Lumber Industry At Eastville, N. S. Is Very Active

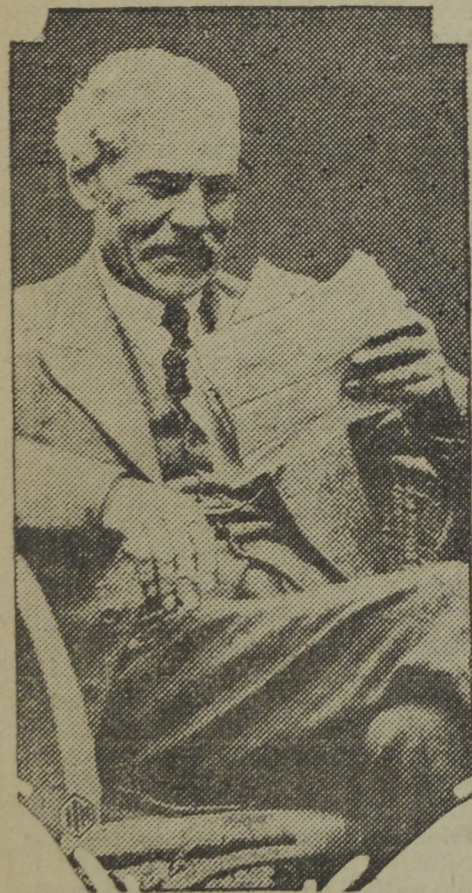

Manufacture of Puncheon Staves Makes Busy Times in One Section.

The fall of snow on the night of January 19 which was sufficient to make good sledding has been a great boon to the lumbermen, and the various camps now present a scene of great activity, says S. T. Ellis in the Truro Weekly News. Every available man and team is in the woods, consequently there is no unemployment in this part of the country. As there were not enough men and teams in the place to supply the demand, a number have come in from the adjoining counties of Halifax, Pictou and Cumberland and some from New Brunswick.

D. A. Huston is operating on a large hardwood belt of virgin timber east of the Brown Mountain. It is said that the quality of this timber is not surpassed in any part of this province. Mr. Huston is engaged in the manufacture of puncheon staves. He has been in this business for a number of years, but the present operation is on a somewhat larger scale than formerly. He began operations in August building camps, making roads and has given employment to a large number of men. The public road goes over the highest part of the mountain and the grades are too steep for practical use in lumbering and a new road was made around near the base of the high ground where the grades are easier.

