SOME REMARKS

Utlanders in South Africa? (The result of which was to put the Utlanders out and put Chinese coolies in their places) should be planning to stifle the legitimate aspirations of the Indian people for responsible government. Consistency thou art a jewel.

The fulsome eulogy made by press and pulpit over the death of Senator Wark, seems to the casual observer silly and uncalled for.

Granted that he was an honest, honorable and respectable man; is it possible that honesty, honor and respectability are so scarce as to almost deify their possessors. Mr. Wark was in no sense of the word a great man. He lived by and for himself and his immediate household, and we have never yet heard that the poor or any deserving institutions have been beneficiaries of his wealth. The one remarkable thing he did was to live to the advanced age of 101½, but if it had not been Senator Wark there would not have been much notice taken of that, as John McNamara died a few years ago at the great age of 102, and the papers chronicled the event with three or four lines, and to-day John Brown, the colored man, is over 100 years old, still the papers have never even mentioned the fact. This shows that the local press as well as that of the country, are as a rule on the side of the classes rather than the masses.

The suddenness with which Japan yielded the points in dispute between her and Russia after hanging out so tenaciously, almost take one's breath away.

She had no doubt good reasons, both from a humanitarian and political standpoint.

It will stop the further shedding of blood, which would have been almost fruitless, as Japan has got about all she can expect from Russia, covering all the points and principles she contended for, and she will now be left free to bend her energies toward the improvement and expansion of herself and the emancipation of Asia from foreign control.
