

SUMMARY OF NEWS.

Latest European News.

The Royal Mail Steamship Canada, arrived on Thursday evening last, 11 1/2 days from Liverpool, with dates to the 11th instant. We give below an outline of the most interesting news by this arrival:

The Corn markets continue to advance, and at Mark Lane prices of Wheat rule fully 3s. to 4s. per qr over last week, while Flour firmly maintains its previous value. At Manchester and Birmingham Wheat has advanced 4s. to 5s. Leeds and Hull 5s. to 6s., and Dublin 1s. to 2s. per qr. Flour has not followed the advance in Wheat. Flour at Liverpool was 3s. to 4s. per barrel higher, but the advance is scarcely maintained.

The "Patriotic Fund for Joint Services," was being most liberally subscribed to.

The Greek merchants in London, Liverpool and elsewhere in England have caused so much displeasure by their undisguised expressions of sympathy for Russia that the question is raised whether they ought to be allowed amongst us. So annoyed are they at any success of the allies, that on the Manchester exchange it has become a question whether they ought not in the mass to be excluded from the news room.

Reinforcements to the number of 4000 were to be sent from England within a week, (October 30th), to make up for the casualties of the campaign; this again brings up the British contingent to the strength originally sent out, namely 30,000 infantry, with the usual proportion of cavalry and artillery. "Without," says the London Observer, "being too much disposed to take a gloomy view of the subject, it is impossible to deny that great casualties must have taken place in an army of little more than 30,000—from war and pestilence—to require to be recruited by 4000 men, to fill up the deficiencies caused in the ranks. So it is however." The regiments lately arrived from Canada muster no more than 500 to 600 men.

Preparations are being made in England for the siege of Cronstadt, which, it is said, will be undertaken in the spring. 120 gun-boats are to be constructed, each carrying two heavy guns, and also 40 floating batteries, each carrying 70 guns. The fleet will be under the command of Sir Edward Lyons. Admiral Napier is sick.

THE SOULE DIFFICULTY.—It is satisfactory to know that the trouble between the United States and France relative to Mr. Soule has been amicably adjusted. The following announcement in the Manchester Examiner, of Nov. 4, places the matter beyond doubt:—

By a telegraph despatch, which came to hand at a late hour last night, we are glad to be able to announce that the French Government has receded from the position it had taken up with regard to Mr. Soule, and has withdrawn its prohibition against that gentleman passing through France.—Mr. Soule will leave London on Monday, for the seat of his diplomatic duties, and will pass through France on his route to Madrid.

It is certain that the whole influence of the British Ministry has been exerted, through Lord Clarendon, to produce the result that has been attained.

FROM THE SEAT OF WAR.

SEIGE OF SEBASTOPOL.—Still nothing decisive from the Crimea.—The siege of Sebastopol continues, and the carnage is described in all the accounts as being dreadful, and the sufferings of the people in that devoted city show the horrors of war in their most revolting form. The Bansee is represented as having brought intelligence to Constantinople to the 30th, to the effect, that the cannonade was violent on both sides, but without decisive effect although the damage done was great—contradictions which, in the absence of more detailed and explicit information, we are left to reconcile as best we may.—In the meantime it may be stated generally that our postal arrangements are execrable, and are thrown almost exclusively on the Russian despatches for such scraps of intelligence as convey any idea of the progress of events before Sebastopol.

But enough has transpired to show that the eventual moment for taking Sebastopol cannot be distant, for Prince Menschikoff had asked for three hours' cessation of the firing in order to bury the dead in the city, a request which was not complied with, for the allies retorted that they had no dead of their own to bury—a very significant admission of the state of things in the town and the fortress. Indeed the descriptions of the frightful state of Sebastopol, which this application to bury the dead seems to endorse, leave no doubt of its speedy subjugation, provided that the Russians are unable to raise the siege by attacking the allied powers in the rear—an attempt which it is now clear was made on the 26th, by the troops under General Liprandi, and of which the Russian telegraph made the most, as we stated in our last.

