

Some Recent Deaths.

Whenever our space will permit we always give a brief notice of those who have departed who have come into our lives in any way—to our friends a hearty and sincere eulogy—to those who are not, a notice, but never anything unfavorable.

The first of our dear friends on the list is of Marysville, who during the years we have known him has ever treated us as a brother and friend. To say that we are sorry over his sudden and untimely death is to put it very mildly. We would be sorry for one who was not a friend, and for the loss of such a true and tried friend we are inexpressibly shocked beyond expression. The only comfort we have in this great affliction is the strong belief that he has gone to a better place. If any one ever deserved it, he certainly did, for as father, friend and citizen, he was one out of a thousand and all that could be wished. To his afflicted family, who are among our staunchest personal friends, we extend the sympathies of a heart only less afflicted than theirs.

ALEX. BROGAN

WILLIAM HAGERMAN.

The late C. P. B. conductor, whose death took place the other day, was one of the best known and beloved men who ever lived in this community. We have known him for a long time and had ample proofs of his kindly disposition and generous and unselfish character. Never in all we have heard of him, and he has been talked about a great deal, as he has ever been a popular character—have we ever heard a derogatory word about him, and no mean, dirty or selfish action can be laid at his door throughout all his long life. This assurance will surely prove a comfort to his bereaved relatives to know that half the Province mourns with them, of which number we are far from being his least friend.

POSTMASTER HILYARD

passed away on the 5th inst. at Victoria Hospital as the result of an operation for internal troubles. He leaves behind him a widow and two daughters. His wife was a daughter of the late Thomas Temple.

KING CHRISTIAN OF DENMARK

Who died recently had a long and prosperous life and was well beloved by the people; and according to all accounts he was well worthy of their love and esteem, for to the virtues of kindness and generosity in him was joined a democratic simplicity very rare among kings. He was easily approached by any one, and would often walk unattended through the streets of Copenhagen, go into stores, make purchases and carry them home with him, and stand and converse with the "common" people on the streets and in doorways. If all kings were like him the principles of democracy and Socialism would not be near so strong. The King of England's wife is his daughter and inherits in a large degree his noble character.

The V. D. B. (Five Dollar Bill.)

The world is hard for those who've met with chill Misfortune's frown, And nearly every one is apt to kick

you when you're down;
Yet through its pride and greed there shimes a light o'er land and sea,
'Tis when the editor is sent a V. D. B

When Christmas came it brought good cheer to me from steadfast friends,

And what is better still, 'tis not with it their favor ends;

And one good friend who dwells beside the ever surging sea

A letter sent and slipped inside a V. D. B.

He's rich and can afford it, but how few of those who are blest

With wealth in store think of the poor, the crippled or distressed?—

I'm sure that Morgan, Rockefeller or even Carnegie

Would not have sent the editor a V. D. B.

So, blessings on his worthy head and on his silver hair,

And length of years and honors be my daily, nightly prayer—

Good health, success and happiness and sweet prosperity

To the man who sent the editor a V. D. B.

And when at last the day must come that calls him to his home

With saints to stand a ransomed band in Paradise to roam,

To Heaven's door his path is sure and he will find the key

In the hand that sent the editor a V. D. B.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

The liver is the largest gland in the body; its office is to take from the blood the properties which form bile. When the liver is torpid and inflamed it cannot furnish bile to the bowels, causing them to become bound and costive. The symptoms are a feeling of fulness or weight in the right side, and shooting pains in the same region, pains between the shoulders, yellowness of the skin and eyes, bowels irregular, coated tongue, bad taste in the morning, etc.

Billie's Marriage.

At tailor's we get Fits that suit
And some that never do
But Billie Fitz in everywhere
As sock into a shoe.

And in the matrimonial boat
He's just embarked upon
He'll safely sail and calmly float
As any from St. John.

Then tip your glass to lad and lass,
Long may they grace our town—
Unlike his goods, his name and fame
With us will ne'er "go down."
