

AROUND TOWN.

Items Gathered by the Editor and his Reporters.

The W-rink-le has been taken out of the backbone of the new rink.

THE JOURNAL editor made a startling discovery last week. While strolling along York Street he happened to look in at the window of the Reporter office, and the first thing that met his eye was a newspaper lying across a railing containing in plain view of the passer by a quarter column advertisement of—what do you suppose?—not Cook's pills, acetylene gas or S. S. conventions, but

HENNESSY'S BRANDY.

Shades of John B. Gough, Neal Dow and Frances Willard, what is this world coming to?—Hennessy's Brandy in any form in The Reporter office. It is easy to see that Mr. Pitts is not to the fore as formerly or such an untoward event had never happened. It is only justice to the proprietors, however, to say that the above ad. was not in either The Reporter or Religious Intelligencer.

Mac. is a good, decent, respectable fellow, who works at the Aberdeen Mill. Mack is a city merchant with a varying disposition. Mac. had occasion upon a Sunday to go into Mack's shop, when the proprietor was out. Mac. who is a genial and sociable fellow, entered into conversation with the clerk, who is somewhat of the same disposition, and the talk turning on sports, the clerk brought forward the boss's rifle (a dandy) for Mac to admire. While in the act of examining it and praising it, who should come in but the proprietor, who gruffly ordered the clerk to carry the gun into the back room and turning to Mac. ordered him out and told him that he did not want any loafers in his shop on Sunday.

The above affair does not concern the editor of THE JOURNAL to whom the both men are friends, but for the sake of that very friendship we would give Mack a friendly tip—to find out first what men are worthy of a little privilege and what not if he does not want to lose good customers.

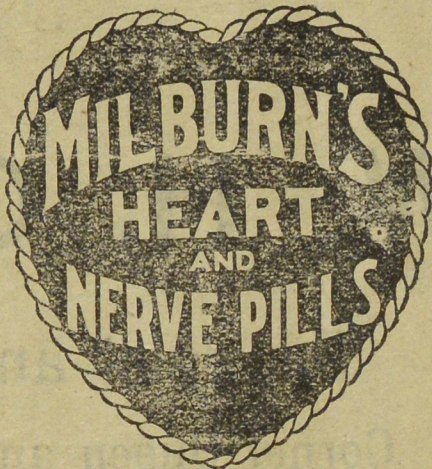

THE JOURNAL extends its congratulations to a newly wedded pair, hoping that every Inch of their pathway may be strewn with roses and that prosperity may descend upon them in Torrens.

If a child eats ravenously, grinds the teeth at night and picks its nose, you may almost be certain it has worms and should administer without delay Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup, this remedy contains its own cathartic.

Wonder what the followers of Dowie, the re-incarnated Elizah, in this city, who are all loyal subjects, will think of the calling down he gave King Edward in "Leaves of Healing" of Sept. 13. It sounds very much to us like his talks to King Ahab that we used to read in Sunday School when a boy.

Mrs. Wm. Ireland, 170 Queen St. East, Toronto, wife of the well known shoemaker, suffered from indigestion and constipation for over 15 years. Nothing did her any good till she tried Laxa-Liver Pills, which cured her.