It is now no longer doubtful that the allies sustained a partial and temporary reverse before Sebastopol, on the 25th ultimo, although not of a nature to interrupt the steady and destructive progress of the siege. An unexpected attack was made upon that day, by 30,000 Russians upon the detached forts in the vicinity of Balaklava. The attack of the infantry was covered by Cossacks, and the first brunt of it was borne by the Scottish regiments and the Ottoman troops. In the morning, but the Scottish soldiers, in their position against the main body of the enemy, till succumbed to the main body of the Russians was driven back, as to be deprived of possession from which they kept up a troops. A French division the affair with their accustomed A very severe loss was suffered by English light cavalry, who were to the cross fire of the Russians. The loss of the enemy was a From a despatch in the P we learn that 8000 Russian 26th, made a second attack on the position of the allies, and were again defeated with great slaughter. "The allied armies (says the French account) repelled this double attack with the most brilliant success, and the enemy left 1000 dead on the field."

A Russian despatch, received by way of Warsaw, states that on the 27th and 29th the relative positions of the besieged and the besiegers remained unaltered, a satisfactory testimony that the Russians had taking nothing by their movements on the 25th and 26th.

A London Gazette Extraordinary of November 5th, published despatches received from Vice-Admiral Dundas, relating the progress of events from the 13th to the 17th of October. The first despatch relates to measures adopted by the Admiral for the defence of Eupatoria, in case of its being assaulted by the Russians. The second despatch narrates the commencement and progress of the siege of Sebastopol. In compliance with the urgent request of Lord Raglan and General Canrobert, the Admiral of the allied fleets agreed that the whole of the ships should assist the land attack on the 16th, by engaging the sea batteries north and south of the harbour. The ships accordingly took up their positions, opening fire at half-past one o'clock in the afternoon, and continuing till half-past six in the evening, when darkness supervening, the vessels were hauled off. The Admiral reports 44 killed and 266 wounded in this action. The Albion and Arethusa were so much damaged as to require to proceed to Constantinople for repairs; but the Admiral hoped to have the rest of the ships in a serviceable state in twenty-four hours. The Admiral bears the warmest testimony to the gallant conduct of the whole fleet, British and French. The extent of the injury to the forts of the enemy could not be ascertained.

The Russian accounts in part supplement the information of these despatches. Prince Menschikoff admits that on the first two days of the siege he lost 500 men, including Admiral Korniloff, the leader of the Sinope massacre, killed, and General Nachimoff wounded. We quote further the enumeration of the Times:—"The Constantine Battery, at the northern entrance of the harbour, was almost destroyed; two other sea batteries suffered; a large land battery was destroyed, nearly all the pieces being dismounted, and a redoubt was much injured, by the explosion of its magazine. The allies lost 96 men the first day, the Ratriation and the Agamemnon were much injured, some French magazines were blown up, and the French works considerably damaged, owing to their slightness and the heavy metal opposed to them. Here, then, we have the great problem of wooden walls against granite solved with as much success as ever was expected. The ships attacked the sea forts, for some time at short range, and almost destroyed the nearest without nearly so much damage or loss of life on their own part as inevitable takes place in a naval action at close quarters."

We do not learn when the attack by sea was resumed, but the latest accounts speak of the siege being continued with unabated vigour by sea as well as by land. There is a report from Malta that the Quarantine and Constantine Forts had been destroyed. Orders had been given to spare the town. The fall of the fortifications and the seizure of the place was only a question of time. The batteries of the allies had been advanced to within 300 yards of the Russian defences. It is thought that Lord Raglan leans to the humane measure of bombarding the town till its defences are demolished, rather than take it by assault, which would involve a fearful carnage on both sides. In this matter he will no doubt be guided by circumstances.

A Russian despatch states that nothing of importance had occurred in the Crimea up to the 2d of November. A despatch from Vienna reports that the siege works were so far advanced that, on the 1st of the month, the third parallel had been opened.

The repulse of the enemy in the attack upon the allies on the 25th and 26th appears to have been so decisive as to relieve the latter from any apprehension of the recurrence of similar assaults for the present. The loss of our cavalry had been greatly exaggerated, having amounted only to 124 men. In the sortie on the 26th the enemy paid dearly for his temerity, having left behind him a thousand men dead in the field or in the trenches. The Times remarks that "we now know the utmost distance in that direction, and may rest on our line of defences from the Tchernaya to Balaklava, as securely as the British army rested on the lines of Torres Vedras."

