

Young Again.

An old man sits in a high-backed chair, Before an open door. While the sun of a summer's afternoon Falls across the floor. And the trowsy tick of an ancient clock Has reached the hour of four.

The Sin and Folly of Scolding.

Prevent thyself to evil.—Psalm xxxiii. 2. 1. It is sin against God. It is evil and only evil, and that continually. David understood both human nature and the law of God. He says:—Fret not thyself in any wise to do evil. If you cannot speak without fretting or scolding, keep silence.

sons advert to the early depravity displayed in the human mind, and know full well that "Evil is bound up in the heart of a child." But I do not say that a child's own folly or depravity is the principal cause of its vanity: I say, on the contrary, that the principal cause of this vice is the indiscretion and absurd conduct of parents. A fond father watches the prattles of an infant, or the early efforts of a schoolboy; and on observing any mark of smartness such as almost every little prattler or little scholar displays, he exclaims, "Oh, how clever! Well, now, John is a fine talker; John is a fine learner: John will soon be as wise as his uncle, or as knowing as his grandfather!" A fond mother not only remarks and mentions the bright eyes, or neat chin, or nice little hands, of her boys and girls, when they or she is alone, but she exhibits her darlings, and repeats their little sayings, in their own hearing, to any relative or casual visitor whom she can interest in maternal feelings; and when she invites them to play her, she tells them of the intended purchase of a charming dress which will "make them so beautiful," or, in order to fill their young heart with happiness, she puts some gewgaw and dashing apparel upon them, and with a flourish expatiates on the beauties of the dress, and on the charms of their own figure or appearance. Who does not see that a truth less of this conduct than is usually practised would produce all the vanity which makes the most of children start about at times as if they had been like a peacock? Even casual visitors and especially relatives, often create vanity in the child as readily as inconsiderate parents. "I once knew a little boy," says Mr. May, "of unusually bright and animated countenance. Every one who entered the house noticed the child, and spoke of his beauty. One day a gentleman called upon business, and being engaged in conversation, did not pay that attention to the child to which he was accustomed, and which he now began to expect as his due. The rain little fellow made many efforts to attract notice, but not succeeding, he at last placed himself full in front of the gentleman and asked, 'Why, don't you see how beautiful I be?'

Secrets between Husband and Wife.

There should be no secrets between husband and wife; for since the wife has been taken into partnership, she of course has an equal interest in the "concerns" and has a right to participate in her husband in relation to all his business affairs as she desires; and the husband is what he ought to be, a satisfactory answer will be given. This is one of the principal causes why there is dissension and unpleasantness between husband and wife—the latter kept from knowing that which she has a right to know. The husband who is not willing to make a confidant of a faithful and deserving wife, is not entitled to the name of husband—for who more than she is deserving of confidence? Did the husband more generally consult with his interested and care-taking companion, and ask her advice in matters pertaining to the management of a family, there is sufficient reason to believe that a greater degree of prosperity and happiness would attend the married pair in their conjugal journey. It is necessary that there should be unity of feeling between husband and wife, and that there should be confidence reposed in each other, for the journey of life cannot otherwise be made pleasant and cheerful. Long years are passed by many, in the conjugal state, who do not in reality know what the real solid enjoyments of a wedded life are—do not know what they may be. And why? Because there seems to be a barrier between the two joined together, which neither will consent to step over or break down; hence the common one of men is often lived out by many of our fellow creatures without having experienced the sweets of domestic felicity.

Wives, Cheer your Husbands.

