

If you get in a fix like this come to us,

BARETT'S CYCLE SHOP, Opp Sterling's Flour Store.

Queen Alexandra.

No one will accuse us of cringing to Royalty, or any undue love for kings and queens as such, but we admire goodness and worth, and above all an unassuming manner combined with a kindly heart and a disposition to help and encourage the people instead of lording it over them, as the only qualities in people of high station that will command the love and respect of the common people, and these qualities are possessed by the present Queen of England to a remarkable degree. Born in the most democratic monarchy in the world, Denmark, the daughter of a king beloved by all the people, who did not look upon them as subjects, but as brothers, who would walk out through the streets of Copenhagen unattended by an escort, enter the stores, make purchases, and chat with the clerks and proprietors, to whom he was well known, and often speak and shake hands with acquaintances among the poor along the streets. she inherits these noble qualities of fellowship and goodwill to all and is astonishing the British aristocracy by her plain and unassuming manner, her disregard for pomp and display and her strong democratic principles. How different to Wm. Waldorf Astor and Annie Gould, who were born in a country where rank and privilege are not recognized and who now try to vie with the bluest blood in their vulgar and ostentatious display and their disregard for the common people. Never hear of them helping the poor or doing anything that is useful or beneficial to humanity. So long as kings and queens do not put royal pretensions and prerogative above their duty to their fellow citizens they need not fear the people. Long live Queen Alexandra. Would there were more like her.

A second John the Baptist has appeared in our city in the shape of a large and well-proportioned colored man who holds forth on the square every night, calling loudly on the citizens to repent. He carries neither purse nor scrip and unlike the other dispensers of the gospel does not ask for the offerings of the public. No one seems to know whence he came, or whither or when he is going. He supports himself by odd jobs throughout the day and returns every evening refreshed to his labor of love. The fact that he has not as yet gained any adherents does not seem to discourage him.

Groceries and Provisions.

HEAVY FEED, OATS AND LAND PLASTER,

FOR SALE LOW BY

James A. Bell, GEO. GILMAN.

Telephone 159.

SHIRTWAISTS FOR 50 CTS.

AT

DEVER BROTHERS.

LADIES

We have just opened a choice lot of waists which we will sell at

50 CENTS.

Come and examine them, they are extra value and the style correct.

Also some handsome crash and pique skirts, selling at $1.00, $1.10, and $1.25.

DEVER BROTHERS.

See our Prices.

Parlor Suites (6 pieces)	$19 00
Bedroom Suites,	10 00
Bed Steads,	1 75
Bureaus [Birch]	6 50
Commodos,	2 50
Kitchen Cupboard,	9 00
Sideboard,	8 50
Lounges,	4 50
Couches,	6 50
Hall Rack,	4 50

Chairs all prices from 37 cts. each to $6.50, other goods in proportion.

GEO. GILMAN.

York St., Fton.

New Ice Cream
and Beer Garden.

In addition to my large saloon on York Street I have recently started along the roadside at Government Lane, near my residence an

Ice Cream and Beer Garden

For the accommodation of the Travelling Public and the people of that vicinity. Groceries and Confectionery also sold. A competent clerk always in attendance. Drop in as you come along.

W. A LINDSAY