THE NEW BRUNSWICK. The members of the new Government, who require to be elected, appear to possess the confidence of the people, as we hear of no opposition to them in any quarter. The Hon.

in York County Hon. S. L. Tilley was elected by his constituents has been issued by the Governor, admitting American bonds, as enumerated in the special bonds to Her Majesty for the River St. John, free of duty; and the special duties are to be going into effect within six months.

John and vicinity has been visited by a continuous storm of wind and rain for upwards of fifty hours, and we regret to learn that a great deal of damage has been done by it. The whole of the Great Marsh has been covered with water in some places four feet deep and the communication with the country in that direction stopped, except by boats. The Storm appears to have extended over the Province, and has no doubt, wherever it has reached, occasioned much loss. Hammond River Bridge, and the Colebrook Mills have been swept away. The Paper Mill of Messrs Phillips, near the Reservoir, was partly carried away and the Reservoir itself much damaged. The dam at the Nail Factory of Messrs. Scovil, the Flour Mills of the Messrs. Reed, and the new Saw Mill lately erected at Musquash, have also been much injured.—Ch. Witness.

TRIAL FOR MURDER.—The young man Robert Reynolds was put upon his trial Monday for the murder of Samuel Fanoj, which took place last spring at the head of the ferry bridge, Carleton. It will be remembered that the parties had been quarrelling, and Reynolds drew a knife and stabbed deceased, which caused his death soon after. The jury retired to their room at 8 o'clock on Monday night; and after being out all night, returned into Court yesterday morning at 10 o'clock with a verdict of Manlaughter.—Morning News.

THE LATE HON. H. H. COGSWELL.—At a meeting of the Halifax Young Men's Christian Association, held at their Reading Room, on Saturday evening, 11th November, 1854, it was unanimously

Resolved, That this Association feel deep regret at the loss they have sustained in the death of their Venerable President, the Hon. H. H. Cogswell, whose early advocacy of the interests of the Association and continued attachment to it, commencing at his infancy and terminating only with his death, have endeared his memory to every member of this Association.

Also, Resolved, That a copy of this resolution, with an expression of Christian sympathy, be communicated to the surviving members of Mr. Cogswell's family.

MORE NEW VESSELS.—Two fine new ships have been recently added to the magnificent fleet of vessels now owned in this port, both having been launched a fortnight ago. One is a bark of over 300 tons, called the "Glen Almond," built at Merigonishe, and owned by Capt. Wm. Crear, a handsome and very strongly built craft. The other which is owned by that prince of Nova-Scotia ship-builders, Captain McKenzie, was launched at New Glasgow on the 4th inst. She is called the "ALMA," and registers 1109 tons; and as she now lies at the Mining Company's wharf, South Pictou, is much admired for her beauty of model and superior finish. The Alma is to be commanded by Captain Ewen Crear.—Eastern Chronicle.

After an unusually brisk season, our harbor is again assuming a dull and almost deserted appearance. There are but few vessels now waiting for cargo, and there will probably be very few arrivals after this date. The amount of coal shipped during the season now closing, we believe, will be found to exceed that of any previous year. The Mining Association have it in contemplation to extend their wharf at South Pictou, so as to increase their facilities for the loading of vessels.

This improvement will likely be completed in time for the opening of the shipping business in the spring.—Eastern Chronicle.

A MOST EXTRAORDINARY CURE EFFECTED BY DR. McLANE'S CELEBRATED VERMIFUGE.

New York, March 19, 1852. This is to certify that I have been troubled for almost four years with a choking sensation, sometimes so bad as almost to suffocate me, I employed two regular physicians, but to no purpose. I was then persuaded to try a bottle of Dr. McLANE'S Celebrated Vermifuge. I took two tea spoonful one dose. It soon began to operate, when it made thorough work. (I had a regular worm factory within me.) I should judge it brought away from me some two quarts of worms; they had the appearance of having burst. I took the remainder of the bottle at two doses. The effect was, it brought away about one quart more, all chopped to pieces. I now feel like a different person.
