Farmers at Meeting in Halifax Consider Important Matters.

Recommendations urging the carrying out of a second tuberculosis test on cattle in the restricted areas of Nova Scotia and advocating a reduction in the municipalities and municipal councils of the province, were among the chief matters brought before the annual convention of the Nova Scotian Farmers' Association which opened at Halifax this week.

The recommendation for the tuberculosis test was brought up as result of its being applied to other provinces of the Dominion. The first test in 1925 revealed only 2.3 per cent. reactors among the 191.096 cattle tested.

The sessions included a banquet at which the principal speakers were Premier the Hon. A. L. Macdonald and Dr. H. F. Munro, superintendent of education for Nova Scotia.

A feature of the banquet was a debate between teams of Inverness and Cumberland Counties on the subject "Resolved that the backwardness of the Maritimes is federation or other possible hindrances."
