It is therefore a pleasure to me not only that a structure is about to be reared in this place—evidently preparing itself to be a great city—where the Church is the place of the results of the property of the prope for a few days, the fire will be down in town. One or two milds are now in danger of being burnt on this river. Smoke so dense in town trust, for many generations; but that that structure has all the advantages afforded by grandeur of situation, and lines of eminent architectural beauty, which, I have no doubt will be faithfully wrought out by the gentleman who has charge of its construction—When I first preached in Carleton some seventeen months ago in the small place where the Presbyterian congregation yet worship—when I saw that every other denomination had suitable, if not magnificent structures for the worship of God, and when I saw the grow-ing importance of this portion of the city; its wis eves, its steam mills, the many houses which were growing up weekly as if by majer, and heard the din of its busy workshops, I began to think it was high time a suitable building should be rearred for the Presbyterian section of the church where, in holy emulation of sister Churches, she might yet be united with such as a considerable amount, having steep the construction of sister Churches, she might yet be united with properties of the churches, she might yet be united with the structures for the churches, she might yet be united with the structures for the case of the church where, in holy emulation of sister Churches, she might yet be united with the sum of the church where, in holy emulation of sister Churches, she might yet be united with the sum of the church where, in holy emulation of sister Churches, she might yet be united with the sum of the church where in holy emulation of sister Churches, she might yet be united with the sum of the church where in holy emulation of sister Churches, she might yet be united with the sum of the church where in holy end and the sum of the church where in the much sought after as those of Canada and that they command as high a price.

We have here this day laid the foundation of the edifice—only one thing more is now requisite to complete the undertaking, namely, money. The Church will probably, when completed, cost from £1500 to £1800. Where is all this sum to be realized, if not from the wealthy and liberal of St. John? There are three reasons by which I would endeavour to urge tiem to aid in this undertaking; they should do so for the glory of God, for the well being of immortal souls, and lastly, though of vastly inferior importance to the two, because this structure will be an honour and as the structure will be an honour and as the structure will be an honour and as the structure of the court of vice Admirality Prize Court during the absence from the Court of Vice Admirality and Admirality Prize Court during the absence from the province of the Hon.
