

HEART TO HEART TALKS With My Friends and Patrons.

Three months of summer and steady employment have slipped by, and to-day being Labor Day I have a short breathing spell to recapitulate and write this. But not for me the A. O. H. picnic at the Hermitage or the "Silver Slipper" at night—Oh, no; I have neither the time or money at my disposal. The flowers may bloom by wood and field, the birds sing their sweetest by dale and down, the forest leaves turn to crimson and gold, but I have no time to enjoy their beauty and melody, chained as I am to toil's incessant wheel, with only a chance for meals and repose and a chance to turn round twice and go to church once of a Sunday.

Only when all the beauty has faded from the landscape and the downy coverlet obliterates all traces of green, the bare branches are whirling in the blast and the brook has its lips sealed with an icy lock have I the opportunity to go abroad.

But I have no reason to complain, and much for which to be thankful.

While the old mill is making a record for itself this summer and I find it harder work to keep her clear, I also find myself abler to do the work, and while it is work that I should not have to do, when nothing easier offers it keeps me square with the world. I paid $1 to-day on a bill of $45 contracted for printing material in 1902, which my ejection from the Macpherson house and the refusal of the friends who gave me an asylum for my plant to allow me to put up my press and do any printing, has rendered of no value to me.

But I will live in hopes. Some day, perhaps, I may have a good press and a full supply and the means of printing my own paper in a good office, if I don't die in the meantime.

But sufficient for the day is the good as well as the evil.

Unlike Fraser, Mr. Estey did not deny me the chance to live after serving him faithfully for one season, and my relations with the boss and my fellow-workmen could not be more pleasant and satisfactory.

The remittances so far are Rev. R. H. Macpherson, Margaree Harbor, C. B., 35 cts.; Rowley Manzer, Marysville, 35 cts.; Haley Bros., Burton, Sunbury Co., $1.

To show that we are not yet forgotten by our country friends, among whom we have spent many happy days, we publish the following from a friend who has always remained steadfast and kind.

We would gladly spend several hours in jail so as to be near those good friends again, as that is where they live, being the keepers of the Sunbury Co. jail.

DEAR MARTIN,—I send you one dollar for my Journal by Miss Nellie Burns. Should have given it long ago—it was partly neglect—and not having it at times. However I trust it will be all right now. Please credit me with the cash in full and continue the Journal, for I like its tone very much indeed.

Laugh and Grow Fat.

We must laugh before we are happy, lest we should die without having laughed.

It is really laughable to hear some people talk and b'ow about other make of stoves being just just as good as the Moffat Stoves.

We know they never took the trouble to spend 5 minutes to thoroughly examine them and compare points.

Progression is the order of the day and the Moffat People have taken advantage of the times and produced at a large outlay an up-to-date stove, and it is all right.

Please call and examine them
in our ware rooms, the nicest
show rooms in the city.

We have just landed another car load, so we can afford to laugh too when you make a comparison,

R. Chestnut & Sons.