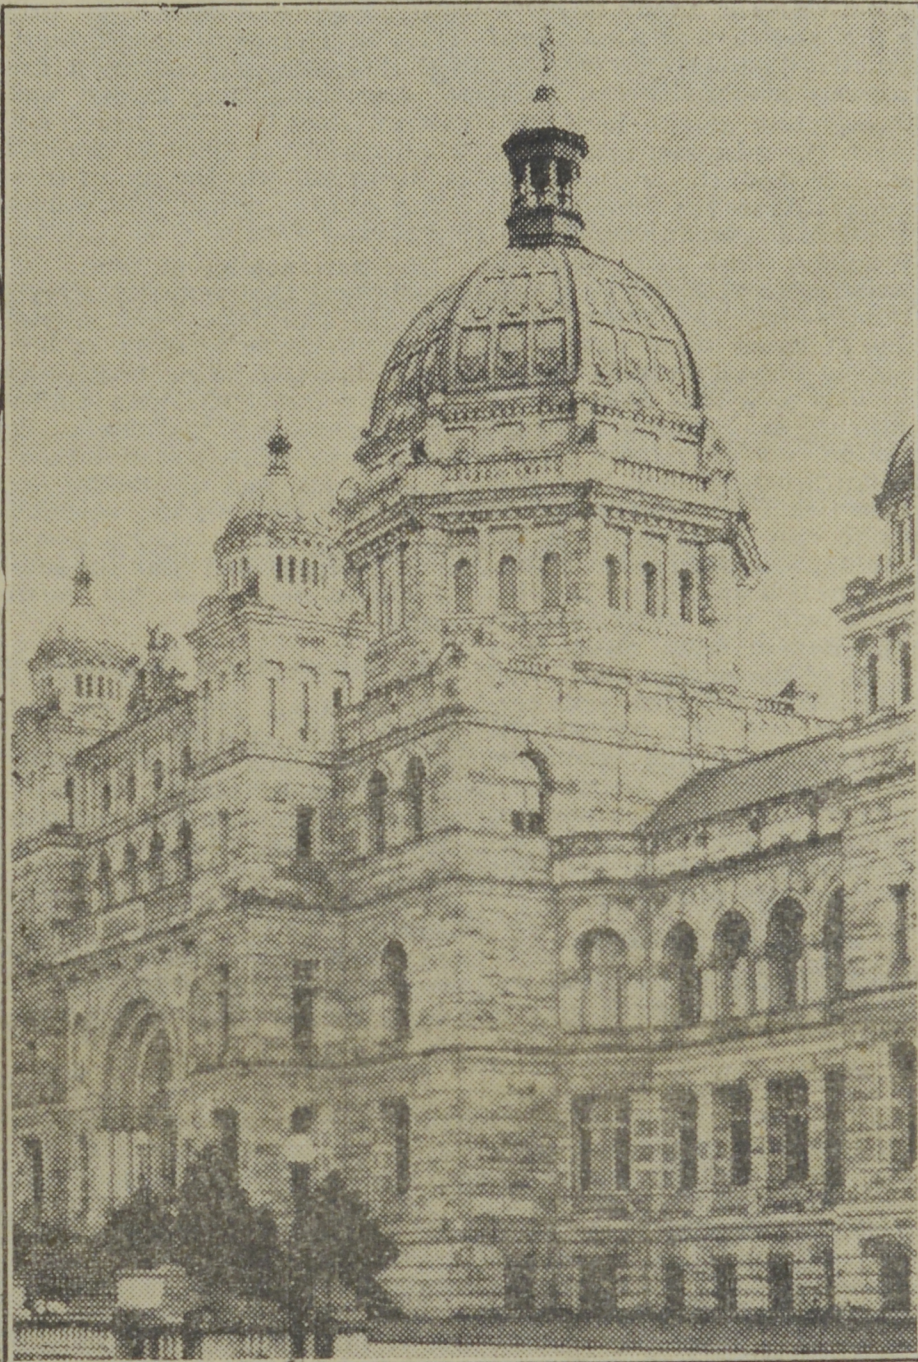

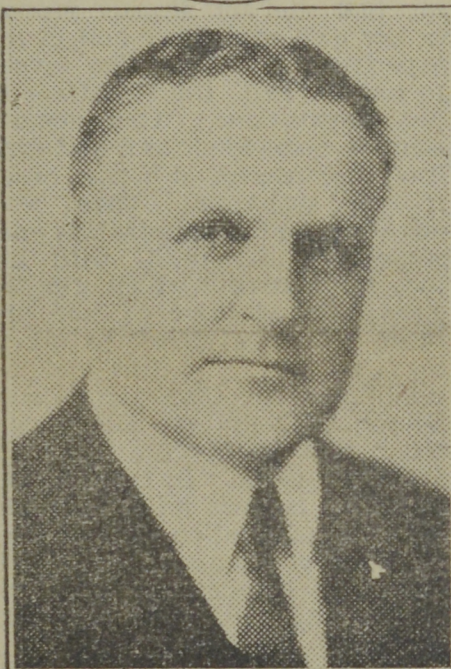

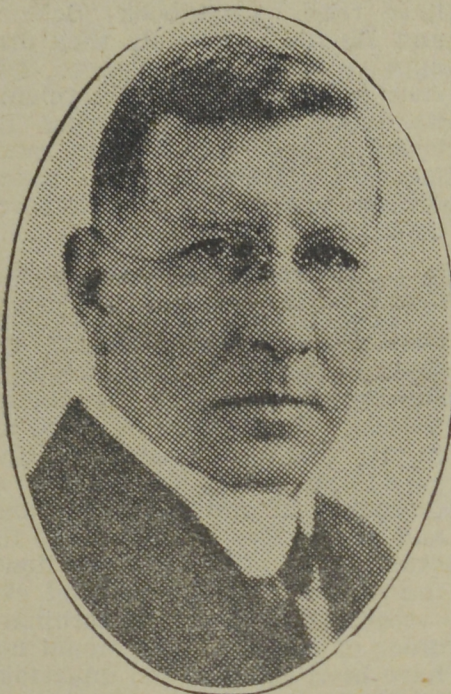

There are at present 120 men and 39 horses employed around the different camps. There are two logging camps, the mill camp (Continued on Page 24, Col. 4)

Wins Election

RAMSAY MACDONALD, former Prime Minister of Great Britain, will retain his portfolio in the Baldwin Cabinet by virtue of his victory in the Scottish Universities' by-election. He was defeated in the recent general elections.