How often we hear a man say, I am going to California, Australia, or some where else. You ask him the reason of his going away, and the answer is, in nine cases out of ten, I am not happy at home. I have been unfortunate in business, and I have made up my mind to try my luck in California. The world seems to go against me. While fortune favoured me, there were those whom I thought to be my friends, but when the scale turned, they also turned the cold shoulder against me. My wife, she that should have been the first to stand by me, and encourage me, was first to point the finger of scorn and say it is your own fault; why has not this or that one been so unfortunate? If you had attended to your own business as they have, you would not be where you are now. These and other like insinuations, often drive a man to find other enjoyments, other pleasures, in consequence of being unhappy at home. He may have children, but as he loves, he cannot enjoy life with them as he would; he may love them as dearly as ever; yet home is made unpleasant in consequence of the cold indifference of the wife. Now I would say to all such wives, sisters, and in fact all females, deal gently with him that is in trouble; remember that he is in trouble; remember that he is very easily excited. A little word carelessly thrown out may inflict a wound time can never heal. Then be cautious; a man is but human—therefore is liable to err. If you see him going wrong, ever meet him with a smile and with the kindness of affection; show that you love him by repeated acts of kindness; let your friendship be unbounded; try to beguile his unhappy hours in pleasant conversation. By so doing you may save yourself and children from an unhappy future. When a man is in trouble, it is but a little word that may ruin him; it is but a little word that may save him.

The Moment after Death.

What a moment that be! How vast its consequences must be! How overwhelming its revelations! Let us try by illustration to realize it. There dies a saint of God. The summons was sudden, but his house is in order, and with a smile on his face he bids a good adieu to the scenes and friendships of earth. A golden passage from point to point in his system; his vision grows dim, his tongue is silent, but in strong faith he commends his all to the Conqueror of death, and passes away shouting an everlasting victory. The spirit soars—angels attend it—the gates of the city are open to receive it—the king is seen in his beauty—and now heaven is enjoyed in all its bliss and glory. Waking up from the life-dream, the first sight is Jesus as he is, no flight through immensity—no pilgrimage of the spheres—for the everlasting arms are the first resting place of the disembodied soul—it will be in the bosom of Immanuel that

New Brunswick.

We learn from Fredericton that the Liquor Bill introduced into the House of Assembly during the present session by the Hon. Mr. Tilley, has been carried, by a vote of 17 to 17. It is very stringent, prohibiting not only the sale of liquors, but also their importation. Should it pass the Legislative Council, of which there appears to be little doubt, it will come into operation next December, provided it receives the Royal assent.

ALTERING THE VERSION OF PROFESSOR SEAR.

SEAR once said to his class, that when he began his ministry he used to find many texts where he thought he could improve the rendering, and so altered King James. Some fifteen years later he found less occasion to alter; and now, at the end of thirty years study, he could only admire the excellence of our common version, and seldom attempted to improve a verse.

THE INDUSTRIAL EXHIBITION OF CANADA.

The Grand Canadian Industrial Exhibition was opened with great eclat on Tuesday the 6th inst., in the presence of a vast concourse of people. The exhibition is held at Montreal, and the inauguration was in the City Hall in that place. Governor General Sir Edmund Head was present, with his lady, accompanied by a numerous cortege of civil and military officers. The ceremonies of the occasion were commenced by the reading of an address to His Excellency, by the Honorable Fr. Hincks, Chairman of the Executive Committee. The address was replied to by the Governor, who deposed the exhibition to be now opened. He spoke of the grand effect of industrial exhibitions, as being calculated to promote progress, and expressed his gratification at the character of that which opening he had been called upon to attend. Subsequently, another address in French was read by the Secretary of the Local General Committee, and was replied to by Governor Head in the same language.

FLORIDA.

Australia.—Australia dates to the beginning of December. Serious disturbances had occurred at Ballarat, arising from hostility to the payment of license fees and anger at the refusal of the authorities to deliver up on demand three persons convicted of previous acts of violence, which constituted apparently the principal grounds of the outbreak. The disturbances had assumed the form of a rebellion, and independence of the mother country had been declared.

FLORIDA.

The Melbourne Journals mention that the disturbances at Ballarat diggings had assumed the form of rebellion. The diggers had arrayed themselves and fought with the troops, the latter consisting of detachments of the 40th and 12th Regiments. Several of the soldiers were shot, and many of the diggers were slain. Mr. Cameron Reed was a prisoner in the hands of the diggers. Monster meetings had been held at Melbourne and at the diggings, at which the liberty of all free persons was demanded, as also the dismissal of Mr. Foster, the Colonial Secretary.

