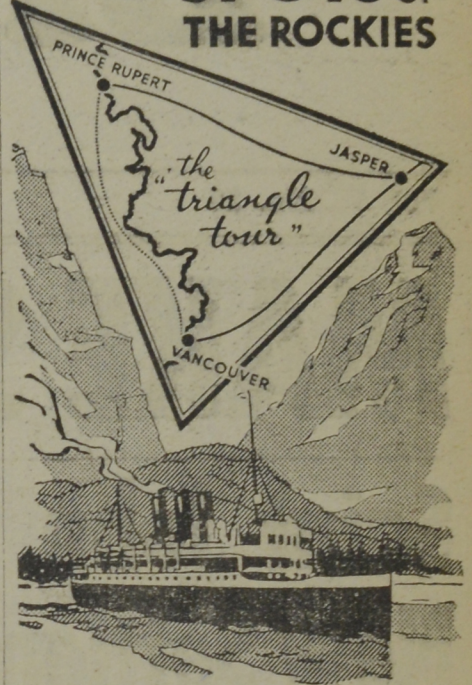

At this capital of the czars of Russia, young Armour, still in his twenties, found romance and some of the most exciting experiences of his life. Here he witnessed the bloody revolution that placed the Soviets in power and here he helped a Russian princess who later was to become his wife flee from the mobs.

The princess was Myra Koudacheff, daughter of a prominent family of the Russian nobility, residing in Petrograd. The princess fled to Paris and shortly thereafter Armour was transferred to Brussels. The wedding bells rang on February 2, 1919.

A year later, Armour and his princess-bride journeyed to Holland, where he was assigned to the American legation at the Hague. He remained there for a year and then was transferred

Y. M. C. A. Elects Directors At Its Meeting In Halifax

Other Matters of General Interest Were Discussed.

Halifax.—Rev. J. S. Thompson and Norman Thompson were named as the new appointees to the board of directors of the Halifax "Y", succeeding E. L. Rowan-Legg and E. Gould, at the annual meeting held last week. Other directors re-elected were Ronald M. Fielding, president; H. E. Crowell, vice-president, and Harold S. Johnstone.

Andrew W. Robb was appointed to fill the vacancy of trustee made in the passing of the late O. E. Smith. C. J. Burchill, K.C., was re-elected as the second trustee. The annual report as presented by Ronald M. Fielding indicated an increase in the association activities during the past year but a deficit of nearly $3,000. The president expressed his regret at not having attained the financial objective in the recent campaign. Other program reports on religious and foreign work, physical department, boys' work, educational department and social department were more encouraging than previous years.

One minute of silence as a tribute to the following deceased members and subscribers was observed: B. Scott Clarke, Dwight DeWolfe, P. A. Freeman, W. H. MacRobert, Harold Oxley, O. E. Smith, I. C. Stewart, T. J. Locke and Dr. G. K. Thomson.
