TOPICS OF THE DAY

What the Gossips have to Remark about

The Trend of Matters Political, Parliamentary or Otherwise.

Some Touch-and-Go notices of All Mentionable Manner of Things.

The postmaster, or whoever it is that has had the post office grounds put in decent order is deserving of credit. There is just one thing required now to make them look as neat as they should be; and that is to remove those posts or have the chains properly hung between them. For our part we do not see that the posts or chains are required there at all.

The band stand on Parliament Square has not been as well patronized as formerly. It is the best place in the city for such purposes, then why not make use of it instead of playing elsewhere?

How about that Bad Debt Collecting Agency whose agents were here a short time ago? We have not heard of any great benefit which has been derived from the scheme as yet or may be it is a case of the agency getting the capital and some of our merchants the experience.

And so we are to have a visit from the female base ballists—well, we have always considered base ball a rough game for men but when women will undertake to play it we are forced to the conclusion that some of them will attempt anything. We are not very partial to females making a public display of their genteel shapes but if they like to do so there will no doubt be many who will be on hand to see.

Any one who conducts a business, whether that business be large or small should have definite ideas as regards the most important feature of it, and that is judicious advertising. Yet the secret of cleverly and attractively placing his goods before the public is something which many a man of business has not learned. If the true art of advertising is not found among those who make advertisements, where is one to look for it? Yet State clearly and definitely what the dealer wishes to bring to the attention of the public is a point on which the most experienced business man often falls short. Definite, legitimate advertising always pays, but he should see to it when he has goods which he desires to place before the public that he first knows what he wishes to say, and then says it clearly and in as few words as possible.

Ladies race—prize, handkerchief and glove box, Miss Baxter.

Girls' race—prize, work box, Hennie Crockett. Putting weight—prize, umbrella, Wm. Seery.

Ring toss—prize, berry dish, Mr. Tapley. Mr. Geo. H. Davis was the holder of the lucky number (426) which secured the gents coupon prize, a handsome gold filled watch.

The ladies coupon prize, a large silver water tilter, was drawn by No. 351. Mrs. A. D. Macpherson secured the prize, a silver castor, awarded the most popular lady. Mr. Frank Strickland did the honors in that line for the gentlemen, and carried home the lamp awarded the most popular gent.

The guesz prize was won by Miss Bertie Young. The actual number of toothpicks in the bottle being 1243 while her guesz was 1237.

One Hundred and Three Years Old. Alexander A. Carr who was born at Burton, Sunbury Co., in January, 1788, is now living with his son at North Amity, Me. Although in his 103rd year, Mr. Carr, is able to move about and recently attended and enjoyed a family re-union. In 1818, Mr. Carr married Jane S. Hagerman, of Queensbury, N. B., who died in 1842, leaving four sons and six daughters. WISHED TO DRAW $5,000,000.

Demand of the Pope on a Rome Bank Causes Consternation. A telegram from Rome to the Figaro states that banking in that city was somewhat excited Monday by the threatened suspension of the Bank of Rome, an old Catholic institution.

An order from the Pope for the withdrawal of $2,000,000 deposited in the bank to the credit of St. Peter's Pence was the occasion of the trouble.

When the bank received the order it did not have the necessary funds on hand to meet the demand, and was forced to notify his holiness of the situation of affairs, and request that he issue an order countermmanding the first one.

The officials of the National bank learned of the difficulty in which the Bank of Rome was placed, and offered to assist the latter in any way in their power. It was feared for a time that serious trouble would result from the sudden demand for such a large sum, but the Pope delayed the withdrawal of the $2,000,000, and a crisis was averted.

"HOLY COAT OF TRIER."

A Garment Supposed to Have Been Worn by Christ.

The "Holy Coat of Trier" supposed to have been worn by Christ while on exhibition at the Cathedral, at Trier, for six weeks, commencing Aug. 18th. It has been on exhibition only twice this century, in 1810 and in 1844.

The relic is supposed to have been given to the bishopric of Trier as a present, by St. Helen, the mother of Emperor Constantine, upon the latter's conversion to christianity.

It is a tunic about five feet long, cut narrow at the shoulders and widening toward the knees, without any seam whatever. It is enclosed in an outer casing of purple and gold cloth, supposed to have been added in the seventh century in order to preserve the relic. During the exhibition special trains will be run daily from Cologne and Coblenz to Trier, and 2,000,000 pilgrims are expected to visit the place.

A Man With Five Wives.

At a London police court, a Charles Valentine Smith, saddle and harness maker, of Buxton street, Goswell road, was charged on remand with feloniously inter-marrying with Ann Riley, a widow laundry woman, of Kupert road, Holloway. Mrs. Elizabeth Keiley, of Euston Square, said that in 1869 the prisoner married her. She discovered that he had a wife living, and presented him for bigamy, when he was sentenced to nine months' hard labor. After this (the police said) the prisoner joined the army, and married a woman, who was now in America. His first wife was still alive, but no proceedings were taken against him in connection with this case. In 1882 he married another woman, Rebecca Taylor, but prior to this marriage his first wife had died, and consequently Taylor was his lawful wife. Last Christmas day the prisoner married Ann Riley, but subsequently they quarreled and separated, and he, having taken a watch belonging to Mrs. Riley, was given into custody by this lady on the double charge of bigamy and theft. Three of the women whom he had married were now in court. He was committed for trial at the criminal court.

A HORRID DEATH.

A Drunken Spree Results in the Death of a Man.

Last Saturday the Gataineau Valley Railway was the scene of a terrible accident. It seems that three men went out to the Peché on a hand car or pump early in the morning. Here, it is stated, they got on a spree and started for home in that state. When within a few miles of Chelsea the pump left the track and dashed the men sixty feet below. Two of them were injured and looked for their comrade. They found him under the truck, the handle of the pump had struck him at the juncture of the breast and bowels, and completely transfixed him. They hastened to Chelsea and told their story, and the services of a doctor having been secured, started with a train back to the scene of the accident. When they reached it they could not see their comrade, but a trail of deep life blood led them to a disused hut, 100 yards away, to which the poor fellow had dragged himself for shelter. Directly the doctor saw him he knew death was certain to speedily result. The poor fellow died about an hour after the accident, having suffered inexpressible agony.

A Large House.

The St. John Gazette says: Manager Somerby wore a benign look of contentment Thursday evening, for every reserved seat at St. Andrew's rink was taken twenty minutes after the doors of the Parlor were opened. A very large crowd was present, and seemed to enjoy the many interesting and attractive features of the entertainment. The stage performance was good; the sleight-of-hand work of W. D. LeRoy, seeming to catch best with the audience. Dudley Foster, the small man is just what he was claimed to be. He is amusing in his ways and as bright and clever as he is small. The Paper King makes some marvellous transformations of one piece of paper and interested the spectators in many other ways. About the rink are booths, where fancy work is being done, glass cut and pottery jars made, and in all Manager Somerby has brought here this time a show that should take, for a much longer period than he intends to remain.