MANITOBA LEGISLATURE TO HAVE BUSY SESSION

When the Manitoba Legislature commences its spring session on February 18, the members will have to debate the question of whether Manitoba will hand over to the Dominion Government the job of collecting the Provincial income tax. The above picture shows the

Farm Factories Suggested As Solution Of Some Problems

Revival of Old-Time Industries is Successful in Charlotte County—Opportunity in Almost Every Section of New Brunswick.

Factories on the farms in order to build up the farming communities and head off the disastrous competition which comes from other provinces are suggested as one of the means to bring back prosperity to New Brunswick. Miss G. Helen Mowatt, head of the Charlotte County Cottage Craft, makes the suggestion and she points to the success of the activity of her organization as an example of what can be done. Miss Mowatt has succeeded in establishing the weaving of home-

Christian Science The Power Of Endless Life

Peter V. Ross, of San Francisco, Lectures in the City of Saint John.

A LECTURE on Christian Science was delivered before a Saint John audience last week when Peter V. Ross, C.S.B., of San Francisco, spoke on "Christian Science: The Power of Endless Life." He was introduced by David Magee, who welcomed him on behalf of First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Saint John, and continued as follows:

"We have come here tonight to listen to a lecture on Christian Science entitled 'Christian Science: The Power of Endless Life.' You will hear the 'Old Old Story' told in a new way, a way that has proved of tremendous interest and marvellous value to thousands of individuals who have benefited by it physically, spiritually, morally and financially, through the unfoldment of God's Law as understood and demonstrated through the teachings of Christian Science.

Dominion Problem Still Unsolved Is The British View

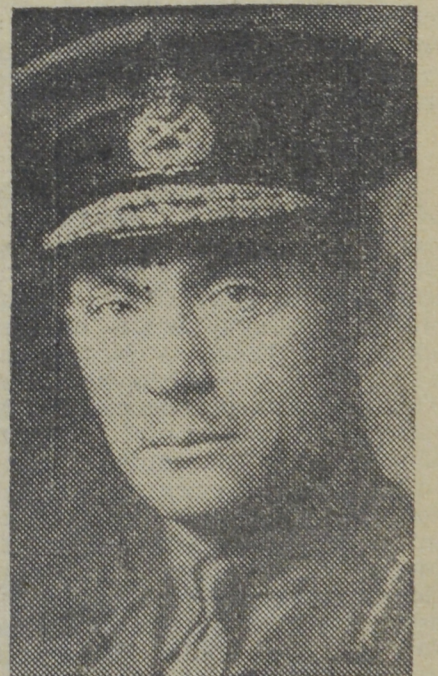

British North America is Still a Land of Promise.

We frequently come across complaints, made with varying degrees of justice—and injustice—about the absence of Canadian news in the British press and British "ignorance" of Canada. Often enough these take the form of denials that Indians, plumed and painted, may be seen brandishing tomahawks in the Place d'Armes on any week-day afternoon. The latest dementi to come to our attention is a heated refutation of the suggestion that Canadian cats wear snowshoes in winter! Of course, any industrious Briton with scissors and pastepot could equally assemble, particularly from correspondence columns, a hilarious string of mis-statements about Great Britain by uninformed Canadians.

Disputes of this sort are largely froth and foolishness. There are, however, real and serious grounds for disquiet in the "bad advertising" that Canada receives, from time to time, in the British press. "Blaming it on the other fellow" is sheer waste of breath. What we must recognize is that, failing to put our house in order, we cannot ask the British or anybody else to put up a faulty telescope to a blind eye. By far the worst "advertising" that we get concerns our railway deficits, our Provincial and municipal insolvency, our Dominion deficits. And these are undeniable. Frothing about Red Indians is idle while our credit in the London market is depressed by such broad considerations, with additional help from our McGeers, Hepburns and Aberharts.

This matter comes to mind for the reason that the London Economist, the foremost journal of its kind in the British Empire, has lately issued a review of Canada in supplement form. In the (Continued on Page 24, Col. 5)
