

TOWN TALK.

What the Little Birds are Whispering Into the Ear of the Journal Editor.

Some Sundays ago two youths from this city hired a team at the Barker House stables, and proceeded to Marysville to "do the grand," getting on the way pretty well loaded. After taking in the sights they proceeded on their return to the city, and were "Cumming" along at a rapid rate, when they were arrested by Policeman Barker, and lodged in the lock-up, which was as "Darcas" a dungeon and not released until they had paid the penalty. It is to be hoped they will profit by the lesson.

A short time ago when some of the young men of the city were spending a Sunday afternoon in the grove, one of their number laid down on the grass and fell asleep, when along came a well known mischief-maker and clipped the moustache off one side of his "Beek." On awaking he put his hand up to his face, and appeared to be looking for something. When the truth dawned upon him he bolted out to the front like a bullet from a gun, and was last seen in search of a barber.

A West End engineer took off his coat at his work for the first time this year on June 19th.

Policeman Wright has got a clean shave. His appearance had become so well known ty the boys, whom he could not get in hailing distance of him before when he wished to arrest them; so he accordingly adopted this ruse.

The silly cry of the "harm" done by boys going in swimming in the city limits has again been raised by a prurient and puritanical public and an unjust antiquated and malicious law has been called in to prevent them from enjoying this harmless diversion. If the ladies do not wish to see them they should not be on or around the bank when they are thus disporting themselves. They would, however, suffer much more harm to their morals by balls, dances and trashy novels than by gazing on perfectly formed, healthy human bodies just as they came from the hands of the creator. Such prudery and mock modesty makes us sick, and is nowise in accord with Christian teaching or sound sense.

A well known Anglican bishop sought shelter in a blacksmith shop from a shower one day this summer, in which were congregated a crowd of boys. Of course, wrapped up in his clerical dignity he took no notice of these rough boys until a profane remark by one to another, started him out in the shower to his parochial mansion.

Talk about utilizing the waste power of Grand Falls for manufacturing and railway purposes:—There is enough motive power and energy going to waste in the tenement up stairs, 16 hours out of the 24, to run all the machinery in this province and a railroad to where the family came from.

Anderson & Walker, merchant tailors, opposite post office, attend to all orders promptly. Their cloths are all new and stylish.

An uptown tailor the other day went to a fire in a hearse. This is not the only one who has done the same if othodox teaching is true, and he may have a chance of repeating the trick.

 EDITOR BUTLER'S JOURNAL.—"After many days" I now write you, "The Hotel" 43 is now occupied by a respectful citizen and peace reigns supreme in that quarter. Under the persuasive influence of a stove cover thrown at the head of Robt. McK—'s spouse by Robt. that lady jumped through the window of their domicile. The fall was fifteen feet and strange to say although the lady landed on a swill barrel, broken bottles, etc., it done her no injury. Tommy W. of Smokey Hollow has done well. Since his removal from from Wilmot Alley, having lots of space at his residence Tommy utilizes the same as a "Hotel," save the mark. On his list this week were two banjo artists. They were from the sunny south and their faces were in mourning. However, that fact did not prevent Melinda from escorting some of the lady boarders from "the Alley," and for two days they held a "Grand Carnival." Scott Act whiskey flew, blood ran, but the "Queen" Hannah being kept completely knocked out the "Finest," that is the police, were unaware of the mirthful transaction.
