Notes and Suggestions of Practical Utility

FOR THE FARM, FIELD, GARDEN AND

Interest for Our Country Readers.

Break and work the bull. Look after your new grafts. No dairy was ever too clean. Cruelty is a sign of cowardice. Don't mistake opinion for fact. Oat hay is a good thing. Try it. Don't pet and play with the bull. Farmers' trusts are now in order. Men like to report their successes.

Give the farm credit for your support. Common sense is a big thing on a farm. Cows fed roots seldom get off their feed. Save everything you can for winter feed. Grudges are poor property to accumulate. A good turnip crop may be made to pay. The privy vault is a nuisance and danger. Manure applied to sod suffers little waste. The undisciplined boy is a natural savage. Keep something green growing on the soil. Even rabbit breeding may be made to pay. Reduce the acres and enlarge the buildings. Bugging time is a busy season of the year. Do not be hasty in making radical changes.

The Poultry Yard.

It is to the interest of exhibition associations that the managers overthrow the oldtime custom of making the poultry depart ment the receptacle of the odds and ends of the exhibition, and of attaching an insignificant value to the poultry interests that is not source of wealth to the people. In a comparison of the poultry industry with that of other stock, it will be easily found that it Long stacks are better than short or round ranks as high, if not higher, than any other produce, either animal or vegetable, on the farm, in proportion to capital invested therein, and the capital invested is no insignificant It does not cost much to have a sugar-maple sum. The wealth created by the poultry in dustry is more evenly distributed among the people than that from animals, and therefore, nore persons are interested, the exhibition demonstrating this fact by the poultry department being more largely attended than any other, not only the farmers, but their What a boy produces he is apt to know the wives and children take an interest, to say nothing of the large number of persons living in towns and the suburbs of cities, who never
