

The City Blacksmith.

A PARODY.

Under a lofty telegraph pole
The city smithy stands;
The smith, a mighty man is he,
With big and brawny hands,
And the curls upon his frowzy head
Are red as Afric's sands.
Week in, week out, from morn till night
You can hear his bellows blow
And see his well-built portly form
A striding to and fro
Across the shop and only stop
At the horses to cry: "Whoa!"
And fellows from the base-ball grounds
Look in at the open door,
While the street-loafers gather round
And talk the matter o'er, He'll loud exclaim—"How goes the game?"
Ho, Nornie, what's the score?"
He goes on Sunday to the grove
And sits among the boys
And shares their mirth and merriment
Their pleasures and their joys
Or on a team to Barney Breen's
His holidays employs.
Toiling, rejoicing, sorrowing
Onward through life he goes
And only stops to get his meals,
To smoke or blow his nose
For, do their best the "Sons of Rest"
Can't count him among those.
Thanks, thanks to thee, my ruddy friend
For the lesson you have taught,
Although from me for many months
The JOURNAL you've not bought,
Your friendship or your enmity
Will cost me not a thought.

OPP. STONE BARRACKS,"THOUGHT MY HEAD
WOULD BURST."A Fredericton Lady's Terrible Suffering.Mrs. GEO. DOHERTY tells the following remarkable story of relief from suffering and restoration to health, which shouldclear away all doubts as to the efficacy of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills from the minds of the most skeptical:

"For several years I have been a constant sufferer from nervous headache, and the pain was so intense that sometimes I was almost crazy. I really thought that my head would burst. I consulted a number of physicians, and took many remedies, but without effect. I noticed Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills advertised, and as they seemed to suit my case, I got a box and began their use. Before taking them I was very weak and debilitated, and would sometimes wake out of my sleep with a distressed, smothering feeling, and I was frequently seized with agonizing pains in the region of the heart, and often could scarcely muster up courage to keep up the struggle for life. In this wretched condition Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills came to the rescue, and to-day I state, with gratitude, that I am vigorous and strong, and all this improvement is due to this wonderful remedy.
