

Later Condolences.

We finish up the kind and sympathetic letters of friends near and far who have done all they could to comfort us in our recent bereavement with the following:—the first two from two old and dear friends, and the other two from men whom we have never even seen, but whose hearts reach out and overleap all the barriers of distance and strangeness, showing the nobility and humanity of their characters. Other letters have contained references, touching and deeply appreciated by us particularly that of an old-time friend, Mrs. E. L. Hutchings, of Caribou, Me., which we cannot now put our hand on.—Editor.

My dear Mr. Butler,—

Only the other day, as I was leaving for a short visit to Cuba, did I hear the sad news of the death of your little son. Believe me, you have my deepest, most heartfelt sympathy in your bitter loss. I know so well what it is,—how deep and lasting the wound. Oh, I am most sorry, most sorry.

Your friend sincerely,

My poor Martin,—

Word of your great trouble has only just reached me but I want to write now and tell you how deeply sorry I am for you. I cannot tell when anything has made me feel quite so badly. I have always thought with gladness of you in your home with your wife and child, contrasting that life with the old days when you were next to a wanderer, going up and down the earth. I sympathized with you then in those old days, and I rejoiced for you later, and I weep with you now, Martin, and my heart is wrung for you in your grief and loneliness. And yet "we cannot tell, we do not know, which is the greater blessing, Life or Death." Maybe your dear boy's development was arrested here to give him a better chance later on. Everything is for the best, we can be sure of that, and "rightly understood and accepted, all experiences are good, the bitter ones best of all."

With deepest and most heartfelt sympathy to yourself and your wife, I am always,

Your sincere friend,
LOUISE C. GLASGOW.

Martin Butler, Esq.

Dear Sir—The March number of your Journal has been received by me and I much regretted to see that you had lost your little son; I had a similar experience a few years since except that mine was not an only son. Time will heal your sorrow and you will later feel that to have escaped the "slings and arrows" of this life has been a gain. It is pleasing to note that you had many sympathizers, and some seem to have realized that "the hands that help are better far than lips that pray." My Spiritualistic friends, of whom there are a good many in this section, will tell you in regard to your bereavement that

"Here lies the empty chrysalis,
The butterfly has taken wing
In fairer climes than this."

You have often heard people say: "Its only a cold, a trifling cough," but many a life history would read different if, on the first appearance of a cough, it had been remedied with

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP.

It is a pleasant, safe and effectual remedy, that may be confidently relied upon as a specific for Coughs and Colds of all kinds, Hoarseness, Sore Throat, Pains in Chest, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Quinsy, and all affections of the Throat and Lungs.

Mrs Stephen E. Strong, Berwick, N.S., writes: "I have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup for Asthma, and have found it to be a grand medicine, always giving quick relief. We would not be without a bottle of it in the house."

Dr. Woods Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper. Three Pine Trees is the trade mark and the price 25 cents at all dealers. Refuse substitutes. Demand Dr. Wood's and get it.

For my part I trust it can be said of all the dead.

Respectfully,

Dear Friend Butler,—

As the glad season of Easter approaches I learn by reading in The St. John Sun (copied from your valuable Journal), an account of the death of your precious little Martin. As I read it I thought of my own little tots, and also felt that little Martin's life, though for a brief period here, was not lived in vain. "Is Martie Covered Up?" I will take the liberty of reprinting in the F. D. & B. this month, and trust that those who read it will see a friend in the writer. You have my sincere sympathy in your hour of bereavement. I am sure that He who carries our burdens will sustain you and your wife as you have added a little jewel to His crown.

I am
Yours sincerely,
F. W. WALLACE,