FLORIDA.

The Agents of the U.S. says the latter functionary had resigned. Melbourne was in a state of the greatest excitement and every one in the service of the government was sworn in as a special constable, not excepting the post-office clerks so that on the arrival of the Ar-

Revelenta Arabica Food.

Of all discoveries, none has conferred greater benefit upon mankind than that made by Du Barry some years back. We allude to a plant grown upon that gentleman's estates in America, called Du Barry's Revelenta Arabica. Its superiority over Pills and other medicines in subduing disease and keeping off the enemy is manifested in a marked degree in the metropolis, where the public health has lately acquired a tone it never attained before; thus, besides a great falling off in disease, there is a decrease in deaths from 10 to 15 per centum, whilst the births exceed the deaths by 40 per cent. Testimonials from parties of unquestionable respectability, have attested that it supersedes medicine of every description in the effectual removal of indigestion (dyspepsia), constipation, and diarrhoea, nervousness, biliousness, liver complaint, flatulency, distension, palpitation of the heart, nervous headache, deafness, noises in the head and ears, pains in almost every part of the body, chronic inflammation and ulceration of the stomach, angina pectoris, erysipelas, eruption of the skin, incipient consumption, dropsy, rheumatism, gout, heartburn, nausea and sickness during pregnancy, after eating or at sea, low spirits, spasms, cramps, spleen, general debility, paralysis, asthma, cough, influenza, sleeplessness, involuntary blanking, tremors, dislike to society, impatience for study, loss of memory, flusiousness, vertigo, blood to the head, exhaustion, melancholy, groundless fear, indecision, wretchedness, thoughts of self-destruction, and many other complaints. It is, moreover, admitted by those who have used it to be the best food for infants and invalids generally, as it never turns acid on the weakest stomach, but imparts a healthy relish for launch and dinner, and restores the faculty of digestion and muscular and nervous energy to the most enfeebled. For the benefit of our readers a synopsis of a few of 50,000 testimonials received by Mr. Du Barry upon the invaluable efficacy of his Revelenta Arabica Food—Case No 75—from the Right Hon. the Lord Stuart de Decles:—I have derived much benefit from Du Barry's Health-Restoring Food—Beneficial Case No. 4208.—Eight years' dyspepsia, nervousness, debility, with cramps, spasms, and nausea, for which my servant had consulted the advice of many, have been effectually removed by Du Barry's Health-Restoring Food in a very short time. I shall be very happy to answer any inquiries.—Rev. John W. Phillips, Ridding Rectory, Norfolk.—Case No. 1409.—Three years' excessive nervousness, with pains in my neck and left arm, and general debility, which rendered my life very miserable, has been radically removed by Du Barry's Health-Restoring Food.—Alex. Stuart, Ardaraeon of Ross, Skibberen.—Case No. 2704.—I consider you a blessing to society at large. It is not to be told, all the benefit Du Barry's Health-Restoring Food has been to me, and my little boy, since for a number of it every morning—Walter Keating, 2 Manning-place, Five Oaks, Jersey. Case No. 3995.—Thirteen years' cough, indigestion, and general debility have been removed by Du Barry's excellent Health-Restoring Food—James Porter, Adol-st., Perth.—Case No. 81.—Twenty years' liver complaint, with disorders of the stomach, bowels, and nerves, has been perfectly cured by Du Barry's Health-Restoring Food.—Andrew Fraser, Haddington, East Lothian.—Case No. 79.—Levon Cotage, Bromley, Middlesex.—Gentlemen,—The Lady for which I ordered your food was six months advanced in pregnancy, and was suffering severely from indigestion and constipation, throwing up her meals shortly after eating them, having a great deal of heartburn, and being constantly obliged to resort to physic or the emera, and sometimes to both. I am happy to inform you that your food produced immediate relief. She has never been sick since, had but little heartburn, and the functions are more regular.—Thomas Woodhouse, Messrs.
